

Speaker 1 [00:00:21] Ok. Well, let's start. How old are you?

Speaker 2 [00:00:29] I'm [16-20].

Speaker 1 [00:00:39] How long have you and your partner been together?

Speaker 2 [00:00:44] [1-5] year and [1-5] month, it's been [1-5] month since we made a year. Almost [1-5] month, no, uh, a little less than [1-5] month.

Speaker 1 [00:00:55] Ok. Do you have children?

Speaker 2 [00:01:07] No.

Speaker 1 [00:01:07] Who do you live with?

Speaker 2 [00:01:07] I live with my family. My parents, and my sister.

Speaker 1 [00:01:14] What is your main source of income?

Speaker 2 [00:01:18] No, I don't have any. I'm a [occupation].

Speaker 1 [00:01:31] How would you like me to refer to your partner? Boyfriend, companion, partner, what would it be?

Speaker 2 [00:01:46] Boyfriend. In fact, should I send you his contact? Because he will have an interview too, right?

Speaker 1 [00:01:54] It could be. But I can send you the link that you can also pass to him.

Speaker 1 [00:02:04] Let's go. Can you tell me a bit about your love story? How did it start, how did you meet?

[Portion Redacted]

Speaker 1 [00:03:24] How do you compare the quality of your relationship to the quality of your friends' relationships?

Speaker 2 [00:03:42] My friends, I don't even know if I compare, but I don't know. Good question. Are you asking in terms of intimacy, these things? If I think I'm more intimate with him than... I don't know.

Speaker 1 [00:04:01] So, we want to understand your perception of quality. So, It's what you consider.

Speaker 2 [00:04:10] I think my relationship is very, very intimate and very open, you know? I feel like I can be myself with him 100%. I don't know if it's the same for my colleagues. I can't speak for others, but for me. I'm sure I feel in a very safe place, you know? A space of a lot of security . And I hope it's like that for others too, but mine is very much so.

Speaker 1 [00:04:34] Do you mind telling me how many romantic partners you've had?

Speaker 2 [00:04:49] Wow. Nothing serious, but I think [1-5], [1-5] besides him, so he would be my [1st-5th].

Speaker 1 [00:05:06] How do you compare the quality of your current relationship with your previous ones?

Speaker 2 [00:05:15] Wow. Very, very different. I think this is really the first real relationship I'm having. I think. I'm young, right? But the last ones were when I was very young, still inexperienced, I didn't know what I was doing, if I really loved that person. And I think my boyfriend is the person I love for the first time. I never loved anyone. He was the first person I really loved and still love. So, it's a matter of love. I think I never had love for the other partners, but he really is the one I feel this feeling for.

Speaker 1 [00:05:59] For you, what makes a relationship high quality?

Speaker 2 [00:06:07] I think it's what I said, I think security, you know? Feeling safe with that person, openness to dialogue, you know? I don't know. I think knowing that person is there in your life, like, not to (...), uh. I don't know how to explain it, but as a true partner. You can count on them for anything.

Speaker 1 [00:06:32] Ok. What would make a relationship low quality in your view?

Speaker 2 [00:07:00] Low quality. It's precisely the lack of dialogue. Feeling that you can't be yourself, open up both in bad and good moments to the person., Feeling that you're somehow molding yourself to fit into their perceptions and worldview. I think that's very wrong and to me, it's a perspective of a bad relationship. So, I don't want that for my relationship.

Speaker 1 [00:07:30] Ok. Do you have a clear and specific example of a moment when your relationship passed this security to you, these qualities you consider make a good relationship?

Speaker 2 [00:08:03] An example, like that? It's very frequent, there are several things that happen. But I can't remember directly. But um. Oh, I don't know. Sometimes, many times I feel that there are things I can't talk to my college friends about, even though I trust them a lot. Things that disappoint me in friendships and family too. For any everyday problem, I feel that he is the person I can really count on, and he is also the person I feel I can point out things that disappoint me about him too. And then he talks, he dialogues, you know? He's a person I really feel secure with. And also physical things, like, I don't know, walking on the street and he puts me on the inside of the sidewalk, so he stays closer to the street. Basic things like that, but they are kind of silly examples. But I think there are more things that I can't remember very well, but many things he does that bring me security, you know?

Speaker 1 [00:09:06] Yes. But they were great examples. For you, what is most important in a relationship? I know you already mentioned some of this, but any more things like that too?

Speaker 2 [00:09:26] I think believing in the person too, you know? Like, you believe the person can also improve in aspects both personal, individual, their mood, personality. The person becoming a better person and also professionally. The person believes I will be able to graduate, be a successful person, I believe a lot in him, and I think he also supports me a lot in that sense.

Speaker 1 [00:09:53] Ok. One question for you, what is love?

Speaker 2 [00:10:15] Love. There are many definitions for love, but I think. Oh difficult. I think love is when you feel that person brings you good feelings, feelings of completeness, of feeling. I don't know, in a way. Secure too, this security thing is very important to me. But something that leaves you. I don't know, in ecstasy, in various ways. I don't know how to define. Sorry.

Speaker 1 [00:10:59] No, it's really a difficult question. How important do you consider love in a relationship?

Speaker 2 [00:11:16] How important? Very important to me. The most important thing. There's this difference between love and passion. I think love is much more. I don't know. I think it encompasses much more than just the physical, you know, the image you have. You have a soul connection with that person. So, I think love is the most important thing in a relationship, by far.

Speaker 1 [00:11:47] Ok.

Speaker 2 [00:11:49] Romantic, romantic relationship. In this case, right.

Speaker 1 [00:11:54] How do you know your partner loves you? What does he do that makes you feel and realize this?

Speaker 2 [00:12:04] Yes, I think he doesn't invalidate my feelings, he has this compassion. For me, in my conception, men like to give quick solutions. But he has this. He developed this ability dating me, so he doesn't ask but sees that I don't want a solution, I just want support and comfort. So, I think this often shows that he loves me, you know? Him wanting to only support me at the moment. And also, all the issues of, you know, giving me that security, giving me that support, and believing in me as a person.

Speaker 1 [00:12:51] What challenges do you face in your relationship?

Speaker 2 [00:12:55] Challenges. I think then the story(...). Challenges, bad things, more negative things, right?

Speaker 1 [00:13:05] Yes, challenges, difficulties, things like that.

Speaker 2 [00:13:12] I don't know. I think personalities are never the same, right? But I think sometimes I feel that I'm a bit, because I'm a woman. So, this hormone issue. But sometimes I'm a bit bossy, a bit. I don't know, a bit resistant to some things and I don't know. It's my first real relationship. So, there are some things I'm still adapting to, you know? And also, [redacted]. For me, it's a challenge in the relationship. I'm still overcoming these things, but I think he is very understanding. But sometimes I feel I'm very resistant and it bothers me about myself. But that's more or less the challenges I see.

Speaker 1 [00:14:26] Do you and your partner have any disagreements and difficulties, any things in the relationship where you differ a lot?

Speaker 2 [00:14:37] I think not. No, not that I know of. We have different personalities, you know? He is from [field] and I'm from [field]. So sometimes it gives a few(...). He is a man, I'm a woman, so sometimes there are things that are reproduced due to gender issues, conception, and worldview. I think the political issue was also something we diverged on a bit. That we, actually. We met. Our first meeting, just the two of us, not that one with many couples, was on [event] I even end up feeling like this, because he had a different political opinion from mine at the time. Nowadays, I think I'm more open to knowing more, realizing I didn't have as much knowledge as him. But it was a bit tense. But I think it's reasonable. But it never caused a fight or anything. But the political divergence did exist.

Speaker 1 [00:15:44] Ok. The next question would be: how often does it happen? But you made it clear it's very low, right?

Speaker 2 [00:16:02] Very low. Very rare.

Speaker 1 [00:16:11] How do you resolve these divergences?

Speaker 2 [00:16:15] Dialogue, right? I think it's a very important issue for me. This issue of dialogue. I never stop talking to him. He never stops talking to me. We are always open. And I think it's by talking. There were even occasions when he came to my house, we just sat on the couch, played music, and started talking about politics, you know? Like, a very dialogical issue. We always talk about everything and try to, right? I And try to smooth out any divergence.

Speaker 1 [00:16:53] Besides these strategies of dialogue and conversation, what other strategies or ways do you use to maintain the relationship?

Speaker 2 [00:17:09] Maintain the relationship? We have a lot of contact. I think we talk every day via cell phone, by message. His routine is different from mine. A bit. He works in the afternoon during the week. So we try to see each other a lot on weekends, usually, but also during the week, right? Since we study in the morning, sometimes I meet him. So this contact, physical contact, being close, spending time together. And what was the question again? What we do to maintain, right? So, this contact. And usually, I go to the university, I drive, he doesn't have his own car yet. So, we go together. So, really, being together is what keeps us. Quality time.

Speaker 1 [00:18:18] Would you say your relationship is good for you? And why?

Speaker 2 [00:18:23] Yes, it's good for me. I think he makes me a better person in every way. And I don't know. I also like the feeling of sharing my life, my thoughts with someone else. I find it very beneficial, you know? And it makes me a better person, for sure.

Speaker 1 [00:18:53] Do you believe your relationship has changed something in you?

Speaker 2 [00:18:58] Yes, it certainly has. I think he made me a much more. I think willing to live, I don't know. I think being a person who is more open to others too. I think when I was younger before dating, I didn't have much of this idea of(...) Anyway, he also gave me a lot of future expectations that I didn't have before. Issues of having a family, having children, having a consolidated career. So, it gives me. It gives me this desire to achieve things in the future too.

Speaker 1 [00:19:42] Do you believe your partner has changed during the relationship?

Speaker 2 [00:19:55] A lot, yes. As I said, we met through a mutual friend in high school and everyone says, there are even videos, recordings of him being a troublemaker. And he was very different in high school, from what I know. But of course, you're different with friends than in a relationship, but they say he was much wilder, more uninhibited, let's say. And I think in a relationship, he became a bit more, not introspective, but I think he started to think more about himself. He was always very polite. From what I saw, he was well brought up by his parents and all. So, I think I, in a way, enhanced this a bit., I think he has. I think he has a protective instinct with me, you know? So, I think this developed a lot in him and I think I changed(...) [him]. I changed him for the better, I think. We always do each other good, in my perception.

Speaker 1 [00:21:17] Just a moment, ok? Now I'll share the screen with you.

Speaker 2 [00:21:48] All right.

Speaker 1 [00:22:34] Can you see? Well, from one to nine, how would you rank this statement "my partner really listens to me"? Being one, not true at all, and nine, completely true.

Speaker 2 [00:22:59] I think eight.

Speaker 1 [00:23:14] And how about this other statement "my partner cares about my needs"?

Speaker 2 [00:23:19] I think nine on this one.

Speaker 1 [00:23:24] Well, why did you answer eight on the first one? The first question.

Speaker 2 [00:23:30] About listening, right? Because I think. Sometimes it's normal to have resistance, right? Sometimes when the person tells you something from their worldview, what they feel, sometimes you don't agree with that immediately. So, sometimes there are some issues where I feel he doesn't really listen to me. But as I said, after a dialogue, everything works out. But it's not every time. Not everything is completely true. That's why I chose eight.

Speaker 1 [00:24:11] Do you have a concrete example of one of those moments when he had more resistance?

Speaker 2 [00:24:22] I have a concrete example. This will be anonymous, right, everything I say won't be identified. Just to confirm?

Speaker 1 [00:24:32] No, it won't, it won't. You can be assured.

Speaker 2 [00:24:36] I think it's a lot about the sexual issue that I mentioned that I'm still adapting a bit to this. I'm still getting into this rhythm, right? And I think sometimes when I don't want it as much, sometimes he has a bit of resistance to give in, saying, "No, it's okay, we'll leave it for another time, another day." And sometimes it's an issue that bothers me, him not really listening to me. Later he ends up giving in. But I think these are basic needs too. So, for me, it's also fine, you know? I'm still coming to terms with this issue, but yes.

Speaker 1 [00:25:18] Right. And about the score you gave, nine? Why nine? My partner cares about my needs.

Speaker 2 [00:25:34] Well, I think it's completely true because it's what I feel from him, you know, seeing me as a person who has needs. Like wanting, for example, a concrete example, wanting a little space one day, without seeing each other. I can't go two days without seeing him, otherwise, I go crazy, but one day without much social contact, I like. I'm a bit more shy and more introspective sometimes. So, I like to stay in my room at home relaxing, and he understands this very well and other needs too, like having to study, having to do other things that don't involve the relationship itself. And that I think he really cares about. So, that's why I gave nine.

Speaker 1 [00:26:37] Well, now let's get into sexual topics. If you're not comfortable answering, it's okay, you don't have to. Well, have you been having sexual relations lately?

Speaker 2 [00:26:54] Lately. Lately, no, the last day was on our anniversary.

Speaker 1 [00:27:03] Ok.

Speaker 2 [00:27:03] But then there are my issues too. I use a contraceptive that makes me have very regular bleeding. So, it's a bit complicated for me, this. It's a biological issue that I have too.

Speaker 1 [00:27:22] How satisfied are you with your sex life? And why?

Speaker 2 [00:27:29] How satisfied. I think I'm always very satisfied. I always enjoy it a lot when we have relations. It's always very good for me too. He always makes sure that I feel good and all. It's just not very regular, right? And I'm a person who, unlike him, doesn't feel the need to be so regular. So, uh, but for me, I'm very satisfied with what we've done and will still do for now.

Speaker 1 [00:28:03] Ok, I'll share the screen here again. Overall, how satisfied are you with your relationship?

Speaker 2 [00:28:44] I think completely satisfied.

Speaker 1 [00:29:01] Just a moment. Well, you said you are completely satisfied. Now let's quantify it. How would it be on a scale from 0, not satisfied at all, to 10, completely satisfied?

Speaker 2 [00:29:45] Because I said completely, it should be ten, but I don't know if it's contradictory, but I think I would put nine because of the sexual issue. But I don't know if it was contradictory to what I marked before.

Speaker 1 [00:30:06] No, it's not. It's okay. Well, that's it, we're nearing the end already. I'll make a brief summary of the answers you gave, just to see if there's anything else you'd like to add. You are [16-20] years old, you have been together for [1-5] year and [1-5] month. You don't have children. You live with your family. [Portion Redacted] You didn't want to compare your relationship with your friends', but you consider yours very good, intimate, and open in the sense of being able to open up and talk about everything with a lot of confidence and security. You have had [1-5] other romantic partners before, but you said this is the [1st-5th] more serious relationship, as you said. He is the person you really love. You consider that what makes your relationship high quality is security, openness to dialogue, partnership, being able to count on the person, things like that, and low quality would be a lack of dialogue, not being able to open up and having to mold yourself to fit into the other person's life. Here it's just a brief summary, the full transcription will be done from the video. Well, you said the most important thing in a relationship is to believe in the person and they make you a better person both personally and professionally. Love to you is something that completes you, transmits security, makes you feel in ecstasy. For you, love is the most important thing in a relationship. It's much more comprehensive than passion. You said you know your partner loves you because he doesn't invalidate your feelings. He has become a more compassionate person, instead of just wanting to solve things. He is able to offer you more comfort, give you security, and believe in you more as a person.

Speaker 2 [00:34:03] That's right.

Speaker 1 [00:34:06] Challenges would be different personalities. You said you are a bit bossy and resistant. And also, sexual issues. The divergences between you would be a bit of different personalities. Gender differences. And there were also political issues. And you resolve this with dialogue and conversation. Other strategies for maintaining the relationship would be a lot of contact, quality time, spending as much quality time together as possible, and seeing each other whenever possible. Well, you said that your relationship is good for you, that you feel like a better person in every way and that you like sharing your life with someone else. The relationship changed you, making you feel more willing to live. You are more open to other people and related to the future, when you started considering starting a family, things like that, having a longer life with someone, with him. And regarding him, the relationship changed him. Made him become more. I lost the word you said. You mentioned he was very troublemaker before and all.

Speaker 2 [00:36:02] I didn't live with him, but they said he was more...

Speaker 1 [00:36:12] Regarding the statement that my partner really listens to me, you gave eight because of some resistances with different worldviews, different worldviews and also a bit because of the sexual issue that he had a bit. Sometimes there was a bit of resistance to giving in at times when you weren't very in the mood.

Speaker 2 [00:36:45] Yes.

Speaker 1 [00:36:48] Regarding the statement my partner cares about my needs. You gave nine. You said it's how you feel. He understands your space. When you want to stay more alone, in a more introspective moment. And also, regarding your studies, he gives you that space. Regarding your sex life. You haven't had relations lately due to more biological issues, as you explained. But you feel satisfied and like it, even though it's not very regular, you're comfortable with it.

Speaker 2 [00:37:41] Yes.

Speaker 1 [00:37:45] Well regarding how satisfied you are with the relationship, you said completely and quantifying you gave a nine, because of the sexual issue. Is there anything else you would like to add?

Speaker 2 [00:38:07] No, I don't think so. It's a very nice survey. It's very nice to talk about.

Speaker 1 [00:38:12] Yes, it's been very interesting. Seeing people's perspectives is very interesting. Ok, So, as stated in the consent form, you marked the options you. You would like how your data would be treated, but here as stated there you could change that at the end of the interview. Would you like to keep it as it is or change anything?

Speaker 2 [00:38:55] I would also like to review because I found the first and second very similar. But the non-identifiable issue caught my attention, but in a way, I think the first one would not be identifiable either.

Speaker 1 [00:39:07] It would not be. I'll say here. Option 1: excerpts from the transcription can be shared, as long as they are not identifiable. The transcription not of. Wait. Maybe there is an error, let me see properly. No, this would be the second option. So, the second option there, was the option you marked which is. So. Excerpts from the transcription can be shared, as long as they are not identifiable. The non-identifiable transcription can be read by other researchers. That's what you marked.

Speaker 2 [00:39:57] But I wouldn't mind if the complete transcription is shared too, you know? As long as I am not identified either, you know? What I said, of course, that would not be included, right?

Speaker 1 [00:40:12] No, no, no. Not identifiable is another option. This one. The entire transcription will go through a review so that sensitive and possibly identifiable excerpts can be anonymized. So, you would not be identified, there is another issue. That, despite this option, there is a minimal chance, minimal chance that someone who knows you well can associate the information with you. But no identifiable information would be shared. But it would be anonymized and no identifiable information would be shared. But with this minimal chance of someone who knows you well. Being able to associate you.

Speaker 2 [00:41:00] I think I don't mind, because I think you can change it to the first one, right? Because it has more richness of information in it, right? This first option can be. Should I send it to you again?

Speaker 1 [00:41:14] Then ask to come back for you to remark and sign. Can it be? Can it be a signature with the mouse or the same, you know, draw your name?

Speaker 2 [00:41:31] And how do I do that? Through [Google] Docs, do you know?

Speaker 1 [00:41:37] There are some sites that facilitate this. Let me see. I'll look for it here. That government portal also, [Website] It also signs, the digital signature there.

Speaker 2 [00:42:08] Has a signature there. Ok, I'll see it then. But I can come back here and send it to you today.

Speaker 1 [00:42:21] Ok? By [Website], it also does, signs there. But. Another thing that I always end up forgetting, but I just remembered. Then I'll send you a form and the link to a small form on your email. Then you send me your email where I'll send you a form to answer. It's just a few more questions like these, so in case you want to add a bit more to some things and clarify some questions. Things like that, is it okay?

Speaker 2 [00:43:12] Sure. I have only a question, will you give proof of participation or not?

Speaker 1 [00:43:17] We can, we can. It's okay, we'll issue it and send it to you later, ok?

Speaker 2 [00:43:28] All right.

Speaker 1 [00:43:31] So that's it. Thank you so much for participating. And if you have any other couple friends and such that you want to refer, we are accepting. So ok, thank you very much. I'll send you another link for you to send to your boyfriend. For the interview.

Speaker 2 [00:44:01] Will you want to talk to him now? Now, now? I'll send it to him.

Speaker 1 [00:44:06] If possible. Better. .
