

Interviewer: So, again, a good day, hello [Name], and thank you again for your participation. So, now let's get things started with your age. So, how old are you?

Speaker: I'm [26-30] years old.

Interviewer: [26-30], okay. And how long have you been together with your partner?

Speaker: We've been together since [Year], so approximately [1-5] years, but, you know, officially more than [1-5].

Interviewer: So, do you already have a children?

Speaker: We don't.

Interviewer: But who lives in the household, or how's your household?

Speaker: I rent alone in [City], so I live on my own.

Interviewer: Okay, are you living with your family, or just living alone?

Speaker: No, I'm just living alone, because I have a friend here.

Interviewer: How about your partner?

Speaker: My partner, [Partner's Name], is living in [City] with his family.

Interviewer: Okay, I see. So, how about your main source of income? Do you mind if I ask your job?

Speaker: Yeah, of course. Source of income, I'm employed at [Company Name], been there for approximately, [1-5] years already, in [1-5] months.

Interviewer: Okay, and so that's your current and main source of income?

Speaker: Yes, that's the main source of income.

Interviewer: Okay, I see. So, how would you like us to address your partner, [Partner's Name]?

Speaker: What do you mean, address?

Interviewer: How would you like, would you like to call him a partner, boyfriend, lover?

Speaker: Comfortable with that.

Interviewer: So, now, can you tell me about your love story?

Speaker: Love story, so back in [Year].

Interviewer: That's pandemic, right?

Speaker: Yes, in the middle of pandemic.

Speaker: So, he invited me to, you know, to go with him to the beach with his friends. And that's, you know, when it started, and everything that we met, you know, we've been dating, it's like we've dated for, if not mistaken, [1-5 years]. And then after that, after [1-5 years] of dating, then that's the time that, you know, we got officially, you know, got together.

Interviewer: I see. So, are you sharing the same friend group? Are you in the same circle?

Speaker: Not really, not really. Because when I met him, he is totally a stranger for me and his friends. So, yeah.

Interviewer: So, what happened? Why did you go to the beach all of a sudden with your friends?

Speaker: Yeah, well, it's pandemic, you know, when you're locked in and you're thinking of going out something and then there is, you know, like a person, like a Facebook friend. He's actually my Facebook friend.

Interviewer: I see.

Speaker: And then, yeah, so happened that he invited me and then I went, so. Okay. So, the friends, all the friends in the same group are, you know, strangers.

Interviewer: Okay. So, you just organized and then you went to the beach. So, how long did you spend on the beach? Or how long did you get them to know the stage?

Speaker: Yeah. Well, like, if my memory serves me well, I think it was four days, something like that. Four days, four nights. And then, ever since that we met, like, every Saturday, we will, you know, I go to his house and, you know, sort of dating. And then, yeah, after a year, then, you know, we got officially together.

Interviewer: I see.

Speaker: I asked him, actually, if it's okay to court him because, you know, I've actually just been seeing him on Facebook. So, I had a little, you know, crush on him. And that's also one of the reasons why I, you know, I decided to go with him, even if, you know, I haven't seen him before.

Interviewer: So, I see. And then you got officially together.

Speaker: Yeah. [1-5 years] after. It was [Month] when we met, May [Year]. And then we got officially together, [Month Year].

Interviewer: Mmm, I see. So, that's [Month] [Year].

Speaker: Yeah. Roughly. Almost [<1 year] or very much. It feels like [1-5 years] of waiting. Yeah. But then that's fine because, during those months, [Month]. Is it [<1 year] months or more than [1-5 years]? I think around [<1 year]. You know, every single week that I'm with him, it, you know, it feels like everything is going fast. So, I didn't feel like it's [<1 year] already. So, yeah, I enjoy every single moment that I was with him during those periods.

Interviewer: I see. So, just a beach trip led to a cute relationship. Okay. That's good to hear. Now, with that, how would you compare the quality of relationship, of your relationship with [Partner's Name], to that of your friend's relationship?

Speaker: Okay. Well, since I love him, so it's much more intimate. And I think it's just, I don't know, it's incomparable, I think, because I'm the type of person that I don't have, you know, that much of friends. Like, I only have you. I'm a very type of a cold person, really, especially with friends. I don't really show, you know, my true self, my emotions and whatnot. It's just, you know, very certain people. But, you know, with [Partner's Name], like, you know, he knows me. And that's what I, you know, like about him. He knows what I want. He knows what makes me angry. He knows what makes me laugh.

Interviewer: So, I see. Do you mind if I ask your hometown or where do you really live?

Speaker: Um, well, I just rent here in [City A]¹, but I grew up in [City B].

Interviewer: Oh, I see. So, you're renting for work? Is it for work purposes?

Speaker: Yes, for a work purpose.

Interviewer: Okay, so, if you compare it with your friend's relationship, it's more intimate.

Speaker: And I'm more open with [Partner's Name] than with my friends.

Interviewer: Okay. How about, diba, your friends also, your friends might also have their own romantic relationships. How about the quality of your relationship with [Partner's Name] to their romantic relationships?

Speaker: Well, I would say I put really much effort on [Partner's Name] than, you know, putting much effort on my friends, I would say. It's not like, you know, my world revolves around [Partner's Name], but, you know, I'm just not the type of person who really is, like, serious about friendship. It really depends. It really depends on the people. It really depends on the, you know, it really depends on the level of friendship. So, when it comes to the quality that I have with [Partner's Name], I guess it's much more like, you know, my secrets and all, like, I, you know, I tell it to [Partner's Name] rather than telling it first to my friends. So, it's like, if I have a problem, even if I have a lot of friends, even if I'm surrounded, you know, by my friends, I won't tell them. But with [Partner's Name], like, every time I have, you know, hard situations, I just feel safe to, you know, to tell them everything.

Interviewer: So, if you compare your romantic relationship to that of your friends, it's really more open in terms of your secrets or your personal life.

Speaker: Yes.

Interviewer: Okay. So, can I also ask about your romantic relationships in the past? How many have you had in the past?

Speaker: Okay. [1-5]

Interviewer: Okay. So, okay. So, do you mind if I ask if, since, you know, do you mind if I ask your gender?

Speaker: Yeah, I'm a gay man.

Interviewer: Okay, gay. So, those relationships in the past, were they all with--

Speaker: Oh, yes. With gay. With gay men, I think.

Interviewer: Okay. So, how would you compare the quality of your relationship to those of your previous relationship?

Speaker: I'm not sure if it has something to do with the current course that [Partner's Name] is taking, which is [degree program], but, you know, he reads well. He knows what I want. And, you know, it's like, there's a much deeper connection between, you know, me and him, you know, comparing it to my previous relationship. It's like, I feel now that my previous relationships were like, you know, like, I was in a mature state and [Partner's Name] helped me, you know, develop myself even more, know what I want, you know, know myself. So, it's kind of, you know, he helps me with those things.

Interviewer: Oh, so he's currently taking [degree program]?

Speaker: Oh, yes.

Interviewer: So, he's currently studying or already getting?

Speaker: Yeah, he's currently studying.

Interviewer: I see. So, can you cite concrete examples of how he develops you even more, similar to what you mentioned before?

Speaker: Yeah, it's like back then, I didn't know that there's like reasons why I behave, you know, like, I possess certain behavior, but now every emotions, you know, that I have, every emotions that I get, it's like, I know, at some point, you know, I know where it is coming from, you know, I am more of, like, understanding the root cause, understanding the reason behind my emotions. And, like, you know, he has helped me a lot to understand it even better.

Interviewer: I see. That's good to hear. So, for you, what makes a relationship high quality, since we're talking about relationship quality, what makes it of high quality?

Speaker: A high quality relationship for me means both of you are growing together. But at the same time, still understanding both of your, you know, insecurities, understanding each and every loss, and accepting mistakes, and just, you know, making it like a free flow kind of thing relationship that we don't force ourselves that much, like to be with together, to be together. It's like, you know, I don't force him, he doesn't force me. We don't put much pressure on our relationship. So, yeah, it's kind of like that. It's like, you know, as an example, when he wants to meet with his friends, I let him when I want to meet with my friends, then he would let me. So, that kind of thing. It's like we respect each other. We respect each other's time and the like.

Interviewer: I see. How about low quality? What makes a relationship low quality?

Speaker: I don't want to say low quality is like fighting all the time, because it's normal for me in a relationship, there are, you know, some disagreements, but low quality is not talking about those agreements, or I mean, those disagreements, those arguments. Like when you just let it, like say, for example, there's something that you don't want and you don't let your partner know about it, then I think it's, you know, like low quality. It's like when you're not very open, you know, due to your partner, you're not telling them what you want and what you don't want. Yeah, something like that. I see. So, just to clarify, high quality is more of growing together and that you're really open with each other's insecurities, flaws, and low quality is more on. So, it's more focused on communication when you're looking into relationship quality.

Interviewer: I see. And for you, what are the most important things in a relationship?

Speaker: Most important things is, yes, communication. I feel like it's important that you talk about everything. Well, it's not like after a fight, you're going to have to, you know, to discuss everything that's going on. At least, you know, it's at the same time giving time to each other, again, not forcing everything, take time to heal. And, you know, after a fight, maybe, you know, once you feel ready to talk about it, then that's the perfect time that, you know, that, you know, when we talk about it and discuss, you know, the arguments. Can you repeat the question again?

Interviewer: Most important things.

Speaker: Most important, yeah, communication, right? Communication, and what else? I would say knowing his love language and knowing my love language as well, like knowing, you know, what we want, and knowing what could, you know, trigger our relationship to be, you know, broken, you know, something like that. It's very important that you know what your partner would make you happy. And at the same time, you know, giving it, you know, it's not just knowing what makes them happy, but of course, you know, providing as much as you can.

Interviewer: I see. That's good to hear. So would you say that your relationship with your partner is of high quality?

Speaker: Yes, I would say so.

Interviewer: How would you say so?

Speaker: Because we communicate, he knows my love language, and yeah, he knows what I want and what else? And we take, I would say, we take every day, like slowly, we don't put much pressure again on our relationship. So those are the values.

Interviewer: I see. Okay, so with that, you also mentioned that high quality relationship is when both of you are growing together, but you still understand and respect each other's time and security laws. So would you say that the relationship is good for you?

Speaker: Yes, this relationship is good for me. [Partner's Name] is kind of a very open person actually. Like, whenever I would like to do something that is, I would say, whenever I would do something like, it's not something negative, but, you know, lack of a better term, you know, but he would understand it, you know, like something that might, that people might think is bad for our relationship. But, you know, when we discuss it together, like he's very open, he's very open-minded, something like that.

Interviewer: Since you also mentioned that, you know, you're working and he's studying, so how does it affect the relationship? Or how can you say that you're growing despite the different areas of life?

Speaker: I would say I get much inspired because I always get the validation from him. He always tells me that I'm good, you know, that I'm doing my best. Like, we do not only celebrate the wins, but we also celebrate some of our, you know, losses in life. And yeah, what I like about him, he, you know, even if sometimes, you know, I'm having a bad day at work, I would just talk to him and, you know, that burden, you know, gets rid of suddenly. So, yeah, it doesn't affect me, you know, like negatively. It really makes me inspired to do much better at work.

Interviewer: I see. So, that's really good to hear. And you also mentioned that, you know, in a relationship, communication, love language is important. So, for you ba, what is love?

Speaker: Love is a feeling and an action. So, you know, if I feel that, you know, I want to be with him, then I, you know, I think it's valid. And of course, you know, you do not only have to feel it, but you have to also show it, right, through actions. And again, identifying first what he likes, what, you know, makes him interested, you know, and, you know, helping him achieve it is, you know, something that I always do with our relationship. It's really kind of like a give and take, you know, relationship.

Interviewer: And with that, how important is love in relationship for you?

Speaker: Love is important in relationship because it makes you do better, you know, not only at work, but, you know, on a daily, on a daily living, like, especially if the person that you love really, you know, helps you to be more motivated, like, helps you to know yourself even better. So, I think that's, you know, that's important.

Interviewer: And how do you know that your partner loves you? So, in your case, how do you know that [Partner's Name] loves you?

Speaker: Yeah, I know that he loves me because he also gives, you know, some things that I want. Whenever I am in a bad situation, he would always be there to listen, you know, to talk things out, to help me solve puzzles. And, yeah, that's pretty much it.

Interviewer: I see. So, it still boils down to listening and talking things out and, of course, his presence in your life.

Interviewer: So, now let's talk about conflicts and challenges. So, what do you see are challenges in your relationship?

Speaker: Okay. The very first thing that kicks into my mind is some little arguments, especially when we play [game name]. Yeah, for some reason, you know, when it comes to decision making, when it comes to picking the right heroes, you know, that's where the argument.

Interviewer: Yeah, I can relate so much.

Speaker: So, pretty much that's it. What else? Oh, maybe there is, well, I think it's a major thing because my perspective when it comes to religion is different from, you know, how he perceives it. And sometimes whenever we discuss it, there's just like some disagreements that's happening. I do not agree with what he says. He does not agree with what I say. So, sometimes we just, you know, decide not to talk about it because, you know, it really, it really feels like toxic for me because he doesn't want me to win. I won't let him win as well. It's like, you know, this is the type of discussion that, you know, we've been having, you know, like since we were together, but we never sorted things out, you know, up until this time, he doesn't agree with me. I do not agree with him. And that's great. And that's great. We just don't let it make or have an effect on our relationship.

Interviewer: So, do you mind if I ask your religions, what's your religion?

Speaker: Well, I'm not really active. But my religion is, I'm not sure if you're familiar with [religion]?

Interviewer: [Religion]? Is that it?

Speaker: [Religion]. Because it's my religion ever since that I was born. I was not very active, mainly because, you know, like growing up, I tend to know more what I am, I tend to know more what I want.

But in terms of the belief when it comes to religion, so it's just that, you know, some items that I do not agree with, you know, with him.

Interviewer: So... How about [Partner's Name]? Do you mind if I ask?

Speaker: I don't think he has one. I think he believes that there is some, you know, there is a creator, but he does not believe in religion.

Interviewer: Okay, I think there's a term for it. I see. So conflicts are more on little arguments with [game name], and then the major is more on beliefs about religion. So how about a fight? Do you and your partner fight?

Speaker: Just arguments. And yeah, arguments when it comes to the like religion and whatnot. But it's mainly about it because it's like, you know, we agree on a lot of things and it's just one single thing that we don't agree on. We don't fight that much really, aside from [game name]. I couldn't think of anything else.

Interviewer: How often would you say this fight? Or is it that often?

Speaker: Every time that we play [game name]. So every day. Every day.

Interviewer: Okay, so we're ayun lang. Yeah, it's very difficult to decide what hero to play, what role to fit.

Speaker: Oh yes. The positioning.

Interviewer: What role do you play?

Speaker: I play either mage, support, or marksman.

Interviewer: How about [Partner's Name]?

Speaker: Sometimes fighters, most of the time, mage and marksman.

Interviewer: So somehow similar with their roles. So how do you resolve this little arguments?

Speaker: Actually, we don't. It's like, if we lost, then we disconnect. And then, maybe after 15 minutes or after 20 minutes, then we're going to play again.

Interviewer: So you just let it cool down. In terms of your beliefs about religion, so it's really not resolved yet because it's an ongoing, but you're fine with how it is out there.

Speaker: I'm fine if we have this kind of disagreement. I think it's one of the things that makes our relationship imperfect because to be honest, I don't want our relationship to be perfect. So yeah, it's fine.

Interviewer: So aside from cooling down or letting it as is, what other ways do you usually use or do you usually apply in your relationship to resolve and maintain it?

Speaker: Yeah, circling back to communications and discussion. If we can agree on that, then that's fine. It's good. But if it's something that we cannot really agree on, but won't affect our relationship, then we let it.

Interviewer: So how often do you communicate or what means? Mostly online or do you also have?

Speaker: Actually, ever since that he studied at [University Name], which is much, I mean, my place is much nearer compared to his place. So we're actually together most of the time. I mean, he's always here. It's like three to four times a day. Maybe three to four times a week. Three to four days a week.

Interviewer: And then you also communicate online.

Speaker: Oh yes, we also communicate online. So yeah, we discuss it personally and then sometimes online.

Interviewer: I see. So how about in terms of change? Did the relationship change you?

Speaker: Yes, I would say it changed me into knowing really myself. Knowing again what I want, my perspective in life has gotten, I have become much more open really.

Interviewer: How about the other way around? Did they change during their relationship? Si [Partner's Name]. Did they also change in their relationship?

Speaker: I don't know, maybe. But ever since that we were together, it's like he's still the same age. So I don't feel some changes with him. Maybe his perspective in life has also become much wider. And in most cases, we talk about some things and we agree on it. So yeah, I don't think that there's unnoticeable change that happened.

Interviewer: I see. How about safety? Do you feel safe in the relationship?

Speaker: Yeah, absolutely. Just like what I mentioned, whenever I encounter some challenges or hiccups in life, he is the first person that I would tell him on. So there's an established connection.

Interviewer: Okay, that's good to hear. Now, I'll be showing you something. Let me just share my screen for a while. Can you see my screen?

Speaker: Yeah.

Interviewer: So for the next part of our interview, I'd like you to read this statement and rate it from 1 to 9. So my partner usually really listens to me. So from 1 not at all true to 9 completely true. What would be your answer?

Speaker: I would say very true.

Interviewer: Very true.

Speaker: Yeah, around 7. Because not all the time. Well, he does, especially when it's like a major thing, especially when I am going through something, maybe that's 9. But when it's like some little things, especially when he's busy, there are times that I always catch him not paying attention. So yeah, it's not consistent.

Interviewer: I see. How about this next item? My partner usually is responsive to my needs. So similar still?

Speaker: Similarly, yeah. Very true.

Interviewer: Very true.

Speaker: Maybe 8. Let's put it at 8.

Interviewer: Okay, so let me just get back. Okay, so for the question 1, for the statement 1 rather about my partner usually listens to me, you're rated 7. Okay, so since you already mentioned that sometimes he's also busy, so not entirely true.

Speaker: He is so busy because of his studies, and that's fine. I don't take it against him. Especially, you know, sometimes nonsense like TikTok videos.

Interviewer: Ah, okay. So you already mentioned that if it's 9, then why not 6? Why, why not 6? 5 to 6 is around moderately true.

Speaker: Sorry, this is about the responsive to my needs.

Interviewer: Ah no, listens.

Speaker: Because he does it. If some situation really is impactful to me, and I'm going through something, I'm going to have all his ears all day. Really listen to me. And the good thing about [Partner's Name] is, he just listens. He's not the type of person that does not give much advice, especially the type of person that I don't want some advice, especially if I am not asking for it. But, you know, he's like that. He's going to let you talk. He's going to let you open up. He's going to let you tell you all your problems. And yeah, and he pays attention. So not six because he does listen. There are just some times that he's not paying attention again in just small things.

Interviewer: I see. So why not 6?

Speaker: Because he still listens. Even though he doesn't do that often.

Interviewer: So let's move on to his responsiveness to your needs. You rated 8 for that. Okay, so can you provide specific examples as to his responsiveness to your needs?

Speaker: Hmm, responsive to my needs. Because he does really know what my love language is. Like even if I won't tell him what my needs are, like, I'm just going to be angry. It's specific but, you know, that's what's about it. He's like he knows what I want and then it comes with a little bit of surprise, you know.

Interviewer: Thank you. So similar question, why not 7 or 9?

Speaker: Not 7 because I really feel like it's, it's, it's, I don't know, it's, it's that it's not fair to give him. He does say he really makes me angry. Not 9 because there are some, I guess, some needs and some understanding again that I am not getting from him. But again, just some little things. And again, it's like, it's not perfect really, it's not perfect.

Interviewer: I see. So similar then to listening, so it's there but it's not, of course, it's not, it's not at all time. Okay, so moving forward, I hope you don't mind if I ask, but of course you also want to know your physical intimacy as a couple. So these days, how often do you have sex?

Speaker: I would say when it comes to sexual intercourse, like the last time that it happened was when our anniversary, which is, I think on [Month] of this year, [Month], [Year] and now it's already [Month].

But, you know, what we do is like, you know, like sides, you know, we call it sides, like kiss, you know, hugs, something like that. And, you know, some sort of, you know, some ejaculation, something like that, but that's mainly it. Okay, so as far as sexual intercourse, very seldom.

Interviewer: So how satisfied are you with your sex life?

Speaker: Actually, I'm good with that. To be honest, that's why we seldom do that because it's because I always get tired. I'm not sure, maybe it's because I'm getting older or whatnot, but I mean, it's not really something that I am looking for him. It's like, I value him, you know, we value our relationship really more than sex. Yeah, it's like just being with him. It's like, it's like a good day, so I wouldn't ask for more.

Interviewer: I see. Thank you for sharing that. And I think we're nearing towards the end of our interview and I'll be showing my screen once again. Can you see it from your end?

Speaker: Yep.

Interviewer: Okay, so let's go on to the next question. So in general, how satisfied are you with your relationship?

Speaker: I'm very satisfied. It's between very satisfied and completely satisfied, but yeah, maybe 99%.

Interviewer: Okay, so that's very, very satisfied. Oh, you mentioned that you're very satisfied. Okay, so on a scale of 0 to 10, with 0 as not at all satisfied to 10, completely satisfied. How would you rate your satisfaction with your relationship?

Speaker: Yeah, I would give it a 9. It's a 9. It's a 9.

Interviewer: Okay, wow. So why 9?

Speaker: 9 because, again, it's not perfect. That's why I do it. Yeah. As with 10, 9 because like, for me, he's a complete package. I love the way he is. Every time I look at him, I get inspired. It's like I love him even deeper. Whenever we talk about things, there are just some things that we disagree on. It's like, I'm getting the validation from him. He's also getting some validations from me. So yeah, I feel like growing with him. And he tells, he also tells me what sometimes he always tells me like the things that I do, that is like, how would I say that? Like some kind of, whenever I do mistakes or whenever I commit mistakes, he would tell me that he shouldn't do that because this and that, something like that. And he gives me a different perspective. Oh yeah, that makes sense, something like that.

Interviewer: So similar to the questions I had with the scales, so it's not 10 because of course, as you mentioned, it's not perfect. But why not 8? Yeah, the other way around.

Speaker: What's 8 again?

Interviewer: Why not 8?

Speaker: Because he's almost perfect. The number that is closest to the perfection.

Interviewer: Okay, I see. So yeah, we're close to wrapping up and let me just summarize what we have conversed about in the past. So again, thank you so much and feel free to correct me or to add. So we started off with your demographic. So you're [26-30] years old. And in terms of your relationship, approximately [1-5] years and then no children yet. And then as for your household, you're currently renting in [City A], and your partner is living in [City C] with his family, and you're employed at [Company Name], is that right? Okay, [Company Name]. And then it's around for [1-5 years]. And then as for your relationship, you went to the beach with strangers, with friends, and then you met there, and then after, it's a four-day beach trip, and then afterwards you dated.

Speaker: Yeah, we dated.

Interviewer: Yes, because you initially had a crush on him. Yeah, and then you got officially together at around [Month Year]. Yeah, [Month Year]. [Month Year]. So as for relationship quality, you mentioned that your relationship is more intimate and incomparable since you're more open, you trust him with your secrets, and then you put much effort compared to that of your friends.

Speaker: Yes.

Interviewer: And then as for your previous romantic relationship, you had [1-5] in the past, and [Partner's Name] is the [1-5th] one, but you mentioned that you have much more deeper connection with between you and [Partner's Name] as it also helped you develop even more, and you understood where your emotions and where situations were coming from. And then as for high-quality, you described it as both of you growing together, but you're still understanding each other's flaws and your needs. It's a free-flow kind of thing with no pressure on the relationship. And then as for low-quality relationship, it's more on the communication, so you're not talking about those arguments and you're not open with your partner. And you also mentioned that the most important things in relationship are communication and knowing your love languages, so more on the awareness of what you want and what could trigger the relationship. And you also mentioned that your relationship with [Partner's Name] is of high quality because you communicate, you take everything slow, and there's no pressure in the relationship. As for your conceptualization of love, for you it's a feeling and an action, so it's not only about feeling it with the other, you show it through actions, and its importance is through making you do better. So on a daily living, at your work, making you feel more motivated and helping you to know yourself better. And you know that [Partner's Name] loves you because he provides things that you want, he already knows it, and he's also there to listen and talk things out. And as for challenges in your relationship, so mostly little arguments with playing [game name], but more on the major thing is your perspectives and beliefs about religion. But you do not let it affect your relationship because you just let it as is. And then as for maintaining the relationship, of course you also do communication, discussion, and letting it pass if there are things you cannot agree on.

Interviewer: And then you also mentioned that [Partner's Name] is an open person, so he's open-minded and he provides inspiration by validating you, what you're doing at work, and celebrating your losses and wins as well. And then as for changes, the relationship changed you because you know yourself well and better. And there's also changes in perspectives in life. And on the other way around, you mentioned that he's still the same, but you believe that his perspectives are somehow wider. And then you also feel safe in the relationship because when you encounter challenges, he's the first person you really share things or you really run to. And then as for the scales, the first part of the scale, so you rated seven when asked about when your partner listens to you, and you rated eight with the responsiveness it needs. And then as for your physical intimacy as a couple, so the last sexual intercourse was during your anniversary around [Month Year], and it's more seldom, so the kisses, hugs are more common. And it's because it's not something you look after, so it's more on the relationship value compared to sex. And globally and in general, you're very satisfied with the relationship because it's a complete package and he's almost perfect.

Speaker: Yes.

Interviewer: Okay. Is that right? Would you like to add?

Speaker: Yeah, you got it right.

Interviewer: Okay, that's good to hear. Okay, so with that, we're really nearing the end of our interview. So now before we end, I'd like to talk to you about how we will handle the data for this research project. So of course, we want to be as ethically transparent as possible, and we wanted to know which data sharing option are you most comfortable with. So there are two data sharing options. I'll be discussing about it. So this is option number one. Transcript portions can be shared, none of which can be identified to you. So the de-identified transcript can also be read by other researchers. So that's option number one. And then option number two is if you were bolder, the whole transcript can be shared. Of course, sensitive and overly identifying details will be removed, and it will be anonymized. Although in this option, there is a very minimal chance that someone who might know you might know you well can piece together the details, but that would take a lot of time because they have to review the appendices of the study and then relate it back to the reference material. So although again, no sensitive information will be shared. So again, option one is transcript portions are shared. And then option two is the whole transcript will be shared. Of course, sensitive information and identifying details will be removed. So of the two options, which are you most comfortable with?

Speaker: I'm actually okay with the option two.

Interviewer: Okay, that's good to hear. So again, thank you so much for participating in this interview. Your inputs are really valuable. And I would like you to know that this study is actually being done also in the Philippines, Brazil, France, Turkey, and the US. So for this study to be successful, there's one last thing that we will ask for you.

Speaker: Absolutely.

Interviewer: Can you recommend two close people in your life as a nominator? So what will happen is you'll be providing two nominators. And then these nominators will ask them for additional couples that might be interested in this study. So they will be giving additional couples. So in this way, we can get more diverse and more broad. So you can send it after our interview.

Speaker: Okay. Because for now, I don't have one in mind. Because some of my friends, it's just very few. And I know that they are really, really busy. That's why they're in a managerial position. I don't know them. But I think [Partner's Name] has a lot of friends. They can participate here. So maybe that's something we can discuss. And share it with them.

Interviewer: Okay. That's good. So just give them a heads up in case so they won't block us.

Speaker: Okay.

Interviewer: So let me just stop this interview for a while.
