

Interviewer [00:00:01]: I have started it. Welcome. Can you confirm that you have read the consent form and that you are voluntarily participating in the interview?

Speaker [00:00:08]: I approve.

Interviewer [00:00:10]: How old are you?

Speaker [00:00:13]: So I'm going to turn [56-60] in [Month]. Well [56-60] to be more precise.

Interviewer [00:00:18]: Happy birthday in advance.

Speaker [00:00:20]: Thank you.

Interviewer [00:00:21]: How long have you been with your partner?

Speaker [00:00:24]: Now we got married in, uh, [Year] in [Month]. But, uh, in the stock market before that, there was about... How many? We have something like [1-5] years. So what's that? [90-95].

Interviewer [00:00:40]: [20-25] years.

Speaker [00:00:41]: No [30-35] [30-35] years.

Interviewer [00:00:47]: Do you have children?

Speaker [00:00:49]: Yes. From your profession.

Interviewer [00:00:51]: Hah (surprised) How old is she?

Speaker [00:00:55]: [26-30].

Interviewer [00:00:57]: [1-5].

Speaker [00:00:59]: We have [1-5] daughter, yes.

Interviewer [00:01:01]: Who do you live with at home?

Speaker [00:01:05]: Now my daughter usually stays with a friend. Then there is also my [relative]. There are [1-5] of us, usually my daughter comes once in a while.

Interviewer [00:01:17]: What is your main source of income? What is your current job?

Speaker [00:01:22]: I've been working as a [occupation] for about [6-10] years, I quit about a year ago. I'm working with an old friend of mine who I had a partnership with in the [Year]. It's not a corporate place, we have a few companies on the [company], on [company], we have a [company]. I'm trying to help him, he's a bit busy, we're cleaning up after him a bit.

Interviewer [00:01:52]: What would you prefer me to call your partner, your spouse, your lover, your partner?

Speaker [00:01:59]: Don't say partner.

Interviewer [00:02:03]: Spouse.

Speaker [00:02:14]: Call wife, of course, or by her name, [Partner's Name].

Interviewer [00:02:10]: Would you like to tell the story of how you met?

Speaker [00:02:12]: I don't understand what?

Interviewer [00:02:14]: The story of how you met.

Speaker [00:02:16]: We met at the [company], at the [company]. To be honest, at that time, I had the desire to get married and settle down. I had slowly settled in my mind something like that. She was really a beautiful girl who could be pointed out in the [company]. Again. I saw her, I became obsessed with her. I'm a bit of a talker. I just asked a mutual friend of ours to create such an environment, and then the rest just click, click, click. At that time we were doing everything together. Everything. I mean, we were already working together, going to the match, playing cards in the [location] between sessions, and so on and so forth. It was a very, very good time. After that, I went to the [occupation] in [Year] and we got married as soon as I came back.

Interviewer [00:03:32]: Let me ask you how you convinced her, since you said "I just kept plugging away".

Speaker [00:03:37]: I mean, there is no such thing as how I convinced her, I already said that, you know, I have a way with words. If I set my mind on doing something, it will happen. I would never force something that is not going to happen, but there is no such thing as convincing. I mean, after all, after you meet someone, you like them, you get along with them. That's what happened with her. I mean, I didn't do anything very special to convince her, like a crate of roses with roses, I don't know, something like that.

Interviewer [00:04:14]: How would you rate the quality of your own relationship compared to the relationships of your friends, acquaintances?

Speaker [00:04:21]: What do you mean by quality?

Interviewer [00:04:24]: Whatever you understand.

Speaker [00:04:26]: Okay.

Interviewer [00:04:27]: I don't want to explain because that's our goal.

Speaker [00:04:30]: Okay, okay.

Interviewer [00:04:31]: You answer by thinking about what makes a relationship quality.

Speaker [00:04:33]: Ok. Well, now there are terribly low quality relationships around me, but there are also various examples of marriages that are going really well.. Ours is in the middle of that, so I wouldn't say it's perfect, but I wouldn't say it's terrible either, to be honest. Well, first of all, we've known each other for more than [30-35] years, we know each other's habits. There is only one bad thing. Unfortunately, as people get older, their habits can change. A lot of things that were not apparent at first can come out. Of course, we have these kinds of things too.

Interviewer [00:05:25]: Would you like to elaborate a little bit more on why you say average?

Speaker [00:05:31]: I mean somewhere in the middle, not close to either extreme, you know, it's not a bad thing. Because I know of really bad relationships, but it's not perfect. I mean, maybe now it can also be, you know, after all this time you know everything about each other. I don't know. That's why it's not such a crazy love. I don't believe it. It doesn't last. There's no such thing. It's completely in the middle, I mean, I can't explain it much, I can't explain it, so there's no such reason.

Interviewer [00:06:13]: May I ask how many romantic relationships did you have in the past, before your partner?

Speaker [00:06:20]: There are [1-5] of them. I mean, I'm usually like, when I start having a relationship with someone, I live it deeply. You know, it doesn't happen a lot. Well, not many in number.

Interviewer [00:06:36]: Hmm... How would you rate the quality of your current relationship compared to those relationships?

Speaker [00:06:43]: It is not possible for me to compare. Because I've never been married before, so the relationship in marriage and dating is very different.

Interviewer [00:06:57]: Hmm...

Speaker [00:06:58]: Oh, I can say this, but it is also very different because years have passed. I can say this. I can tell you before I got married with [Partner's Name] or after I got married. Well, it was better before we got married (laughs). I would say it was more intense, more full, but of course it has a lot to do with age, the period, the work we do and so on.

Interviewer [00:07:20]: Hmm...

Speaker [00:07:22]: So it's not just that, you know, external influences are too much.

Interviewer [00:07:25]: Hmm...

Speaker [00:07:26]: There are so many troubles that have happened. My... Anyway, you continue. That will probably come out in the topic anyway.

Interviewer [00:07:34]: Finish your sentence. I will ask you after that.

Speaker [00:07:37]: Well, between [Year] and [Year], I had a [redacted].

Interviewer [00:08:34]: What makes a relationship high quality for you? What do you think about quality?

Speaker [00:08:44]: Well, I think even one is enough. Empathizing.

Interviewer [00:08:51]: Hmm...

Speaker [00:08:52]: I mean, what the other side may want, what the other side may think, you have to know this after so much time. This is what I mean by changing.

Interviewer [00:09:07]: Hmm...

Speaker [00:09:08]: These things can be overlooked. I think this is the most important issue.

Interviewer [00:09:27]: What could be the underlying factors?

Speaker [00:09:31]: Oh, I don't know, you know, love (sevgi), for example, I think love (aşk) is under that, let me put it that way.

Interviewer [00:09:37]: Hmm...

Speaker [00:09:39]: The rest is understanding, but the top thing is to empathize absolutely.

Interviewer [00:09:45]: Empathy. Is there anything else, as much as empathy.

Speaker [00:09:51]: What do you mean by something else?

Interviewer [00:09:52]: It won't fall below empathy, so love...

Speaker [00:09:55]: Respect.

Interviewer [00:09:06]: And it's like understanding.

Speaker [00:09:58]: Respect, respect. But anyway, you know why empathy, when you empathize, respect will also come into play.

Interviewer [00:10:07]: What makes it low quality?

Speaker [00:10:09]: Not doing these things (laughs)

Interviewer [00:10:12]: Are there any others? You can also think about relationships in general. You don't have to think only about your own relationships. You also said that there are relationships around you that you think are of very poor quality.

Speaker [00:10:24]: Like this, when you don't do these things, when you don't empathize, when you don't respect, this time you start not talking.

Interviewer [00:10:35]: Hmm...

Speaker [00:10:37]: And when you don't talk, it's like this, like a space module, it's going to separate and leave.

Interviewer [00:10:43]: You seem to be saying that not communicating ends the relationship.

Speaker [00:10:47]: It's not ending it, it's degrading it for sure, for sure.

Interviewer [00:10:57]: What are the most important things in a relationship for you?

Speaker [00:11:01]: I told you, I mean, empathy, that is my main topic. what the other person might want, even if she doesn't say it (laughs) hundreds of times, ignoring.

Interviewer [00:11:17]: Ignore.

Speaker [00:11:18]: If it doesn't matter to her... I don't mind.

Interviewer [00:11:21]: Hmm...

Speaker [00:11:22]: You know, you make a request, I want this or not, i think ignoring these things seriously damages it. Of course, it's not only this, it's something about the accumulation of this.

Interviewer [00:11:36]: Could you explain empathy a little bit more? What is it like for you... I mean, I know the meaning of the word. You said it, of course you gave a definition. You explained it in terms of being able to guess what the other party might think I want, but I'm asking in order to better understand what goes through your mind so that we don't stay behind the word.

Speaker [00:12:03]: I mean how do I put it? That's actually trying to understand what I don't want instead of trying to understand what I want. That's actually it. I can already tell what I want somehow with my mouth and tongue...

Interviewer [00:12:27]: Hmm, got it.

Speaker [00:12:28]: But I shouldn't say a thousand times what I don't want, I don't know, you know what I mean (laughs).

Interviewer [00:12:39]: I think that's where respect comes in.

Speaker [00:12:42]: I mean, after a certain point, this guy has been saying this a thousand times. He tells the same things. They don't say "let's do it".

Interviewer [00:12:59]: Respecting boundaries...

Speaker [00:13:00]: I have a problem about that, yes, maybe it is understood but (laughs).

Interviewer [00:13:07]: Would you like to open up? I also have questions about the difficulties in your relationship, at least there will be. There, there... Now that you have mentioned it, you have a problem.

Speaker [00:13:16]: while I'm telling you (laughs)

Interviewer [00:13:17]: Yes.

Speaker [00:13:21]: So now, well, how should I say it? Let me start with myself.

Interviewer [00:13:27]: Uh-huh.

Speaker [00:13:28]: I'm a man with a bit of an obsession. So this is according to my daughter... It's a little bit more than normal, a little bit of a nuisance.

Interviewer [00:13:39]: Hmm...

Speaker [00:13:40]: These obsessions can be very simple things. [Redacted]. Especially if they are around in a messy way. These are my obsessions.

Interviewer [00:14:03]: Hmm...

Speaker [00:14:05]: I mention these things all the time. They are complied with or not, usually not. This for example. These kinds of things, even if they are very simple, they accumulate and accumulate and then what happens? I think that ythey don't listen to me, they don't care, they don't care.

Interviewer [00:14:33]: Do you have any other issues of conflict?

Speaker [00:14:39]: So, no. There is nothing else. There is nothing else. But of course this is growing a lot.

Interviewer [00:14:49]: When you say it's getting too big... Is the debate getting too big? Is it growing because it is a multi-channel eee topic?

Speaker [00:14:56]: The debate is not growing. but its negativity in the mind grows a lot. For me.

Interviewer [00:15:06]: Feeling ignored. How do you manage it?

Speaker [00:15:19]: I mean, I try to ignore, you know, ignore it.

Interviewer [00:15:25]: Hmm...

Speaker [00:15:26]: I'm trying to. And what happens then? What happens is the disconnection due to the miscommunication. Cooling down. Let me put it like that.

Interviewer [00:15:42]: How often do you think you have such problems? If you could give a number. Once a week, once a day, three times a month....

Speaker [00:15:53]: So. There is also something like this. If everything was pure, if everything was in the past, maybe none of these things would have happened.

Interviewer [00:16:03]: Hmm...

Speaker [00:16:04]: It won't be an issue. I mean, even invisible, but it creates something in me that is seen but not implemented, not implemented. Therefore, very often. Let me put it like that, very often. It's not a matter of three times a month or something like that. Very often.

Interviewer [00:16:20]: Every day.

Speaker [00:16:22]: Every day.

Interviewer [00:16:25]: If I understand you correctly, you mentioned that it accumulated, that you have been fighting over similar things for years.

Speaker [00:16:32]: This thing happened a lot especially in the pandemic.

Interviewer [00:16:35]: Hmm...

Speaker [00:16:36]: Well, it increased a lot. Inside the house.

Interviewer [00:16:38]: Hmm...

Speaker [00:16:40]: Being close to each other all the time. Really, it is a troublesome issue. This is true for the other side and for everyone. Let me tell you, it happened to me a lot.

Interviewer [00:16:52]: Hmm... How do you solve it? How do you reach a solution in your discussions? Can you reach it? What is the process like?

Speaker [00:17:05]: Unreachable, no. After some point, no we can't reach. Someone is shutting up, let me put it that way (laughs). I mean, this is not a thing anymore. Let's not talk for [1-5] days. There is no such thing. Of course it's becoming slack.

Interviewer [00:17:30]: What does that mean?

Speaker [00:17:31]: It's becoming commonplace, let me put it that way. Everything is becoming ordinary.

Interviewer [00:17:35]: Hmm... Discussion is also becoming commonplace.

Speaker [00:17:37]: Arguing is also becoming commonplace. Everyone stays with their anger. But it's a pity that it's not, I mean, wait, that guy did something, let's listen to him. There is no such thing.

Interviewer [00:17:51]: Hmm... You seem to be struggling.

Speaker [00:17:57]: Of course I have difficulty, dear, I mean it is tiring.

Interviewer [00:18:08]: What is love according to you?

Speaker [00:18:13]: Well, let me put it this way, I was in high school, I fell in love with someone in high school. Definitely not the most beautiful girl of the school or anything like that, but I fell in love a lot. I mean, you really can't think of anything else, you always have her in your head. Like how should I do it, what gesture should I make to her and so on. I think that's what love is like. You are completely dependent on her. Well, it's not something that can be described much. There is an excitement, a constant excitement actually. I mean, even to the point of boredom. But there hasn't been anything like that for a very long time (laughs).

Interviewer [00:19:08]: Hmm... How important is love in a relationship?

Speaker [00:19:17]: Very much at the beginning. I think it is essential at the beginning. That's how it starts.

Interviewer [00:19:26]: Hmm...

Speaker [00:19:27]: That's how it started for me. I don't know how it would be for someone else, but if there is no love (aşk), if there is no love (sevgi) there is no point in having a relationship anyway.

Interviewer [00:19:37]: Uh-huh.

Speaker [00:19:38]: I'm saying it on the basis of marriage or I'm not saying anything to any of the others. My respect is endless, everyone can hang out as they want. I'm talking about a relationship leading to marriage.

Interviewer [00:19:50]: Uh-huh... So how important is it after the relationship? At the beginning it is very important, you said that it is necessary to start something, to light the spark, to put the relationship into gear. But how important is it for the continuation of the relationship?

Speaker [00:20:08]: Well, the thing is like this, the graph is like this. It rises up.

Interviewer [00:20:12]: Hmm...

Speaker [00:20:14]: With a diminishing acceleration.

Interviewer [00:20:18]: Uh-huh.

Speaker [00:20:19]: Then it has to be stable.

Interviewer [00:20:22]: Hmm...

Speaker [00:20:23]: In order for it to be stable, it must continue even if the love (aşk) decreases. Otherwise, the graph is already going straight down.

Interviewer [00:20:32]: So love (aşk) is as much for starting a relationship as it is for sustaining a relationship.

Speaker [00:20:37]: Sure, sure.

Interviewer [00:20:38]: Potential.

Speaker [00:20:39]: But the intensity of the one at the beginning

Interviewer [00:20:40]: Hmm...

Speaker [00:20:42]: Of course it doesn't work. It doesn't necessarily happen, but it is also necessary for it to continue.

Interviewer [00:20:51]: The relationship...

Speaker [00:20:52]: That's what I'm saying.

Interviewer [00:20:53]: Uh-huh...

Speaker [00:20:54]: This is not for the last [1-5], [6-10], [6-10] years of a [30-35] year marriage.

Interviewer [00:20:59]: Hmm...

Speaker [00:21:01]: At first to make it work, and then a little bit to make it go straight.

Interviewer [00:21:12]: For the relationship to stay at a similar level to keep it going straight.

Speaker [00:21:13]: Not only love (aik). After that, as I said, it is respect, empathy and so on... For me it is.

Interviewer [00:21:19]: Okay, we talked about that. Maintaining the relationship other than trying to resolve conflicts...Although you also told us that you couldn't resolve your conflicts, it ended in silence.

Speaker [00:21:35]: If you say "okay", if you don't mind.

Interviewer [00:21:37]: Uh...

Speaker [00:21:38]: There is no conflict if you put up with it.

Interviewer [00:21:44]: There is no communication, there is no conflict.

Speaker [00:21:47]: Yes.

Interviewer [00:21:50]: Let me ask you, other than just putting up with it.

Speaker [00:21:53]: Okay.

Interviewer [00:21:54]: What are the other ways one can maintain the relationship, maintain your relationship? How does the relationship last? How does it survive?

Speaker [00:22:04]: First you have to want to keep it going. Ya... As long as you give from yourself, it will continue. (Disconnection)

Interviewer [00:22:22]: Stop. We've broken up. Can you say that again? The internet is down somewhere.

Speaker [00:22:26]: From yourself...Huh... Give from yourself, it lasts. For some people, this self-giving is bearable. I mean, it's okay, it's okay. Well, some people think "it's enough, I mean, I've gotten so old by giving". Therefore, it is only possible in that way. I mean, if I explain self-giving, it is respect, empathy, this and that. All of these are included. But one side, I mean... It can't be balanced. One of them has to sacrifice more, but if the one who sacrifices more is always the same, then it's a problem.

Interviewer [00:23:09]: So you are saying that the relationship continues by making sacrifices. Giving of yourself is equivalent to sacrifice.

Speaker [00:23:17]: For us?

Interviewer [00:23:19]: For you or what you just said... For you.

Speaker [00:23:24]: So, yeah, yeah.

Interviewer [00:23:26]: What does sacrifice look like? Do you want to give an example? Giving of yourself. Your relationship is going on after all.

Speaker [00:23:39]: What's it like? If you don't worry about the things that you sacrifice.... It's not a problem.

Interviewer [00:23:48]: Hmm...

Speaker [00:23:49]: I mean, if you don't say, "Oh brother, I always do it"... By the way, there is no such thing as I always do it.

Interviewer [00:23:55]: Hmm...

Speaker [00:23:56]: I mean, that's how I put it, but I think that's how I think it is. I mean, maybe on the other side, she will say the same things in terms of herself. So if you don't worry about these things, then there is no problem. But you know, when there are many, many, many, many...

Interviewer [00:24:16]: Hmm...

Speaker [00:24:17]: if you get rid of one, you get stuck in the other one. If you get rid of this one, you get stuck in the other one.

Interviewer [00:24:23]: The greater the number of sacrifices, the harder it is to stay in balance and not be offended, if I understand correctly.

Speaker [00:24:32]: What is becoming difficult not to do?

Interviewer [00:24:34]: Staying in balance and not being offended.

Speaker [00:24:36]: Sure, sure. That's exactly what it is. Then you start to let it go. That's how the relationship breaks down. You know, don't talk because talking has no result. Nothing will come of it, it's for nothing.

Interviewer [00:25:06]: Would you say that this relationship that you are in is good for you?

Speaker [00:25:13]: Not these days.

Interviewer [00:25:16]: Would you like to elaborate on that a little bit more? It's not good for...

Speaker [00:25:20]: So...How?

Interviewer [00:25:22]: What doesn't feel good?

Speaker [00:25:24]: That's what I'm talking about, nothing, I mean... That's actually the whole point, that's the whole point. The fact that these things are accumulating little by little, little by little, little by little. I mean, nothing else. Because if these are solved,, I've become softer and I start to act accordingly. Let's do something in the evening, I don't know... Although we do it. It's not that we don't do it. That's the point.

Interviewer [00:26:01]: Do I understand correctly? It is easier to empathize when you are not angry and resentful.

Speaker [00:26:08]: Yes.

Interviewer [00:26:09]: It comes from within.

Speaker [00:26:10]: At least you want to set it up then. I mean, you try not to create a stink.

Interviewer [00:26:19]: Hmm...

Speaker [00:26:21]: Otherwise, maybe you are even seeking

Interviewer [00:26:24]: Hmm... Did this relationship change you?

Speaker [00:26:41]: I don't think so, I mean I don't think so from my point of view, I mean we, I'm not.

Interviewer [00:26:52]: Are you the same person you were when you started the relationship?

Speaker [00:26:58]: I think I am like that, but of course my wife doesn't say that. We have a thing, we have a line that you have changed a lot.

Interviewer [00:27:09]: And what about your wife? Did she change during this relationship?

Speaker [00:27:14]: I think one hundred percent, one hundred percent.

Interviewer [00:27:20]: In what ways has she changed?

Speaker [00:27:23]: I mean (laughs) she has not changed for the better.

Interviewer [00:27:27]: Uh...

Speaker [00:27:29]: Or it could be that she was already like that but I didn't realize it or it wasn't annoying in that intense love (aşk) thing. You know, maybe I didn't even care at all. But I can say that the economic conditions are terribly important. You know, it is beyond one's power, I accept that. I mean economic conditions are really important.

Interviewer [00:28:04]: Could you elaborate a little bit more?

Speaker [00:28:08]: Now I really have to hand it to her. I had very troubled days. Really very troubled. In this period, for example, she did not reflect anything. When I say that economic conditions are very important, I don't mean for us.

Interviewer [00:28:28]: Hmm...

Speaker [00:28:29]: I said in general. Well, but maybe it could have been like this, she threw it away and didn't say anything because these are not things that happen with my involvement. It might have been because I was looking at some things too cleanly and naively. She threw it away and then she said "enough" to herself about some things. It may be conscious or unconscious, but economic conditions are important. Very, very important. More precisely, ups and downs are very important.

Interviewer [00:29:12]: Hmm...

Speaker [00:29:13]: I mean, it's not that we had very poor days, it's very troublesome to fall suddenly when you are at a certain level. To be able to downsize. It is very difficult to downsize. You downsize, but when you downsize, you try to put a lot of things into it, it doesn't work, it explodes, it flows out.

Interviewer [00:29:37]: How did it affect, how does it affect you to fall suddenly?

Speaker [00:29:41]: I mean, it affects me like shit, to be honest (laughs). Honestly.

Interviewer [00:29:43]: (Laughs)

Speaker [00:29:46]: Let me put it this way. You retreat into your own shell.

Interviewer [00:29:54]: Hmm...

Speaker [00:29:55]: As a household, we were people who were always outside, always. You retreat into your own shell. In that shell, you're already demoralized, you can't do a lot of things, you owe money to people, you have debts and so on and so forth, and there are always problems, problems with work. You're in a tiny environment that's having troubles. You know, a lot of negative things are spreading and the other side, and I mean this in a good way, the other side is making an effort both to console you, to calm you down, to comfort you and to accept the event, the reality that exists. I mean really, this may have created some things in him/her. I mean...

Interviewer [00:30:45]: It may have worn off.

Speaker [00:30:46]: It may have worn it down. It may have made her say "enough" to come to these days, you know, not empathizing. Consciously or unconsciously, knowingly or unknowingly. Can I get a water?

Interviewer [00:30:57]: Of course you're welcome. No problem at all.

Speaker [00:31:00]: Coming up.

Interviewer [00:31:00]: (waiting)

Speaker [00:31:55]: [Partner's Name] is asking me now. "Does this happen? Can you get out?" I said, "We are not under interrogation" (laughs).

Interviewer [00:32:00]: (Laughs) Of course you can leave. As long as you do not share the process with your spouse, we are free. Hmm... I was going to ask something. What should I ask? I would like to go back to the question, so the relationship didn't change me.

Speaker [00:32:18]: I said I think so.

Interviewer [00:32:20]: Of course, of course, of course. I am asking for your thoughts. Are you the same person you were [30-35] years ago? So eee....

Speaker [00:32:30]: I'm actually the same.

Interviewer [00:32:31]: Hmm...

Speaker [00:32:32]: I would put it this way.

Interviewer [00:32:35]: I wanted to ask you again because of the thing. It sounded like you had a position because there was a topic of discussion in the relationship. Would you reconsider?

Speaker [00:32:44]: What do you mean your position? I don't understand that. How?

Interviewer [00:32:47]: It was as if you felt the need to automatically construct a sentence that you had already constructed. Do you know what I mean?

Speaker [00:32:53]: No, I don't understand...

Interviewer [00:32:55]: Hah...

Speaker [00:32:56]: Let me tell you why I think I have not changed, I think I am the same person.

Interviewer [00:33:01]: Uh...that would be great.

Speaker [00:33:02]: Now I am a graduate of [University]. I graduated in [Year]. [Year] was perhaps the most active period of college life, the most active period in the history of the college. When we gathered in [City], I don't know, [City], here and there, on weekends for [1-5] days, collegians from all over the world came to us, from our period. We would be 200 people, 300 people or something like that. Now, of course I don't have 300 buddies in this thing. Of course it's not like that, but I mean, there's a shell crew that I've been seeing for [40-45] years and [40-45] years. Now, none of them have changed. I haven't changed either. That's how I know. I mean, we're all the same. We've all been through very troubled times, we've been up and down. Even in those times, no one changed.

Interviewer [00:34:08]: Hmm...

Speaker [00:34:12]: Maybe there is something like that, maybe something about the relationship being filed down, about the relationship being damaged. It doesn't matter with those boys and girls. What I have established with them, which we started and which has continued until today, is always the same. For example, he takes a hint. I might be looking for something like that.

Interviewer [00:34:42]: Hmm...

Speaker [00:34:43]: I mean, I can't find it, and it might be a problem because I can't find it. A lot of things, little things, things that would normally be ignored may stand out. I've been thinking about this for a while now and it just came to my mind while I was doing something. So that's how I know I'm the same.

Interviewer [00:35:06]: Hmm...

Speaker [00:35:07]: I think I'm the same but I'm sure all the parties all over the place are saying the same thing so eee but I'm the same so.

Interviewer [00:35:20]: How did she change? I mean, when we talked about her change, we talked about the economic conditions, the falls, the throwing in. How did it affect her? I mean, if you define change, how would you define it?

Speaker [00:35:41]: I'm going to say something like this, you're going to say elaborate (laughs). She started not to make an effort, let me put it that way.

Interviewer [00:35:50]: Hmm...

Speaker [00:35:51]: Not to strive for things. I mean, not to strive for anything that is valuable or not valuable to me... For example, she doesn't think like "this man has said the same thing for 1000 years, let me not put this here". Does she not know [Language]? She does. Does she understand? She understands. But she doesn't make an effort to do this, to follow this. I don't know, do I make myself clear?

Interviewer [00:36:25]: It's like you're saying she's stopped trying for you.

Speaker [00:36:28]: That's the part for me but for nothing.

Interviewer [00:36:32]: Hmm...

Speaker [00:36:33]: For nothing... That's the main problem anyway. I mean, for the house, for something, it's not that she's not doing anything, but I mean, things that should be done automatically, things that should not even be mentioned, for example, by talking... It shouldn't be like that. I mean, it should be natural, as a reflex. No, there is no such thing.

Interviewer [00:37:04]: Do you feel safe in this relationship?

Speaker [00:37:09]: When you say trust, I mean how should I understand trust, I mean I feel safe. Nothing will happen to me.

Interviewer [00:37:19]: We can understand it in two ways. We can talk about being physically safe, feeling safe.

Speaker [00:37:25]: By the way, she's going boxing.

Interviewer [00:37:27]: (Laughs)

Speaker [00:37:28]: (Laughs) [Partner's Name]. So I feel safe in spite of her.

Interviewer [00:37:33]: Okay.

Speaker [00:37:34]: In that respect. What is the other one?

Interviewer [00:37:35]: Hmm... You feel physically safe. The other one is feeling emotionally safe. Being able to openly share what you've shared without judgment or fear of reprisal... In a sense.

Speaker [00:37:49]: I can explain, but there has to be someone who wants to understand, who has the intention to understand.

Interviewer [00:37:57]: Hmm...

Speaker [00:37:58]: I will explain, but maybe it is not trust, it is not the word for trust. Well, I trust that, so there is no problem with that. I tell.

Interviewer [00:38:12]: It gets confused with the thing in [Language]. I'm not talking about trusting, I'm talking about being safe, uh, being comfortable. Hmm...

Speaker [00:38:20]: It's not if it's...

Interviewer [00:38:21]: Uh-huh...

Speaker [00:38:22]: Let me say this. It's not "Oh man, look, I can make my point".

Interviewer [00:38:25]: Uh-huh... That's more or less it, yeah.

Speaker [00:38:27]: Definitely, not for sure. Because I'm telling you, that's the thing. You know, the problem is already there. Not making an effort to understand.

Interviewer [00:38:48]: Do you want to give one example?

Speaker [00:38:55]: You know when [Name] says something for 1.5-2 hours and you die laughing, but then you can't tell your friend. What was it?

Interviewer [00:39:04]: Hmm...

Speaker [00:39:05]: This is something like that. I have something that I can give an example of right now... I can say it as a concept, I mean, I always say the same thing because we emphasize it a lot. I must have explained "Brother, don't put this here" a thousand times. Why not? For example, "Don't put hot things on that wooden table, it stains it". Not this one, but like this one. I just remembered, I saw a stain over there (laughs). Well, to understand this for example, I mean, she doesn't even listen. The other party doesn't even listen. But how does she not listen? "Oh, not again." I couldn't explain it to you once (laughs). I mean, if you listen to the whole thing at once, maybe you will do it, but then the thing will come into play, even if she listens, she won't do it.

Interviewer [00:39:59]: Hmm...

Speaker [00:40:00]: Well, she doesn't do it out of spite in such cases. That's her system. She won't do it out of spite. She does not as long as you keep digging into it. Maybe it is, I don't know. If it is, then actually the reason for the trouble is very obvious, if it is (laughs).

Interviewer [00:40:33]: We are nearing the end of our interview. I'm going to share an image with you, and we're going to go through it. I'll just find it. I'll open it. I'll share it. One second. Uh... "Does my partner usually really listen to me?" One, not true at all. Nine, totally true.

Speaker [00:41:03]: Tam question.

Interviewer [00:41:05]: Yes. Nine is exactly right. How many would you give? By the way, I'm not asking in the sense of listening, listening is the word you just used...

Speaker [00:41:15]: Okay, I get it. I mean, let me put it this way, let me say two. There are times when it is, and that is with my effort. So two.

Interviewer [00:41:36]: Let me ask why not one or why not three.

Speaker [00:41:40]: As I said, I mean... Once in a while, of course, we sit down... You know, more like this... On a day when we sit at the raki table in the evening with more pleasure, you know, we also talk. It doesn't lead to anything, but at least it happens. So it's not one.

Interviewer [00:42:08]: "My partner is usually sensitive to my needs". One, not true at all, nine, totally true.

Speaker [00:42:16]: Five.

Interviewer [00:42:18]: Why not four?

Speaker [00:42:25]: So... So... Four, okay.

Interviewer [00:42:33]: Why not six?

Speaker [00:42:34]: So there is not much difference between four and five.

Interviewer [00:42:37]: Why not six?

Speaker [00:42:38]: So there are four reasons why not? Very simple psychologically...

Interviewer [00:42:39]: Uh-huh...

Speaker [00:42:41]: It doesn't say anything underneath, that's not why.

Interviewer [00:42:42]: (Laughs)

Speaker [00:42:43]: Partly true, more true.

Interviewer [00:42:46]: Okay. Is there a reason why it's not six? Again, that it doesn't say anything underneath?

Speaker [00:42:51]: Then it would be more like

Interviewer [00:42:54]: Positive

Speaker [00:42:55]: Sensitive. So she is not sensitive. I mean, then I will contradict myself. We are talking about so many things (laughs).

Interviewer [00:43:11]: Can I ask you two questions about your sex life, if you don't mind me asking?

Speaker [00:43:16]: I don't want to give a detailed answer, but it's not good. I can say that.

Interviewer [00:43:22]: I had one question "Are you satisfied?". I take that as not good then.

Speaker [00:43:30]: I mean in terms of frequency, even bad, I mean.

Interviewer [00:43:37]: If you could give me a number?

Speaker [00:43:37]: I guessed that this question would come. I mean, in the relationship test, there will always be such a question.

Interviewer [00:43:47]: You can't talk about a relationship without sexuality. If you were to give a number about the frequency. What would you say?

Speaker [00:43:54]: I don't have any. It's bad. It's very bad. Well no, there is no will of the parties.

Interviewer [00:44:04]: Okay. No desire.

Speaker [00:44:06]: Yes.

Interviewer [00:44:07]: Okay. If I ask, "Are you satisfied?"

Speaker [00:44:10]: From what? (laughs) Something that doesn't exist? From what?

Interviewer [00:44:21]: Then let me move on to the next question. If I ask you how satisfied you are with your relationship in general. I am completely dissatisfied, very dissatisfied, somewhat dissatisfied, not sure, undecided.

Speaker [00:44:32]: I am very dissatisfied.

Interviewer [00:44:44]: Then that one. Minus 10 is being completely dissatisfied. If zero is no dissatisfaction at all.

Speaker [00:44:56]: The state of being satisfied, zero.

Interviewer [00:44:59]: Uh, I would not be pleased at all. The absence of the negative, let's say.

Speaker [00:45:03]: Oh, okay. Okay, I got it. So 8-9 here too.

Interviewer [00:45:10]: Minus 8-9.

Speaker [00:45:13]: Yes. So that's where it's all about dissatisfaction.

Interviewer [00:45:17]: Just below

Speaker [00:45:19]: 1 or 2 notches below.

Interviewer [00:45:31]: That's it.

Speaker [00:45:33]: Thank you.

Interviewer [00:45:34]: This is the end of our interview.

Speaker [00:45:36]: So is this video being published somewhere?

Interviewer [00:45:40]: Uh... The video is not even going to leave my computer, we don't even want to keep it, we might even delete it. I'm only taking the recordings, I was going to talk about them. I'm only taking the recordings so that I can translate them into eee text. None of the recordings will be used anywhere. There will only be an analysis of this conversation on paper.

Speaker [00:46:03]: No names are mentioned.

Interviewer [00:46:05]: All identities will be stripped of their credentials.

Speaker [00:46:08]: I didn't ask these questions because I was nervous. Well, I said, my daughter [Name] is a [occupation] or something.

Interviewer [00:46:15]: Uh-huh.

Speaker [00:46:16]: I know one or two things about her too, don't get me wrong. Professional, ethical and such horrible things about this. For example, she's talking to someone, she's going to this thing. I say, "Is it a man?" Dad, this information is not given. And she, for example, doesn't give names, blah, blah, blah, blah. That's how it came to my mind. Otherwise, it's definitely not because of anything.

Interviewer [00:46:36]: Right. The whole identity will be purged of data that can identify you. Where you live, your name, your name, your spouse, your name, your daughter's name, your job. It will be used by removing information that can be used to recognize you. An analysis is made on these, in other words, these words will be subjected to a data analysis. After that, we have 3 options. About how we can use this data. One of them is that you can always say "I have changed my mind, I don't want my data to be used" now or any time in the future. I mean, it could be 3 months later, it could be 6 months later. When you inform us, we will use your data as if it had never happened. We have 2 options about using it. One is that you can allow us to use only parts of this transcribed document. So you can choose one paragraph, you can say "You can share two paragraphs", or you can agree to make the whole de-identified text available to the scientific community. As I said, without anything that can be tied to you. But in the second option, that is, when we make the whole interview available, even de-identified, there is no way that someone who knows you, who really knows you, who knows what your relationship was like, can guess you...

Speaker [00:48:08]: Guess me when they read it, no dear.

Interviewer [00:48:10]: I don't think so. But I have to say it because it is a possibility.

Speaker [00:48:15]: No, no. That is not an option for me. If it was, we wouldn't be having these conversations anyway.

Interviewer [00:48:20]: Ok, then we can use all the data, we can use it, I understand correctly.

Speaker [00:48:23]: of course

Interviewer [00:48:26]: I would like to summarize before we finish. About what we talked about. If I misunderstood something, if there is something you want to add, if you want to say that I said something wrong here, I should correct this, I said something incomplete, I should add this, let me summarize what we talked about. You are [56-60] years old. You have been married since [Year]. Before that, you were together for [1-5] years. You have been together for [30-35] years. You have [1-5] child, [26-30] years old. You live with your husband, [relative] and sometimes your daughter. You recently quit your job as a [occupation].

Speaker [00:49:08]: It's been [1-5] years, exactly [1-5] years.

Interviewer [00:49:12]: You help a friend run their business, you clean up after them.

Speaker [00:49:20]: Rather than cleaning up after him, he is very busy, he can't keep up with a lot of things. I'm doing both his personal affairs and his company affairs, so cleaning up after him may not be a very good word.

Interviewer [00:49:32]: Okay.

Speaker [00:49:33]: I mean, even in absentia, it doesn't seem right to use it too much.

Interviewer [00:49:37]: Okay. Let me say you are being supportive then.

Speaker [00:49:39]: Yeah, it's much more... I'm trying to take the load off of it.

Interviewer [00:49:44]: Ok. When I asked you how you met your wife, you said you met at the [company].

Speaker [00:49:49]: Yes.

Interviewer [00:49:50]: You mentioned that she was one of the particularly beautiful of the ladies there.

Speaker [00:49:57]: So let me put it like this (laughs). My wife is a really beautiful woman. I mean really like this... Well, first of all, physically, let me say the 4-5 kilos, 6 kilos she gained at birth. Birth, I mean after giving birth, she is the same. Her weight has never changed from that day to today. It's enough to be annoying... (laughs)

Interviewer [00:50:22]: (laughs)

Speaker [00:50:23]: She is fit. She was really, I mean, there were a lot of people who wanted to be with her. I said, "Get the fuck out of the way", I took her from among them. I got her right away, I mean I got her from the jackals' table (laughs).

Interviewer [00:50:39]: You said you have a way with words.

Speaker [00:50:41]: Yes.

Interviewer [00:50:42]: That you did everything together, went to the movies together, played games together.

Speaker [00:50:45]: Yes.

Interviewer [00:50:46]: You're totally together at work.

Speaker [00:50:47]: Yes, and we used to talk a lot, I'll say that specifically. We used to talk a lot. That is decreasing. You know, it is decreasing for many, many reasons. For example, it just came to my mind now. I haven't changed, but you think why? I mean, you can't talk anymore. I'm the same, I still want to talk. She doesn't talk, she doesn't want to. You can add this.

Interviewer [00:51:14]: I'll add, you mentioned that you got it from the Jackal's table.

Speaker [00:51:27]: Yes.

Interviewer [00:51:28]: When I asked you how your relationship is compared to the relationships around you, you said that you have known very poor quality relationships and you have known better relationships, and you are at an equal distance to both of them, so you have an average relationship. You said that the only thing that was bad was the change in temperament. It was almost like foreshadowing, addressing the aftermath of our conversations.

Speaker [00:51:55]: Yes (laughs).

Interviewer [00:51:57]: Well, exactly. You said that you knew everything, everything about each other, that there was no love left. You said that you had [1-5] relationships before, but it was not possible to compare them with these relationships, none of them were marriages and marriage is different, it is undefinable...

Speaker [00:52:17]: Absolutely.

Interviewer [00:52:18]: You mentioned that they are too different to compare.

Speaker [00:52:22]: So other concepts.

Interviewer [00:52:24]: You mentioned that your relationship was better before you got married. During the marriage, you mentioned that when you have been together for so long, there are inevitably external factors and that these external factors at least put a strain on your relationship and your life. You said that the economic disaster brought about by your business between [Year] and [Year] also affected your relationship. You said that a relationship

Speaker [00:52:52]: Very naturally, very naturally, I mean.

Interviewer [00:52:56]: When I asked what makes a relationship quality, you said empathy, you said respect. You defined empathy as guessing what you might want, what you might think, being able to feel it, but then you said that the most important factor for empathy is to know what you don't want and to act in a way that respects them.

Speaker [00:53:20]: Yes.

Interviewer [00:53:21]: You implied that everything else is under this state of understanding, of trying to understand, that when we try to understand, everything else settles by itself.

Speaker [00:53:33]: Yes.

Interviewer [00:53:34]: I said what makes it inferior, what makes it inferior. You said the absence of these things, you said you start not talking. You said that when these things don't happen, the relationship starts not to talk, and coldness and distance occur. Exactly, understanding what you want. You said I shouldn't say it a thousand times. Difficulties, and then the topic went there. We started talking about your difficulties in your relationship. You said you have obsessions. You said that you have obsessions about order, clutter, things being in their place, maybe not all of them, but at least the problem...

Speaker [00:54:13]: Most of them are like that.

Interviewer [00:54:15]: Order and clutter.

Speaker [00:54:17]: So...By the way, let me add this.

Interviewer [00:54:23]: Please.

Speaker [00:54:24]: This... This may be very disturbing to other people, I'm not just saying it for [Partner's Name]. I mean, I'm fine with that, but I think that if I see something from that side, I would absorb these obsessions, I would reduce them. You know, at least I wouldn't voice it. Inside myself... But when I see that there is none... For example, she says, "You are obsessed with so many things, I am already taking care of some of them". But for you, it should not be something that needs to be taken care of. It should already be like that. If the lid of something is opened, it should be closed when we are done. You know, it's not like, "Oh, look, good for him, he closed the lid." Can something like that be so ridiculous? I'm just trying to make it the usual thing. I'm over it.

Interviewer [00:55:22]: That you feel... that you feel... that you don't care.

Speaker [00:55:25]: Exactly, exactly.

Interviewer [00:55:28]: You mentioned that you try to ignore feeling ignored, but the lack of communication leads to silence. You mentioned that you clashed a lot, you clashed every day. You mentioned that the pandemic was particularly challenging in this regard. You mentioned that staying together all the time, being intertwined... You mentioned that it did not reach a solution. You mentioned that the solution at this point in your relationship after this time is silence, and that this silence is in a sense...

Speaker [00:55:56]: That's what I found. I mean... That's what it sounds like. Let me put it like that. Otherwise, okay, this is not our solution.

Interviewer [00:56:05]: This is the solution you have.

Speaker [00:56:08]: So that's what I chose.

Interviewer [00:56:11]: And you mentioned that choosing this reticence makes you reticent in general. Actually, in general... I think in summary, one of the main summaries of our interview is to start being silent in your relationship. When I asked, "What is love?" you mentioned that you fell in love once in high school, and that from there, if you define it from there, it was to experience a thrill that you couldn't think of anything else. You said that there is no relationship without love, that it is essential for a relationship to start, to be established.

Speaker [00:56:49]: Relationship leading to marriage. I am especially saying that.

Interviewer [00:56:51]: Hmm... leading to marriage...

Speaker [00:56:52]: Or relationship... Of course, we've all dated, we've all had short relationships. But that's not love (aşk). I mean...

Interviewer [00:57:03]: You mentioned that as the relationship progresses, as time passes, the intensity of this love changes, it does not remain the same, but it is important that it does not end so that the relationship can continue at a similar height.

Speaker [00:57:18]: Yes.

Interviewer [00:57:20]: When I asked you what are the ways to keep the relationship going, you said wanting to keep it going. You talked about giving of yourself, making sacrifices. You mentioned that as the number of sacrifices increases, it becomes harder to stay in balance, it becomes harder not to be taken. You mentioned that it is problematic if one party is always giving. I asked you if this relationship is good for you, if it is good for you, and you said that it is not these days. You said that you are always in a state of accumulation. You implied that you are angry and resentful, that it would be much easier to show empathy if you were not angry and resentful. You said that the relationship did not change you. To describe how the relationship did not change you, you talked about how your relationship in college, with the people you have known since college, did not change, and that they did not change either, and the importance of your observations there in your conclusion. You said that your spouse has changed. You said that an important factor in your husband's change could have been the wear and tear of the economic downturn. You said that retreating into your shell there, trying to tolerate, trying to endure, the difficulties, the silences may have accumulated in you, may have made you say "eh", and that this state of saying "eh" may lead to lack of effort, not trying...

Speaker [00:58:52]: Let me actually make a correction here.

Interviewer [00:58:55]: Please.

Speaker [00:58:57]: When you say that she has changed, it would be more accurate to say that economic conditions should not be the first thing, but the first thing to start not trying. So that's the main one.

Interviewer [00:59:12]: Economic conditions are only a factor on the way to that.

Speaker [00:59:15]: Because, because, for example, in that time of economic distress, I couldn't do something. You know what I mean? I mean, that's the previous thing. In fact, this issue is the main beginning of my thing that she started not to strive. I mean, if we put it in the foreground, the economic story is underneath it.

Interviewer [00:59:49]: You mentioned that you feel safe in your relationship, that you are not afraid of your physical safety, but because you don't see an effort to understand, you can talk about emotional safety, we can't talk about emotional safety. So that's it...

Speaker [01:00:08]: So it's not like oh well I'll go home...

Interviewer [01:00:13]: Hmm...

Speaker [01:00:14]: I confide in my wife. So that's what you're saying, right?

Interviewer [01:00:17]: Yes.

Speaker [01:00:18]: There is no such thing, there is no confidence in that.

Interviewer [01:00:21]: When I asked you how much you were listened to, you said two; when I asked you how much your needs were heard, you said five; when I asked you how satisfied or dissatisfied you were in your relationship, you said very dissatisfied, minus eight. You mentioned that you don't have a sexual life and therefore you are not satisfied. That's it. This is more or less what we talked about in our interview.

Speaker [01:00:47]: Yes, that's exactly right. I hope this will be useful in your work.

Interviewer [01:00:52]: Absolutely.

Speaker [01:00:54]: I mean, really, of course, I know from my daughter that they have difficulties in doing things like this. Therefore, I wanted to participate in this by empathizing (laughs). If something happens, we can talk again. There will be another topic, there will be something. We'll talk again. You already have my phone number.

Interviewer [01:01:14]: Exactly, registered.

Speaker [01:01:16]: We can talk again at any time.

Interviewer [01:01:18]: Okay. Thank you very, very, very much for all...

Speaker [01:01:21]: I thank you.

Interviewer [01:01:22]: For your time and effort.

Speaker [01:01:23]: Are you going to continue right away? Because she's going to talk from here, from this thing.

Interviewer [01:01:27]: One fifteen minutes...How many minutes do we have left? Let's meet in ten minutes. We agreed with him for one fifteen.

Speaker [01:01:33]: Okay. Then I'll turn off the zoom.

Interviewer [01:01:35]: Sure, let's close.

Speaker [01:01:36]: You will send the link yourself, right?

Interviewer [01:01:36]: I'll start a new link.

Speaker [01:01:37]: Okay, okay. All right. See you soon.

Interviewer [01:01:39] : Thank you, take care.

Speaker [01:01:41]: Thank you, good luck. Thank you very much.
