

Speaker 1 [00:00:01] So I started to save it on my computer. Can you confirm that you have read the consent form and that you are willing to voluntarily participate in this study?

Speaker 2 [00:00:11] I confirm.

Speaker 1 [00:00:13] How old are you?

Speaker 2 [00:00:16] [50-55].

Speaker 1 [00:00:18] Is it convenient for you if I take notes? Is it okay for me to take notes at that stage?

Speaker 2 [00:00:24] Of course.

Speaker 1 [00:00:26] How long have you been with your partner?

Speaker 2 [00:00:29] [26-30] years.

Speaker 1 [00:00:32] Do you have children?

Speaker 2 [00:00:36] I'm turning up the volume a little more to hear it clearly, you have headphones.

Speaker 1 [00:00:39] Yes, let me speak more clearly then. How many are there.

Speaker 2 [00:00:46] [1-5]

Speaker 1 [00:00:48] How old are they?

Speaker 2 [00:00:50] [20-25] [20-25]..

Speaker 1 [00:00:54] What is your main source of income?

Speaker 2 [00:01:00] Retired.

Speaker 1 [00:01:04] Who do you live with at home?

Speaker 2 [00:01:09] My wife and daughter. There are [1-5] of us. My son, the [1st-5th], is studying.

Speaker 1 [00:01:22] He does not live at home.

Speaker 2 [00:01:24] Yes, he studies outside. At the university, outside.

Speaker 1 [00:01:29] Is it appropriate to call your husband and wife or would you prefer me to call them something else?

Speaker 2 [00:01:37] It makes no difference. It is appropriate exactly as you say.

Speaker 1 [00:01:41] Would you like to tell me a little bit about the story of how you met?

Speaker 2 [00:01:49] Meeting?

Speaker 1 [00:01:52] How did you meet? How did you meet? How did your relationship progress. How long did it last? What happened? Let's go back [26-30] years ago.

Speaker 2 [00:02:03] I'll have to go back a long way. How would that work? I mean I don't go back very far.

Speaker 1 [00:02:07] Whatever comes to your mind, that's enough for me.

Speaker 2 [00:02:14] REDACTED. We met at her [relative's] house. When REDACTED comes and goes from REDACTED here, I knew her however, there was no acquaintance. Because I see her all the time, it's like an acquaintance. I said something like, I don't know, "isn't this city a bit small? It's narrow here, it's exciting here. Can't you come to REDACTED?" I tricked her and brought her to REDACTED. She had qualms about living in a big city like REDACTED. I dived straight into the subject. Here, we would like to come tomorrow, the day after tomorrow, we will betroth, we will be engaged, living in the big city while I was faltering. I did not overcome her fears about the big city, but I said a few things and..

Speaker 1 [00:03:21] After you've gotten rid of her worries.

Speaker 2 [00:03:24] As you said, we said that everyone lives in that big city, so why shouldn't we? so we've gotten rid of her worries. And so we have been living in this city for [26-30] years. We tried to escape from time to time. There was always a reason. One of the children started high school, I quit my job. Ahah, I got a lump sum of money, let's run away to another city. Again we couldn't escape, this time the other child started university and so on and so on, so we are still REDACTED in the [26th-30th] year. Could we leave when we retired? No, we couldn't leave when we retired, we are still here.

Speaker 1 [00:04:02] So your relationship developed fast in a sense.

Speaker 2 [00:04:06] Our start was not a rapid development, we made it accelerated. I mean, there is no need for such things like dating and so on and so forth, my father said that you came to ask for it, you came all this way, stay for a week, be a guest, there are many houses here, neighbors, hotels and so on. He said "betroth and engage and then go". You know, let's name it right away, shorten it right away. When he said that, it was very fast. When he said so, then we accelerated it. The other stages are like this, as you know...

Speaker 1 [00:04:48] Are we talking about your wife's father?

Speaker 2 [00:05:01] Yes. The late father-in-law.

Speaker 1 [00:05:02] The family, the families were also in favor of it being fast.

Speaker 1 [00:05:02] I'll move on to my next question. How would you rate the quality of your own relationships compared to the relationships of your friends and acquaintances?

Speaker 2 [00:05:21] I've never measured it according to friends, but now that you ask, if I were to measure it, it seems like they are a little more flirty and capricious. This is not the case for us at all. Because as we climb the ladder one step at a time, since we have already passed the years one by one, we have come to love one step at a time, one step at a time.

Speaker 1 [00:05:48] You seem to be saying that we came by building our love step by step.

Speaker 2 [00:05:59] Of course, of course, of course, I mean, oh look, this is how it happens, this is an attitude we see in someone else. For example, let's say caprice, but we have come by building like this, as if it can be done without caprice, and we have come by knitting and knitting and knitting the dense weave.

Speaker 1 [00:06:18] By knitting what densely? In a sense, the way the sentence comes is to knit densely, but what do you mean by knitting densely?

Speaker 2 [00:06:31] Ties, love (sevgi). I mean, for example, people look for what they like, what they listen to, what they do, so they look for commonalities. On the contrary, instead of finding commonalities, we found each other, instead of finding commonalities, we acquired those commonalities together.

Speaker 1 [00:06:56] We adopted, we created, instead of looking for.

Speaker 2 [00:07:00] Sure, exactly. Otherwise, maybe we would have said, "Ugh, this doesn't work, I don't like this at all" and maybe we would have turned around and gone to the other side. So it became like that because we are not like that.

Speaker 1 [00:07:15] So how would you compare the quality of your relationship with the quality of the people around you? You said that others are flirty and capricious. What does that mean? Can we turn it into a question about the quality of the relationship?

Speaker 2 [00:07:33] To open the question about quality. Do you need to number the quality, like from 0 to 10?

Speaker 1 [00:07:42] We will come to that. Right now we are in the more subjective part.

Speaker 2 [00:07:48] I don't know, it's complicated. What do I have to answer the question with now? Let me just compare it. Can you explain a little bit more?

Speaker 1 [00:07:56] We're probably stuck somewhere like this. You have doubts about what quality means, where and from which context you should compare, what you want to answer, if you hear correctly. I am actually interested in what you understand quality to be. Whatever you define as quality is quality.

Speaker 2 [00:08:27] The bond between us. Love (sevgi), affection (aşk), communication, doing it all properly with style and order. Ugh, that's what you told me. No, you know, there are some processes that go like that, you know, my aunt got angry next to the roses (not understood), and here it is the same. It's definitely something we don't have. You know, if it happened there, it has already happened there. Compared to others. Of course, I see the love (sevgi), connection, and expression as better quality than others.

Speaker 1 [00:09:09] Can we say that these mean high quality? So to be more connected, to have more love, to communicate more, to have a proper tone.

Speaker 2 [00:09:20] Maybe not very high quality but quality. Maybe there is a higher quality. For example, I don't know. Maybe there are things that are shown in a romantic movie or in a TV series or something that are extreme, maybe they exist in real life. Maybe they may also behave like that. If we categorize them among themselves, maybe they have more quality than us.

Speaker 1 [00:09:53] Would you like to elaborate a little bit on what makes bonding, love, communication valuable for you?

Speaker 2 [00:10:03] For me.

Speaker 1 [00:10:05] What makes these things valuable. Why are they important for you?

Speaker 2 [00:10:19] What makes it valuable, I mean what makes my wife valuable, my wife.

Speaker 1 [00:10:23] What makes bonding, love, communication valuable. I'm asking because we use these to define quality, these are obviously important things.

Speaker 2 [00:10:40] Now I feel like I'm stuck, I can't find what to connect it with and answer. It's like the vocabulary is limited.

Speaker 1 [00:10:50] But let's continue somewhere else, let's go back. Can I ask you how many romantic relationships you had in the past before your wife.

Speaker 2 [00:11:05] Maybe [1-5], not even [1-5]. Or maybe [1-5], [1-5] and a half. Because if we think of it as more of a rambunctious fun time. When you try to earn money at a young age, to support a household, it's as if you have a goal, another goal, and when you have that goal, you can't pay much attention to the others. Maybe life has been like that. [20-25] years is good or [20-25] years.

Speaker 1 [00:11:40] The first [20-25] years?

Speaker 2 [00:11:42] Yes, then the [occupation] and when I came back, what should we do, what should we do, let's get married then.

Speaker 1 [00:11:52] How would you rate the quality of your current relationship compared to your previous relationships? Even though they were short.

Speaker 2 [00:12:04] I can't compare. They don't exist in that case. Why not? It's like you're in public transportation, you're in a minibus or, one round two minutes, sorry, let me go that way, or go ahead, or I pressed the button, get off.

Speaker 1 [00:12:25] Short? No depth.

Speaker 2 [00:12:28] Like that, it was like that.

Speaker 1 [00:12:31] So what makes a relationship low quality?

Speaker 2 [00:12:39] Ego. If the person has self-righteousness, insatiability. I think these two are big reasons, I can't say anything else.

Speaker 1 [00:13:00] Can you tell me something that makes it low quality as characteristics of the relationship? These are comments about people who are in relationships.

Speaker 2 [00:13:12] What should be in the relationship?

Speaker 1 [00:13:15] Ego, arrogance, insatiability, characteristics of the people in the relationship, but is there anything about the relationship itself that makes it low quality if we treat the relationship as if it were a tree, as if we were talking about something else, as if we were talking about something else?

Speaker 2 [00:13:46] So if what makes the relationship high is to feel it, then it remains numbness. no feeling.

Speaker 1 [00:13:58] What does it mean for you to feel the relationship?

Speaker 2 [00:14:09] A beauty in a person's demeanor or voice that touches your soul.

Speaker 1 [00:14:22] Can we say that recognizing this soul touching beauty makes the relationship high quality?

Speaker 2 [00:14:38] And in order to make it high quality, there probably has to be the same reciprocation. The same feelings, the same appreciation, the same soul touching. You have to apply it.

Speaker 1 [00:14:59] What are the most important things in a relationship for you?

Speaker 2 [00:15:24] So when it comes to this year. You know how it is to understand what is important before you say it? Let me describe it like that. Understanding. To feel. Understanding and responding quickly. I mean, in every sense. The need with an attitude. To respond quickly or to fill the gap.

Speaker 1 [00:16:03] If I ask you why do you think it is important to understand, to understand, to respond quickly to the need quickly? And to feel. What makes it important for you?

Speaker 2 [00:16:28] So it keeps the standard of living on this positivity all the time. I think. It's like, we remain like an incomplete, negative. And so on.

Speaker 1 [00:16:54] What is love for you?

Speaker 2 [00:17:02] I've always defined it as feeling in the heart. I still define it that way. It's this. Touching your soul, feeling it in your heart, love (aşk). So it can be a beautiful image in nature. It's also love (aşk). And for the person. As I said, the fact that she can answer, that she returns quickly, that she touches your soul. That is also love.

Speaker 1 [00:17:44] So how important is love in a relationship? Using your definition.

Speaker 2 [00:17:58] In percentage terms it is very important. I mean ninety to ninety-five maybe. Being in love.

Speaker 1 [00:18:15] So how do you know that your partner loves you, is in love with you? Or how does one know?

Speaker 2 [00:18:35] I mean how do I know, I know like this. Because she acts in a more healing way in a contrary action. Because she can act more constructively in every negative thing, in every negative thing. That is, not being indifferent to something, not being callous. When doing something, you know, there is a motto like a lot of things. Make the company happy and you will be happy. You know. My love applies to me and I apply the same to her.

Speaker 1 [00:19:33] Seeing that you make each other happy, seeing that he makes an effort to make you happy.

Speaker 2 [00:19:39] A love (aşk) is the same. It is love (aşk). For us.

Speaker 1 [00:19:40] What challenges would you say your relationship has?

Speaker 2 [00:19:53] The difficulties were, you know. It was difficult in the beginning. You know, the beginning of every relationship is difficult. There is the environment factor like he said that, she said that. Then, if the person corrects the other person that he/she has set his/her own goal, then over time, just like we do, the stairs will be climbed one by one. So the difficulty does not remain. I think there is already the difficulty of the environment. Well... What is that caused by? For example, among the people, there is a bride and sister-in-law quarrel, but there is no mother-in-law and son-in-law because both of them go soft on.. In the other case, I don't have it, why does she have it? So problems arise from small little things like that. Even if a problem arises with the effect of environmental factors on us, we say, "Never mind, it's ours" and we pass it by, and then we still make each other happy somehow, that part is forgotten.

Speaker 1 [00:21:07] Current, in the last year or regularly, semi-regularly. Do you have any difficulties? Your relationship with your spouse, the way you live, are there any issues that you argue about?

Speaker 2 [00:21:21] There are. Sometimes there is a difference of opinion. Child rearing, behavior. I mean, we argue about things like asking for something that is demanded and so on, we argue about something in our daily life. But the arguments are short-lived for some reason.

Speaker 1 [00:21:57] How do you solve it?

Speaker 2 [00:22:04] Probably because the majority of them are not a big problem. I think we solved it because I cut it out and she tries to be more constructive.

Speaker 1 [00:22:15] What does it mean to cut it out?

Speaker 2 [00:22:17] I mean. Without prolonging the discussion. You know, it was already like that. Whether they like it or not doesn't affect us, it doesn't concern us. Like let the time stay there, like not caring.

Speaker 1 [00:22:38] How often do you argue?

Speaker 2 [00:22:43] There is no such frequency.

Speaker 1 [00:22:45] I mean once a day, once a week, once a month, once a year on average.

Speaker 2 [00:22:50] Maybe twice a week, maybe three times a week. I don't know, then maybe everything, when we don't have something around us that makes us uneasy, maybe. We can have a very good time and then again a little unrest, maybe an argument again. As I said, these are all environmental factors.

Speaker 1 [00:23:20] You mentioned child upbringing and demands, rather than difficulties and discussion topics. Would it be appropriate for you to open with an example of what we are talking about?

Speaker 2 [00:23:39] For example. Now, because she is a [occupation], she knows how to shop at home or in the market, but she doesn't know some of the expenses of life outside. And when I give too much money to the child, she gets angry with me, why are you giving too much? But now I give a little bit more so that I don't enslave him to someone else outside, so that he may need it. This is my opinion. You know we had an argument about this. She may have cut the discussion short after that, and in the next round, she may have taken the child aside so that he would not give more money next time, and she may have educated and trained the child to say that he has it, you don't have it, he shouldn't be like that, he shouldn't be like that. I have also seen that the next time he asked for pocket money, even if I gave him more, he didn't take it.

Speaker 1 [00:24:37] Instead of discussing this for a long time, you have been discussing the problem of the child and the child in a sense.

Speaker 2 [00:24:43] Yes, maybe.

Speaker 1 [00:24:45] Maybe, can you give 1 example of demands?

Speaker 2 [00:24:55] Demands.

Speaker 1 [00:24:56] You said demands. When I said where do the challenges come from. When I said where arguments come from.

Speaker 2 [00:25:06] Shopping for holidays or, I don't know, weddings, things like that. Budget. That will happen to us or not, like that. It's not a big deal. These are the situations that can be passed with a small discussion.

Speaker 1 [00:25:36] Other than cutting things short or being constructive, what other ways do you use to maintain your relationship?

Speaker 2 [00:26:00] I mean, it's always going on in a static life. Little things for better or for worse. Sometimes I think of a surprise with the madness of the breeze.

Speaker 1 [00:26:12] Hmm.

Speaker 2 [00:26:14] So it's either that. Or it's either. I'll take that surprise to the next. Because it's pushed back to her birthday or the day before her birthday. I mean, I said, let's meet there at 5 o'clock, let's go here, I have work, I can't come, or when she gives the answer that there will be guests coming, which has already happened. So that's it, it's over. The time is left for the next really official day. My surprise is to keep something happier for a happier life. What I'm dealing with falls on a real official day. It's a public holiday anyway, so you have to do it on that day. So it's not a surprise. It's left in the air.

Speaker 1 [00:27:12] It's not a surprise.

Speaker 2 [00:27:13] I mean because of the other party. Because that day is already a special day, because there is an expectation of such a day, because you have already done it on that day, so it is not worth recording.

Speaker 1 [00:27:27] Is there anything other than making surprises in between?

Speaker 2 [00:27:34] I mean no. Because the surprise there is a little bit more, like it increases the love (sevgi), excitement, or if there is resentment, it makes you forget it. Because it is a process of that nature.

Speaker 1 [00:27:57] Would you like to give an example of this surprise?

Speaker 2 [00:28:03] How?

Speaker 1 [00:28:04] Do you want to give an example of a surprise? What kind of surprises are we talking about.

Speaker 2 [00:28:12] An example.

Speaker 2 [00:28:14] For example, in the morning I say I'm getting up to brew tea. I put a few drops of water in a small bag and put the rose, the flower in that water so that it doesn't dry until the morning. You stick it inside the cabinet door. When she goes and opens it in the morning, she doesn't prolong the argument. When he sees the flower there, everything is cleared up.

Speaker 1 [00:29:12] It's like when you tell it; there's also noticing what they did for you and reciprocating.

Speaker 2 [00:29:23] So yes they are in that action. Of course.

Speaker 1 [00:29:29] Would you say that this relationship is good for you?

Speaker 2 [00:29:34] Yes. It's beyond perfect.

Speaker 1 [00:29:40] What makes it beyond perfect?

Speaker 2 [00:29:45] That. And the understanding of my partner is what makes it beyond perfect.

Speaker 1 [00:29:57] What is good for you?

Speaker 2 [00:30:04] Being a happy family, we have [1-5] children.

Speaker 1 [00:30:16] Other than having a family, is there anything else that makes your relationship good for you?

Speaker 2 [00:30:26] That's the basis. So peace at home, that's the wealth. Short and clear.

Speaker 1 [00:30:43] It's also instrumental in living a peaceful life.

Speaker 2 [00:30:49] So when I get angry somewhere, if she prevents me, if she shows me the truth, it's good, it's a big part, it's a big reason. It's my partner.

Speaker 1 [00:31:03] She encourages you towards appropriate behavior?

Speaker 2 [00:31:09] Yes, she prevents you from going down the wrong path.

Speaker 1 [00:31:27] Would you like to elaborate a little bit more on right and wrong as a path?

Speaker 2 [00:31:33] For example, our business life, our partnership. In response to what is being done to us here, I have to give a very fierce response. I am like that. Let's say I get angry. She intervenes at that moment. She says so let them stay with what they did, you don't need to get angry, you don't need to fight back. She doesn't say don't do that, go and transfer money to their bank or account or buy them a flower or something like that, you know, she doesn't direct me in any other way, she stops that part.

Speaker 1 [00:32:11] It also contributes to controlling your emotions.

Speaker 2 [00:32:14] I mean, of course. In a way, I mean, you know how they say that you have to take a deep breath and think, what should I do in such a situation, she is my deep breath there.

Speaker 1 [00:32:36] Did this relationship change you?

Speaker 2 [00:32:41] Of course it has, how could it not?

Speaker 1 [00:32:47] How did it change you, in what ways?

Speaker 2 [00:32:54] It made me think more calmly, more mature, more broadly. The pros and cons of everything. Think twice, act once, thinking about what it is and what it is not.

Speaker 1 [00:33:10] Are these the states that you have acquired in your relationship with your husband or wife? Think twice, act once. Were you more impulsive?

Speaker 2 [00:33:22] Sure.

Speaker 1 [00:33:23] Huh? Can we break it down into the influence of your partner and the influence of your relationship here? And as you mature, you become less impulsive.

Speaker 2 [00:33:36] So it's related to all of them because the metabolism slows down as you get older. But it's like I can't separate the two.

Speaker 1 [00:33:54] Your spouse plays a big role then.

Speaker 2 [00:33:56] So they are one and the same. It's like the relationship and the spouse are one thing. Like two chemicals and two catalysts. One acts, one cools. It's like soldering with hot air in other electronics. So the two should be one.

Speaker 1 [00:34:21] So has she changed?

Speaker 2 [00:34:28] Of course she changed in the process, but as you said, the changing part. It can also happen with aging and maturity.

Speaker 1 [00:34:42] Did she change because she got older, or are there things in the relationship that changed with your influence?

Speaker 2 [00:34:50] There probably are. Because... If we are not doing and sharing something, a process, a life together, even if we are not reciprocating or not reciprocating, as we talked about at the beginning, there is probably a change in her, similar to the same one she found, or the way she was years ago and the way she is now, and so on. So there is.

Speaker 1 [00:35:18] When what has changed? You don't need to be sure. You don't need to know. How does it seem to you that she has changed?

Speaker 2 [00:35:36] How does she change? She changes like.... She's getting more and more beautiful like this. As the wine gets older. Other. And the knowledge she gains from normal life or what she knows, she adds a little bit more to it. It's like a human value. So the more she learns, the more she seems to do.

Speaker 1 [00:36:06] We're talking about you calming down, what would you say if we give adjectives to her change? I understand what you mean, but at the same time they are very abstract. If you describe it with a few adjectives, how does she change? You described yourself, you said you are calmer, you said you are more thoughtful. You said you have a broader perspective. Is she the same person as she was when you met her?.

Speaker 2 [00:36:50] No, but the change there is personal. It's like this. It used to be like this. Even though there were some arguments. Even with the environment factor. You know, the environment affects us, so as not to damage the relationship. When we cut it short by saying they are theirs, or when we said don't argue because of them, maybe she couldn't do some things and kept them inside. Then I realized it later, child growth, education, taking the children to and from school. You know, she used to take all the trouble, she used to keep it to herself, but now a little bit, a little bit more. She is more carefree now. She stops keeping it to herself. She realized that it would cause discomfort, discomfort in the future, so she started to resemble me. I can define it as such a change.

Speaker 1 [00:37:58] Are we talking about sharing more or keeping it inside? Or just leaving it behind?

Speaker 2 [00:38:08] Not being affected. Otherwise we already share a problem, a thing is permanent in us.

Speaker 1 [00:38:22] Do you feel safe in this relationship?

Speaker 2 [00:38:27] When you say safe, safe from what? The environment?

Speaker 1 [00:38:34] However you understand it actually. Trust can have different contexts.

Speaker 2 [00:38:42] I mean of course I feel safe. If I have something to hide from people in business life or different circles or relatives, she hides it. Well, there is no such thing as property, property, etc., but if I entrust it to her, she will take care of it. So there is no trust beyond that.

Speaker 1 [00:39:19] You sound like you say she has your back.

Speaker 2 [00:39:22] Yes, of course. You could even say exactly that. Both of them, one protects and one protects. Both are protecting the material income that will sustain our present life and also the material income that we will need in the future. This is protecting. And the other one, as you said, there are some possibilities, and it protects the backs. So. And because of these, one hundred percent trust.

Speaker 1 [00:40:03] So do I understand correctly? You are saying that she protects you in the emotional context, in the material context. Can you give an example?

Speaker 2 [00:40:35] I had an earning, by extra work. At that time, we also had expenses, we also had debts. She somehow set aside resources from that earning, that is, from that material resource, except for the money from my work or pension. And our debt, let's say if we pay it off, we didn't pay it off, we paid it off as we got it, when it was [amount] in the money of the time, [amount] as if you had installments, but sometimes it was every [1-5] months, sometimes every [1-5] months. In the meantime, let's say we have to pay that debt in [1-5] months, in [1-5] monthly installments. In the [1st-5th] month, the installment was paid, but it was also set aside. That's a very clear example for you.

Speaker 1 [00:41:41] We came to the numbers from 0 to 10. I'm going to share a screenshot but I need a second, I need to find that file. I'm sharing. If I ask you if my partner usually really listens to me: One is not true at all, nine is about to be completely true. What would you say?

Speaker 2 [00:42:37] Seven, or does that seven cover eight? Seven eight. Because. So seven. Or eight. Whichever is more true, seven covers seven, let's say seven.

Speaker 1 [00:42:54] Why seven and not six? And based on what?

Speaker 2 [00:43:02] There are some cases in the past, you know, or some experiences. I proportioned how much she listened and how much she didn't listen and that's what came out. So it's close to 90 percent, but not 90 percent. Because she had some of her own truths that she really shouldn't have listened to me, so she didn't listen. That is why.

Speaker 1 [00:43:31] Can you give one or two concrete examples of when you were really listened to? Including when you feel listened to and when you feel listened to. By the way, I realized that listening is not listening to words but listening. I'm asking, do you know what I mean?

Speaker 2 [00:44:06] I mean, I answered it as not, as listening to words.

Speaker 1 [00:44:10] Okay. If you think otherwise.

Speaker 2 [00:44:15] I mean she listens to me then. She listens completely when I'm explaining something.

Speaker 1 [00:44:22] When you're telling something, when you're telling a problem, or when you're talking about experiences, when you're telling about a problem, when you're telling about your problem with him, when you're telling good things.

Speaker 2 [00:44:33] If that's listening, the question is, if that's listening, then nine completely listens.

Speaker 1 [00:44:42] Why not eight?

Speaker 2 [00:44:46] She is all ears. Because there is a problem there, there is something. So if there is a problem, she will give her opinion. Or in another way. She makes a suggestion.

Speaker 1 [00:45:06] If I ask you that my partner is usually sensitive to my needs, that's not true at all. NINE is completely true. Speaker 1 [00:45:06] What would you say?

Speaker 2 [00:45:51] 7 I would say.

Speaker 1 [00:45:56] Why such and not six?

Speaker 2 [00:46:03] She is responsive. Not partly true, very true.

Speaker 1 [00:46:24] For example, why seven and not eight.

Speaker 2 [00:46:27] So why not eight? Because, you know, it's not complete. That's why she's necessarily sensitive. She has been insensitive in some places. That's why.

Speaker 1 [00:46:44] Why 7 and not 6?

Speaker 2 [00:46:50] So that room is the same question, one step above the same answer. I mean, she doesn't lack that much, she was insensitive sometimes. You know, if we divide the partial work fifty-fifty percent by days, months, weeks, it would be like half and half. Then I would directly say 5, but it's more than half, not exactly half, but more than half. That's why seven more.

Speaker 1 [00:47:18] So we are halfway between full and half. If I ask how satisfied you are with your relationship in general; I am completely dissatisfied, very dissatisfied, somewhat dissatisfied, not sure/undecided. I am somewhat satisfied. Very satisfied, completely satisfied.

Speaker 2 [00:47:57] I am very satisfied.

Speaker 1 [00:48:09] Since you just said very satisfied, this time 0 is not satisfied at all. 10 completely satisfied. How would you rate your satisfaction?

Speaker 2 [00:48:25] I would say one click, even one click. 8 for him.

Speaker 1 [00:48:42] Why eight, not seven? We will be going over the same thing again.

Speaker 2 [00:48:53] It's not that I'm completely satisfied, it's one click lower than that.

Speaker 1 [00:49:05] Is there a reason why it's not 9, that's also one click lower.

Speaker 2 [00:49:10] But she is very close to completely satisfied.

Speaker 1 [00:49:18] As a last question. If it's okay with you, we don't have to talk, if it's a sensitive subject we can of course stop, but can we talk about your sexuality?

Speaker 2 [00:49:39] I mean. Happiness, what is it? Hormones, secretions and so on. A lot of it is the whole of a person's life.

Speaker 1 [00:50:00] How satisfied are you with your sex life. We don't have a scale here, I mean we don't have a scale.

Speaker 2 [00:50:16] I mean how much? I mean, if there are options like I'm satisfied, I'm very satisfied or I'm very satisfied, I'm very satisfied. Why wouldn't I say "üffff"? Because we have already passed some stages, some places, in terms of age.

Speaker 1 [00:50:41] What are you satisfied with?

Speaker 2 [00:50:47] Being used to it.

Speaker 1 [00:51:06] May I ask how often you have sexual intercourse these days.

Speaker 2 [00:51:14] I didn't quite catch that.

Speaker 1 [00:51:16] May I ask how often do you have sexual intercourse these days?

Speaker 2 [00:51:26] A week.

Speaker 1 [00:51:31] 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 no weeks.

Speaker 2 [00:51:36] Once or twice a week.

Speaker 1 [00:51:43] That's it. That's the end of our interview

Speaker 2 [00:51:46] Do I sign a form?

Speaker 1 [00:51:52] No. You have signed verbally.

Speaker 2 [00:51:56] Okay Well, and we've registered.

Speaker 1 [00:52:03] I would like to go over a little bit. What we talked about. Both to correct me if there is something wrong or if I have misunderstood, and to add anything you want to add. You are [50-55] years old, you have been together for [26-30] years, you have [1-5] children. One is [20-25] and one is [20-25]. You are retired, you live with your wife and daughter. Your other child is out of the city, at university. You explained how you met your husband in the following way. You said that you met at his [relative's] house in REDACTED, I mean, you met each other, I mean, you had seen each other, but there, I mean.

Speaker 2 [00:52:43] We knew each other but we were not acquaintances.

Speaker 1 [00:52:46] You mentioned that there was an acquaintance there, that your relationship progressed quickly, that you deceived her and almost brought her to REDACTED, that you indoctrinated her concerns, and that the families also wanted the relationship to turn into marriage as soon as possible, and within the framework of these desires, you turned your relationship into marriage without the need to extend the flirtation. When I asked you about the quality of your relationship compared to your friends, you said that your friends were more coquettish and capricious, but that your relationship was in a neat and orderly manner, with a strong bond by finding common points together and taking care to communicate with love, instead of looking for common points and trying to find their own common points by knitting tight ties without capriciousness? You said that you had [1-5], maybe [1-5] and a half relationships before, but that they could not be compared, that they were nothing if we try to compare them with the relationship you are in. When I asked you what makes a relationship of low quality, you defined it as ego arrogance and insatiability as well as numbness. When I asked what makes a relationship good, you said understanding, feeling, understanding, responding quickly to needs. You said that these are important factors in removing the negatives and embracing the positives. What is love? When he asked, you said to feel it in the heart, to touch the soul, to respond quickly. You said that love is very important, you said that ninety percent, ninety-five percent of the relationship is based on love. When I asked you how you can tell that your spouse loves you, you mentioned that he/she tries to heal your negative actions, negative situations, tries to make you feel better, handles negativities in a constructive way. You talked about making people happy in order to be happy. When you talked about the challenges in your life in your relationship, you talked about sometimes conflicts about raising children, sometimes about the demands of conforming to societal norms.

Speaker 2 [00:55:39] Yes, exactly.

Speaker 1 [00:55:40] You said that these conflicts were usually short-lived, he was constructive and you didn't prolong them. You said that you have one or two minor irritations once or twice a week. When I asked you what you do to maintain your relationship, you said that you surprise her.

Speaker 2 [00:56:07] If she gets stuck somewhere. Arguments or arguments. If it lasts for a day, it is a very rare event.

Speaker 1 [00:56:20] You said that you atoned.

Speaker 2 [00:56:28] It's a very rare event. But it's a surprise. In between. As I said, surprise, it's a bit more exciting or I don't know, like a return to the past. The surprises we made today to make it different were also small like that. I even gave an example of one of them.

Speaker 1 [00:57:08] Is your relationship good for you? When I asked you, you said it's more than perfect. You said it was very important for you that he was understanding. You said that being a happy family, being peaceful at home is wealth. In a sense you said that you don't need anything more, peace, a happy family. What more could you ask for? Your husband wanted it, did he change it? When I asked you, you said that he contributed to your becoming a calmer person, that he was calmer and that you had more broad perspectives. You said that he helped you to manage your emotions, that when you were angry, you would act impulsively and potentially cause harm, but he stopped you by telling you to calm down. Has he changed? I asked, and you said that he is getting better and better, like wine. You said that she used to keep it to herself more often, but now she doesn't, that she is more like you in this respect. You told me that you trust your husband, that you feel protected, that you feel taken care of, that you feel invested in your future, that you create great beauty from small things. Your exchanges have never gone anywhere. They were always there. I'm not going to go through your points. You said that you are happy in your sexual life and that was the end of our interview.

Speaker 2 [00:58:51] It's good if this is useful.

Speaker 1 [00:58:53] Of course. How was this interview for you. Is there anything you want to add, anything you want to say?

Speaker 2 [00:59:02] No, it was good. We took [20-25] years from the beginning again. It was like we came back again.

Speaker 1 [00:59:14] We have a few procedural things left. One is how to store your data as written in the consent form. We are going to de-identify it. So I'm not going to share these videos with anybody, they're not going anywhere anyway. I will be encrypting and storing them. We will make a written transcript of these videos so that we can analyze the data. This transcript will be de-identified, stripped of identifying data, i.e. how old she is, where she lives, and also stripped of information that can point fingers. We have two options. I have three options in mind. We can say that you cannot use it. In the next [1-5] months. This is what is known as the fifth.

Speaker 2 [01:00:16] As I said, the answers we have already given for the purpose of participation in [Year] for the license and so on, as I said, it is again a separate happiness, a pleasing situation, if it is in a way that does not point two fingers, it can be shared in any form at school, seminar, file, pdf.

Speaker 1 [01:00:46] It will be in a way that the finger will not point. Then we have two ways of sharing. We can make an entire interview available in a way that is free of finger pointing. Or we can take parts of the interview and use that. It would be more useful for us to be able to open the whole interview.

It can be taken for lecture notes, but the whole thing can be of great use.

Speaker 1 [01:01:24] Thank you very much. One last question. Can you suggest someone who can volunteer to interview us again like you, that is, we want to get away from you as soon as possible while collecting data so that acquaintances do not coincide and people do not have reservations. We try to go as far away as possible when we are looking for our next participants, so we put a person in between. So if you can suggest someone to us, if you say, maybe Ali can find people. Or let me ask Ayşe, maybe there is a couple around her who might want to participate. Is it possible for you to suggest one or two such people?

Speaker 2 [01:02:16] I'm going over it in my head, I mean, I couldn't find it. You know, someone that someone would recommend to someone. I don't know, I don't even know. When I'm looking for a job or something else, I need it first. You're really a very nice person, we've already been friends for years, our friendship, our friendship, so you look for it when you work. Either an ear is closed or their eyes are closed. That's why most of the people around are like this. Uh-huh. If there is someone maybe two meters away, not one meter away, I'll send you a message and say this will help you.

Speaker 1 [01:03:08] You don't have to say it right away. It's right now.

Speaker 2 [01:03:12] He is entangled, he is entangled right now, he doesn't exist. Either closed ears or closed eyes.

Speaker 1 [01:03:19] If there is someone you can suggest, you can always contact me, not someone who will be interviewed, but a person who will be interviewed who suggests an interviewer.

Speaker 2 [01:03:30] Okay. I'll text.

Speaker 1 [01:03:32] That's it.

Speaker 2 [01:03:35] Good evening.

Speaker 1 [01:03:37] Thank you, good evening.
