

Speaker 1: Her name.

Speaker 2: Okay.

Speaker 1: So thank you again for doing this. So it's a project that's going on in different places at the same time, basically just to find out relationship satisfaction and kind of how you're feeling in your relationship. And then again, like I mentioned, we're trying to see your use in the email. So. So we went over this recording and everything. So we start off with the basics. It's just. So how old are you?

Speaker 2: [16-20].

Speaker 1: Okay and then how long have you and your partner been together?

Speaker 2: On [Date], it will be [11-15] months.

Speaker 1: Okay. So right now, [Name]. So no kids, right?

Speaker 2: Nope.

Speaker 1: Okay, so, this question might be a little tricky because I know that you're on campus so you could think about your household. So who lives in your household?

Speaker 2: It'd be my mom, my dad, and my little sister.

Speaker 1: Okay. And then what's your main source of income? If you have a current job.

Speaker 2: Yeah, I do have a job. I work as a [occupation].

Speaker 1: Okay.

Speaker 2: Yeah.

Speaker 1: And then if you're comfortable, what's an estimate of your income.

Speaker 2: Yeah. So early. It's [Income]. I work like [1-5] times a week, so I get paid weekly. So last week I got like [Income] something.

Speaker 1: cool, okay. So now we're going to get into more about your partner. So. So how would you like us to address your partner? Like boyfriend. Partner.

Speaker 2: Boyfriend.

Speaker 1: Boyfriend. Okay. Okay. So. So how so you could tell us a little bit about your love story. Like, how would you guys meet or anything that you want to share?

Speaker 2: It's. It's so long. Basically, the gist is he was my first crush in [grade level], and I liked him a lot. And he didn't like me at all because it was experience. Like he didn't care about girls or whatever. And then [6-10] years later, year], he slid up on my [Social Media] and then we just kind of got to know each other from there. And then, like many months later, like we kind of finally got together. So it was a long time coming. But yeah.

Speaker 1: it was nice. Okay, So how would you compare the quality of your relationship with your boyfriend now compared to like your relationship that you have with your friends?

Speaker 2: I would say, like with that relationship, it's a lot more intimate. And he really knows like, like everything about me. And then with friends, it's just kind of like, oh, gossip, you know? Like, they know me personally, ultimately. Okay? Like, he knows everything about me. So I would say we're closer.

Speaker 1: Do you have any questions kind a about the quality of relationship or how do you base the quality of relationships in general?

Speaker 2: I would say a happiness.

Speaker 1: And you feel that with your partner?

Speaker 2: Yes, very much.

Speaker 1: Okay. So, if it's okay with you, could I ask how many romantic partners you've had in the past before your current relationship?

Speaker 2: I had [1-5] boyfriend [year] that only lasted [1-5] month, so I don't know if that counts, but that's the only other one.

Speaker 1: Okay. So. So yeah. So [1-5] year like almost [1-5] year compared to like a month is like a big difference.

Speaker 2: Yeah.

Speaker 1: How would you compare the quality of the relationship now compared to the, the one that you had previously?

Speaker 2: I think with the one previously, we were just. Very different. Like it was more like religion. Like he always tried to, like, push his religion onto me and kind of try to make me something that I wasn't, which obviously I couldn't put up with that. And with [Name], we're also very different, but we're very respectful of our differences and we understand it and it's not like an argument topic for us. We're just like, okay, like I accept that we have different perspectives and it's fun to like get to see things from like another point of view.

Speaker 1: So for you, I know you said a little bit like happiness, right? But what makes a relationship really high quality? You could talk a little bit more about the happiness or any other thing than you want to mention.

Speaker 2: I would say communication is probably the biggest because even if you're happy, if you're not communicating on a daily basis and it's just a lot of like. Confusion or whatever. Things are kind of lost in translation, I guess. But with like constant communication, it's like a lot of reassurance and you know exactly what's going on in their lives, which helps with the happiness part because you feel like they're more involved in your life, especially because since we're a long distance, like getting to talk to him every day is like, okay. Like you're not just whatever completely far. Like, we talk a lot and he still feels close.

Speaker 1: Yeah. So. When would you say your relationship was like the best of it's been like using like kind of like these examples that you've been, like, when was it high quality for you?

Speaker 2: I feel like it's. Always been high quality. Like I guess like the very beginning is very like honeymoon. La la la. Like everything's perfect. Yeah, but even now, like, I would still say it's like pretty picture perfect to me.

Speaker 1: Mhm.

Speaker 2: So I would say it's maintained its good qualities.

Speaker 1: Looks good to you. I know you said that it's kind of been high quality the whole time, but has ever been a time where it's been like a little bit less? Like any like low quality or any bumps in the road?

Speaker 2: There's been a couple arguments just because of like, oh, miscommunication, or maybe I took things the wrong way, but then I just kind of took a step back and like, kind of took some alone time to think about it. And then we came back and had a conversation and it's always been resolved.

Speaker 1: That's good. Better start taking notes for myself.

Speaker 2: Go ahead. Okay.

Speaker 1: Yeah okay. So we went over like some factors, right? So, like, for you, what's the most important things in your relationship?

Speaker 2: I would say. Like. The way he treats me like, like being very respectful is super important and like, maintaining that like, Oh, don't be doing all that gentlemen's stuff in the beginning and then fall off later. Like, you have to keep it up. Yeah, just consistency, I would say, and a lot of reassurance. Yeah.

Speaker 1: So would you mind providing any examples? Because I feel like this could get kind of tricky since you guys are long distance. Right?

Speaker 2: Examples of consistency.

Speaker 1: Yeah, the consistency or how you said kind of like how you've been maintaining the whole time what he's doing.

Speaker 2: Yeah. So we're only about like an hour away cause I go to [Name], he goes to [University], and there's a bus that goes like directly in between them. So it's like, pretty easy to see each other. And every time I go, like, all the time, he, like, surprises me with like, oh, flowers or whatever. And then I'll also surprise him. So it's like. Just keep doing little things that have to be like a big, extravagant, crazy stuff.

Speaker 1: Yeah,

Speaker 2: Just like little things. Like, oh, like I was thinking about you like I care. Oh, and he sends me postcards and I collect postcards. So I have a few of those, and I'll just, like, randomly get them in the mail. And I like, oh, like, whatever. He wrote those just thinking about me. That's nice too.

Speaker 1: Yeah. So it's a lot of like reciprocation between you guys, too?

Speaker 2: Yeah. Yeah. I also do like random gifts or whatever for him whenever I can.

Speaker 1: So why do you think that the reassurance and the consistency and everything is so important?

Speaker 2: I think it's important because when you're long distance, it's easy to overthink and be like, Oh, like what if he forgot about me or like i don't know something like that?

Speaker 1: Yeah.

Speaker 2: And with that, like those acts, you're just like, no. Like, he is still thinking about about me. Like, I know he cares about me because we're always communicating. So it really helps to know that, okay, like we're not falling off at all. Like we're on the same page.

Speaker 1: Yeah. Okay. Okay. So now we're gonna go into more of like conceptualization of things. So for you personally, what, what is love? A very broad question, but for you how do you identify that?

Speaker 2: Love is caring about someone, no matter what. Like any arguing, any fight. Like you just realize okay it doesn't affect . It's like that love totally shattered. But overall, it's the little things that stay strong.

Speaker 1: So it's like, thanks. I'm sorry. It it's like cut off a little bit. So you said like, like arguments and fights, like, don't really affect the relationship, right? That's what you said?

Speaker 2: Yeah, but like I said, like, there would be some circumstances where that would be a dealbreaker. But overall, those little things like doesn't affect the love you have for that person.

Speaker 1: And just like a genuine feeling. Like, how would you describe that?

Speaker 2: Oh. I don't know. It's just like a whole lot of happiness and kind of gives you, like, a little giddy feeling. Like even if you've been together for, like, super long, you see them and you're like. Oh, yeah.

Speaker 1: And this question, it's like I feel like it's everywhere and just like, makes people think a little bit. Cause people throw the word around a lot? But I feel like everybody has a different meaning, right?

Speaker 2: Mm.

Speaker 1: So how important is love in a relationship?

Speaker 2: I would say it's pretty important. I guess early on, it doesn't really play a big role because we're just not there yet. But then afterwards it's kind of like, The glue. Holding everything together and making it all work.

Speaker 1: When you say, like the glue holding it all together, can you tell me a little bit more about that?

Speaker 2: Yeah. Like, even if you're like, oh, like, I don't know, like we're so different or we're just going on different paths. You're just like, we love each other. So it's like, that's just a definite thing. Like, despite whatever, whatever. Just that love is there and you're like, you know, like it is going to work because of that.

Speaker 1: Like a consta--

Speaker 2: Yeah. Like, no matter what, you're like. Okay. Even if things are going well, whatever.

Speaker 1: Yeah.

Speaker 2: Then the love is still there.

Speaker 1: So how do you know that your partner loves you?

Speaker 2: He is so obsess with me I don't know. He gives me a lot of reassurance, like verbally. Like he'll text me like, oh, paragraphs or it's like, oh, like I think something like this, like stuff like that. And then it also, like, talks about me a lot to his friends. And like one time he was like super drunk, just like looking at pictures of me on his phone, then I recorded him. So, like, I know.

Speaker 1: So it's like the little actions he does, like a way that kind of like. Yeah. Reassures you.

Speaker 2: Mm.

Speaker 1: Is there anything else? Kind of give me a little hints.

Speaker 2: I think like, there's like a lot of things I could say, but I think also that, like, he tries like, really hard to, like, get to know me and like, like all the things I like and just try to get involved in my life as much as he can. Like, he was very excited to like meet my whole family, and watch things that I like or whatever. Even read books and he's not into reading. So it's like just that willingness to, like, be as involved in my life as possible.

Speaker 1: So. So when it comes to like conflicts, like what would you say are some challenges in your relationship?

Speaker 2: I would say, um, like, my challenge is that I'm super emotional. So even if he says things like not trying to hurt me, like I'll be really upset about it, cause I'll just. It'll just seem, like, really insensitive to me. So that hurts me. But he's kind of learned, like, to just be a little gentler, his words. Yeah, I guess. It's just me like I'll just like cry. Of out of like everything. Just like I'm super sensitive. Yeah, I guess that's the only thing.

Speaker 1: So it kind of goes back to what you said earlier about like the misinterpretations, like miscommunication.

Speaker 2: Yeah, it's usually on my end, like all that upset that, you know. I don't Think there's anything that I've done that he's upset about . I don't think so not that I can recall.

Speaker 1: But besides that, that would be like your, your only challenge that you guys had.

Speaker 2: Yeah.

Speaker 1: Yeah. Do you think the long distance is kind of like a challenge or is that kind of just like a norm in the relationship?

Speaker 2: I feel like we're used to it now. Like, it is difficult, but, like, Okay, but I'm going to see you in like two weeks or whatever. And we're both from the same hometown. So like summer break, winter break, all that time work. Well, we know we're going to be together, so either way, it's like, okay, I can't see you this week, but I will see you soon. Yeah, I think it would be really hard if we were like super far because then it's like, I have no idea when I'll see to you, but it's truly reassuring to know I could see him. anytime I wanted to because like the amtrak.

Speaker 1: Yeah.

Speaker 2: it's just like I think for me it's kind of nice because we both get to have like our separate college experiences and we're like choosing to spend time together. But we still get to have like our separate friend groups, whatever, like focus on school. And then when we are together, we can just enjoy that time like a lot more. It's not just like, Oh, whenever I see him every day, it's like, No, this is special because I'm seeing him like only this weekend, so. Yeah.

Speaker 1: Okay. So I don't know if you would count like, the like what you mentioned earlier about kind of how you interpret things like a fight. But do you and your boyfriend ever get into fights?

Speaker 2: Not really. Mm hmm. Like. It's never really a fight. It's just like a miscommunication.

Speaker 1: Mm hmm.

Speaker 2: And I'm upset. And I'll, like, isolate myself for a little bit, and then I apologize. So it's never lasted for more than, like a few hours. Like, it's resolved, like, very quickly.

Speaker 1: How often would you say that this happens?

Speaker 2: Not often at all.

Speaker. 1: Not often.

Speaker 2: like in the [6-10] months. It's been like two or three times. I think.

Speaker 1: So. I know you said it's kind of like misinterpretation but So what are these fights exactly about? Like, is it just like he says something kind of insensitive or, how,

Speaker 2: Yeah, just that. And I'm like, why do you say that? Like, you know, I'm sensitive, like what was the point? Yeah. because, like, for me, like, especially now, it's like, okay, it's been this long and like, you don't know that yet, but like, he has changed a lot. So he is making like adaptations the way he talks to me and stuff, so that's good. But like he's a guy, so he's used to like talking to his guy friends and little rose each other and not care. And they try to me and I'm like. No, don't do that.

Speaker 1: Yeah. It's not always nice. Okay, so you said. So how do you guys resolve these fights? You said that you usually take some time to yourself and then you guys talk.

Speaker 2: Yeah. and then we just like kind of explain both of our sides and then then, yeah, we understand and then we're like, okay, I won't do X again or I will say this again or whatever, or I'm sorry that I said that and then move on.

Speaker 1: So you guys aren't look type of people that kind of keep dwelling on the problem?

Speaker 2: I wouldn't say so, but like we have thought about the same thing twice. But it's because, like, it was a different thing about the same thing that came up. So it wasn't like, oh, fighting over like the same topic. It's like it was a new thing that emerged. Because I feel like that isn't really count as doing. Yeah.

Speaker 1: So aside from my, you know, taking your time and talking about are there other ways that you guys like have been maintaining your relationship?

Speaker 2: Consistent texting, face time calls, and really just like making sure you make time for each other, like we'll be like, Oh, we should watch a movie together like tonight and then like, face time, like, you know, watch the movie at the same time. So it's like a mini online date type of thing.

Speaker 1: Yeah.

Speaker 2: Yeah. See, little things like that or. Yeah, I would say communication.

Speaker 1: Sounds like. Like open with each other.

Speaker 2: Yeah. Here's every detail of my day.

Speaker 1: Okay. So. So would you say that your relationship is good for you and you could think about this in many different ways, like your life or any goals that you have or your day to day like? Like, would you say that it's good for you?

Speaker 2: I would say it is good for me in all aspects. I think I've always wanted like a family, you know, like and all that, you know, basic stuff. So like, that helps me towards that goal. And then also he encourages me in school. And He's always here to help me out from having like a bad day as he also helps me mentally. And we all we also both like, push each other to like trying things or like, stay consistent. Like if, like, if I'm trying to go to the gym and I'm like, I don't want to go he'll be like no, like you can do it, like you love going to the gym and you know what I do want to go the gym like helps me like in good will with not like, you know, forcing way in,

Speaker 1: Like, a little encouraging.

Speaker 2: Yeah.

Speaker 1: So do you think the relationship changed you in any way? And if they did and like what way.

Speaker 2: Um. If there has been a change, I would say it's for the better. Um. Maybe like, maybe less selfish, I guess. I think because before I was single for, like, all high schools, it was all about me. And now I'm, like, constantly taking in and, like, another person leads into an account, which is good for me to, like, experience that and adapt to, like, not just me myself all the time. So I would say for the better.

Speaker 1: For the better was like a little, like, uncomfortable at first, or do you feel like it just came natural?

Speaker 2: I feel like it was really natural, which is so weird to me. Like, I never thought that I would like find someone that would just be like, click, like crazy. But it totally was. I would say it was weird because, like, for me, I hate, like, physical touch from any other person. Like, if you're, like, sitting too close to me, I will literally be upset. Like, I'll move away. Like, I just. I hated but with him. I was really like. It doesn't matter. And I was like, Why is that? So I still don't know why. Like, even before we were, like, not actually dating, like, just like, friends. It was just super comfortable. See, that's why my mom told me was like, do not go for the person who, like, gives you butterflies. Go for someone who makes you comfortable. So I always thought about that.

Speaker 1: Yeah. Okay.

Speaker 2: Do you have a boyfriend?

Speaker 1:No.

Speaker 2: I was gonna. Help you get a boyfriend.

Speaker 1: Okay. So what about your partner? Did they change during the relationship? I know you mentioned a little bit and the communication, but if you want to go a little bit more into that or any other thing.

Speaker 2: I think he's changed a lot. Like. Before he is just not in a good place like mentally. So I think I kind of like help bring him out of that and try to focus on like the good things in his life and try to improve himself. So. Courage and the like of his life. So I think I. Like always, like keep him on track for, like, the things that he wants, which is good for him because he will just slack off. And I'm like, No, dude, like, Like, you can do better than this in a gentle way. Like, yeah, I think it's for the better.

Speaker 1: Yeah. Yeah. So it seems like. That's been kind of like that's been like things that you guys have been kind of used to, that with this person is kind of changing, right? But in a good way.

Speaker 2: Yeah. Did you already do the interview with him?

Speaker 1: No, not yet.

Speaker 2: Oh, that will be so interesting to compare of what we say

Speaker 1: So. Is the person you were before the relationship, the same as the person you are now.

Speaker 2: Yes and no. Like personality wise, I would say I'm the same because, like, he hasn't tried to change me at all. So I would say like, I've grown more like, interested in more things because of like, what he likes. So I'm more open to things. But I still like, like the same core things. I'm just like, oh, like now, instead of hating soccer, I will watch messi with him. Yeah. There's a lot of things and also actually, I'm not sure that this is a good thing, but he like, forced me to go on a rollercoaster, which was awful. But at least I know that, like, I can do it. So, like, you know, pushes me. In those ways, even though he tricked me. But it was a good experience.

Speaker 1: So like, exposure to other things, like other interests.

Speaker 2: Yeah.

Speaker 1: Cool. so. Is your boyfriend the same person before the relationship as they are now? Like or like? Did they change in any way? Do you think it's same with [Name]?

Speaker 2: He was like, just like a little flocker boy. Kind of like a hoe with the girls. And I, change all that. Well, now I don't like of course he just kind of did that himself. Yeah, he was very different beforehand. So I think we have it all good. Change is just kind of like him growing up a little bit. Yeah.

Speaker 1: But I think that.

Speaker 2: I was like, Yeah, we're doing that.

Speaker 1: Okay. So. So I'm going to ask you about like safety and safety, its like being able to open up to your partner about your experiences, your thoughts. kind of identify, like everything without fear of judgment or like kind of like or like without fearing that he's kind of going to throw it back into your face. Stuff like.

Speaker 2: Oh.

Speaker 1: And also in terms of, like expectations that like people just like, comfort you and care for you in times of like danger or distress. So. Yeah, So. You could kind of keep that in mind. You could also it could be in terms of both physical or emotional safety. Yeah. So just a little heads up before the question. So do you feel safe in the relationship? And if then based on your answer, why do you say so?

Speaker 2: I would say I do. He always encourages me to open up, and I know that there will never be a type of judgment. I just don't usually like to because I know that, like, I will cry. And I'm like, Oh, like I want to cry. And he's like, No, you just tell me about it. And then also physically, because he's like, He's a big man. He's like six foot, like. Whatever. So I always feel very safe walking around with him because, like, I hate big cities because I'm so scared that I'll be like, kidnaped or something. But if I go with them, I'm like, I'm good. I'm.

Speaker 1: So there's always kind of like like a feeling of safety when you're around him.

Speaker 2: Yeah. I think you can tell because, like. You know how.

Like when. You're hanging out with some people, you need like. A social battery. You're like, Oh my gosh, I kinda preparing myself. Because when we came out with like with him, there's no need for like a social battery, like it's just always super chill. Like, I don't have to worry about that. If anything, if I had like a super long, like day where I'm just, like, totally drained, then he'll help me like. Recharge almost.

Speaker 1: That's nice. I'm glad you're super comfortable.

Speaker 2: Yeah.

Speaker 1: Okay, So before we get started on the next part, I'm actually gonna like end it. because they gave me the warning, I would just try to go on it. And if it doesn't work, for whatever reason, I'll send you a new one right away. So yeah. So thank you again for doing this.

Speaker 2: Yeah.

Speaker 1: Okay. So for this one, I'm going to share my screen, so they're going to look like a good scale and then let me know your thoughts.

Speaker 2: Okay.

Speaker 1: So there is scope to look at.

Speaker 2: And then I just say, which one?

Speaker 1: Yeah. So it goes from 1 to 9, so you can look at that one. So it says, like, my partner usually really listens to me and then you can rate that from a one to a nine, whatever you feel comfortable with.

Speaker 2: Like now.

Speaker 1: Oh, yeah. Yeah.

Speaker 2: Oh, yeah. I'd say nine.

Speaker 1: And then for this one and says, My partner usually is responsive to my needs. That. We'll go down over there. And then how would you rate your satisfaction with your relationship?

Speaker 2: 10.

Speaker 1: How would you rate your satisfaction? I think that was same. That was on that One. And then we got a little mini one. okay. I'm really going. I look that really quick. Hopefully you see it trying to make my Page a little bigger. There we go. It'll be the same one, like the same scale that we were looking at, but it would just be a doc.

Speaker 2: Okay

Speaker 1: So it's the same thing. One is not true at all, and nine is completely true. And you are answering. My partner usually really listens to me. What would be your answer to that?

Speaker 2: I would say eight.

Speaker 1: Eight. Okay. Okay. And then what about the question where my partner usually is responsive to my needs

Speaker 2: Nine,

Speaker 1: Eight and nine. So then these. You are okay with me asking. So why do you feel like the needs one is an eight?

Speaker 2: Oh the listening one?.

Speaker 1: So this was one of the questions. Here's one of the doc questions. That was my partner usually is responsive to my needs.

Speaker 2: Oh, I thought I said nine for that one, I say eight for the one that was like listen.

Speaker 1: Okay. So you said nine for that one.

Speaker 2: Uh huh. Okay.

Speaker 1: So why would you say it was nine

Speaker 2: After the needs one?

Speaker 1: Yes.

Speaker 2 I would say nine, because whatever I say, like, oh, like I want to communicate more. Or whatever. Or whatever, that will just happen. So yeah, he's very like, he's just really good accommodating to whatever I need.

Speaker 1: I know you said, like when you say that you want to communicate and stuff like that. Do you want to provide any other examples of like when he kind of shows this. This. More like Let it Go a little bit more of a specific example or. I guess something recent happened. Anything you feel comfortable sharing.

Speaker 2: I'm just like thinking. Yeah, I think like just recently because, like, now he's back in [City], just like he's on summer break already and I'm still here. So. Like, the first couple of days he's back he just didn't really text me at all because he's just like, I'm packing, working on this car and whatever. And I was like, That's not cool. Like, you know, you say, like, I'm going to be busy all day like today. So I was. Kind of like, Oh, like, it's fine while you're busy. Like, I understand, but it's kind of that me knows I'm not like, What are you doing? So yeah.

Speaker 1: So why would you say it's like a nine and not like a one? Like Not at all.

Speaker 2: I would say if it was a one, it would be like he just doesn't care. Like he'll just kind of do what he wants to Do. And like, that's that. But as a nine, he is like. He knows that he's not perfect and he's like trying to do whatever he can to. Just be his best, I guess.

Speaker 1: nine. And then the second question was. My partner usually really listens to me. That's the one. You said it was an eight, right?

Speaker 2: Yeah, I said eight because he has, like, a really bad memory. So, like, I'll tell him something later on. He's like, we were, like, bro. We were really talking. So I know it's, like, not really his fault. Listening. But I'm just like, I've told you this like, two times before. So, yeah, it's not really on him, though. I get it. But I do know that I'm like, Oh. I told you. It's like, No, I don't remember that.

Speaker 1: So you feel like he takes the time to listen, but maybe it's just not like registering, Really?

Speaker 2: Yeah, it just doesn't really stick. Sometimes I just. So again.

Speaker 1: Is there like a like a recent example or something that you want to share to be something like pretty simple.

Speaker 2: There are so many examples, but everyday. Although like, Oh, I work from 9 to 5 and then I'll be out of work is like oh where were you?, what time you get off. Like, what I just told you this? Or sometimes all these bigger things, like I'll just be like, Do you know my siblings names? It'll be like. Like, I don't know. But I do know five like. It's hard. It's hard for him to remember all the information.

Speaker 1: So why an eight and not like a one?

Speaker 2: Cause he tries. One is like you're openly just. Nah. Listening like you don't take anything I say into account. But he takes what I say into account. It's just sometimes he just forget little things. But that's not like. A huge issue. I hope this answers make sense.

Speaker 1: No, they do. Okay. So do you remember earlier, I said that there is probably going to be some question that we were just going to ask. Prior to asking you, you're okay with it.

Speaker 2: Yeah.

Speaker 1: So I hope you don't mind. I ask and you can feel free to feel free to say if this is too sensitive for you to share. But we also want to know more about your physical intimacy as a couple. You're open to answering this. Two questions about that.

Speaker 2: Yeah.

Speaker 1: Yeah. So these days, how often do you guys like like, hook up? Like you know.

Speaker 2: I would Say. Whenever we see each other. That's like every [1-5] weeks.

Speaker 1: And that's because of the distance, right?

Speaker 2: Yeah.

Speaker 1: And then the last one in that one. So to back to your answer with the [1-5] weeks and the distance and everything. How satisfied are you with your sex life?

Speaker 2: Very much. Yeah.

Speaker 1: Okay. And then. So it says why why why, justify your and say, why do you feel very. If you're comfortable sharing.

Speaker 2: Yeah. Yeah, That's my roommate. So. He just made sure that I was like super. Comfortable. And always made sure to, like, ask for consent or whatever to make sure that I wasn't like, okay, like, I don't want to do this anymore. If I were about to say that and be like, okay, we're not going to. So yeah, I think it's. Good because it gives me a lot of power. It doesn't just like take over this room I would like. So yeah, yeah.

Speaker 1: Okay.

Speaker 2: Okay. Okay.

Speaker 1: So now we're done with that. So in general. So I'm going to. Share my screen a little bit so you can see the things. Let me open that up again and uploading it about anything, anyone. And do. Okay. So it's just a quick one. But they wanted you to visually see it, just like all the words. Don't get kind of mixed up.

Speaker 2: Yeah.

Speaker 1: Do you see the slide?

Speaker 2: Yes.

Speaker 1: Okay. So how satisfied are you with your relationship? And it goes from completely dissatisfied to completely satisfied. And you could say whatever option on the list.

Speaker 2: I would say. Completely satisfied.

Speaker 1: Right. Okay. Well, as. Our. Okay, so. This. Okay, So. Sorry when reading all of this. And so it's a. So. So why would you go to Completely Satisfied? So it was like completely dissatisfied, zero, completely satisfied with like ten. So like, you went with like a ten option?

Speaker 2: Yeah.

Speaker 1: You could go with just a little detail.

Speaker 2: Yeah, I would say, cause like we're very willing to make it work Like. We've never even talked about. Oh, like, whatever. If you don't do this, I'll break up with you. Like, that's never even been a conversation, which is like, Okay. Like, what can we do to make this better? And whatever that is. We just, like, adapted and. Grown like. Whenever we needed to. I would Say. Sort of like we're not like staying stagnant. I feel like it's all about like growth, like, okay, like the same things that works. And like, like one is not going to be the same is like ten. Like things are just going to change. And if you're doing it right that it changes for the better because like, you're more comfortable with each other and. Yeah, you kind of fall into a routine and oh routine. I mean, like, it's boring, but for me it means, like, it's comfortable, it's safe, and like, you're still having fun together. It's just like now, you know, like what we like, we like to do like, we're some homebodies, so we like to stay in because before we go to parties together. I really like oh, like we have any time at parties, but like we know that we prefer staying in. So it's just it's just better because you just, like already kind of experimented with like a whole bunch of different things, you know, like this is what we like by with this, and then. It's just better.

Speaker 1: So kind of like. Exploring everything together right.

Speaker 2: Yeah. Deciding which comfortable with and kind of sticking to that.

Speaker 1: Okay, So can you let me know, like, right now? Like why you chose completely dissatisfied, completely satisfied compared to another one That could be like, just a very satisfied one because you chose like the solid ten. So I like. Yeah, not like a nine. You know what what's your like?

Speaker 2: Actually, he'll Try to make it work good like it like works, but there's like good days and bad days. But like, for us, I feel like there hasn't really been, like. Bad days. It's been like a bad few hours. And then, like, we move on and we're over it. Yeah, So. I just always feel like. Good, like, I don't know, like. There just doesn't seem to, like, really encapsulated and sound. Sure enough, there. I don't like that.

Speaker 1: Then you're like, Now I'm ten.

Speaker 2: I'm like, No. Like, it's better.

Speaker 1: So, like, the relationship, like, fulfills your expectations.

Speaker 2: Yeah, I would say it went beyond my expectations because he always think about like, oh, regular rom com, you're like, Oh, look like he gets her flowers whenever I want that. And it's not like just that. It's like, relax. It's like it's your best friend, like everything about each other, like super comfortable with one another. I was like, There's no question that I'd rather spend time with him. And yeah, it's like the movies. It's cool in the movies, but it is really fully captured. So it's better than what I thought, especially because, like, it's what it is called, like. A long term relationship. Yeah. So I didn't know. It could be like I thought it would be a lot more like fights. Like in the movies. It's like a huge falling out. They're like, Oh, we can't make it work. And I'm like, Well, I can't really like. But that's crazy.

Speaker 1: Yeah. Well, I'm very happy to hear that. Sounds like you guys have an amazing time.

Speaker 2: Yeah.

Speaker 1: So we're close to wrapping up. And so then I want to summarize the path we already shared. Since the beginning, you guys have kind of been locked in as far as consistency is a good thing, a reassurance big satisfied, and it kind of exceeded your expectations for many different things. So is that kind of like is that right? Is there anything else you wanted to add to the summary?

Speaker 2: I would say. That's right. I don't know anything else. Oh maybe just like, Don't stop putting an effort. Like, you need to, like, always act like. Like you're dating them, like, still go and do things like that. I don't just be like, Oh, whatever. We're together now. So and then, like, they're like those up communicate your feelings and all those things.

Speaker 1: And that's what makes your relationship for you. Like a ten?

Speaker 2: Yeah.

Speaker 1: So thank you for your time. So I just want to talk a little bit about how we handle the data. So the research project we want to be. As ethically transparent as possible. You know, I want to know which data sharing option you are most comfortable with. So option one is that the transcript portions will be shared, but none, nothing like is going to be identified to you. That anonymous transcript is going to be read by our researchers. So that's option one. Option two, if you're a little bit more open about it, there's there's another option of like the whole transcript could be shared and then removed any sensitive or any details that kind of give too much about who you are. To keep it a little bit more anonymous, there just there's a very, very small chance that someone reading this could kind of like simply like, oh, that's her

Speaker 2: Right

Speaker 1: But, you know, no sensitive information will be shared. So either one, you could choose option one, Option two, and then I could repeat them if you want.

Speaker 2: I think option two is fine.

Speaker 1: Okay, so then. Okay. So thanks again for participating in the study. We just want you to know that this study and the same questions is going on in the Philippines, Brazil, France and the U.S.. Yeah, it's a pretty big one. And different universities are doing it within those countries. So but for this study to be successful, there is one more favor that we're just going to ask you if that's okay. If you could recommend to close people from your life that could be anyone, you could ask them if they know any additional couples that might be open to just answering these questions. So we'll just be asking them for couples. That maybe you don't really know or you don't interact with. That way we can kind of like have a diverse network or not everybody be like the same friend group. So is that okay with you? Like if you know someone that might know other people that might be like, down.

Speaker 2: I know like my close friend, but you so, like, not have it, like, close,

Speaker 1: Like is she in a relationship?

Speaker 2: Yeah.

Speaker 1: Do you think she knows other people that are in a relationship? Because it could be like your roommate or anyone, like, might know like, like a couple on campus or anything.

Speaker 2: I know my sister. Is that. That's too close.

Speaker 1: Like your sister and her boyfriend or something?

Speaker 2: Yeah.

Speaker 1: Yeah, I think it might be too close.

Speaker 2: Oh, okay. I can ask Around, but there's. No one that comes to mind immediately.

Speaker 1: Okay. Yeah. So if you ever if you get a chance to know, someone will be asking the same thing to [Name] to if he knows any people. That's kind of like the way that we're going to be collecting the data. If you if you know anyone, just let me know later on tonight or tomorrow and you could tell them beforehand so they don't block me. Yes. Just let us know. And then don't worry, this information is totally just like you and me submitting into the thing. Like won't tell nobody anything. Like they flew me. And then if you can try not to show too much of what I like, the questions I ask you with [Name], just so we could keep your guys questions unique to each other so he won't have time to think and try to make them.

Speaker 2: Yeah. No, I'm not prepared for anything. He can figure it out. I want to see with his, like, period. Bizarre. Okay.

Speaker 1: Well, again, thank you so much. And if, you know, again, those people don't really have to be. You could just ask people if they know anyone that's in a relationship and then just let me know. That's so cool. Thank you.

Speaker 2: Yeah, it's cool.

Speaker 1: Thank you so much for that. I hope you have a good night. And I don't know if it's mid term season any something coming up for finals, but good luck on that.

Speaker 2: Thank you.
