

Speaker 1 [00:00:00] Awesome.

Speaker 2 [00:00:02] Okay. Awesome. Okay. Are you ready to get started or do you have any questions for me before we start?

Speaker 1 [00:00:06] Uh, no, I think. I think you have a lot of questions I got just for you.

Speaker 2 [00:00:13] Okay. Awesome. Okay, So. Hi. Thank you so much again for participating in this interview. As I mentioned over text, we want to know more about your views on romantic relationships and we believe your experiences and perspectives would bring much to this project. I know. Really, I should before I start the recording, but I need to ask you again for the recording. Is it all right if we record this interview? We're going to be using it for transcription and note taking.

Speaker 1 [00:00:38] Yes.

Speaker 2 [00:00:39] Okay. Awesome. Okay. So we're going to talk with some demographic questions. How old are you?

Speaker 1 [00:00:45] I'm [46-50].

Speaker 2 [00:00:47] Okay. How long have you been together with your partner?

Speaker 1 [00:00:51] Oh. Didn't you not tell you not to ask me? Do you? More than [10-15], maybe. [26-30], I believe. Since [26-30]. Okay. More about dates that I usually need. That's why I need her. I need her for dates.

Speaker 2 [00:01:12] That's okay. I understand. I'm also really not good with dates. Do you have any children?

Speaker 1 [00:01:18] No.

Speaker 2 [00:01:20] And who is in the household?

Speaker 1 [00:01:22] Just the two of us. So, [Partner's Name]. Okay. My partner. Yeah, the spouse. Okay.

Speaker 2 [00:01:29] What is your main source of income and what is your current job?

Speaker 1 [00:01:32] I work for the [Company Name]. I was a [occupation] for quite a few years. I was injured. I had two separate injuries during that time. So instead of [occupation], I no longer do that. I have I now have a limited duty capacity. I only work [1-5] hours for them because of the injuries. So I work on [occupation] all day long. So I pretty much work for the [Company Name].

Speaker 2 [00:02:03] Sounds really cool, actually. And how would you like me to address? Um your partner? like: partner, wife? I don't know.

Speaker 1 [00:02:12] What else? Yeah. Spouse's good.

Speaker 2 [00:02:15] Spouse. Okay, sounds good. And kind of shifting gears a little bit. You still, like, set the scene. Can you tell me about your love story?

Speaker 1 [00:02:25] The love story? It didn't start out as a love story. I was back in the days before you guys. This time there was this thing called [Event] where it wasn't as creepy as it is now. I have heard horrible stories about [Event]. So I like live music scenes. And at the time, I was connecting with a lot of people through that. And then a friend of mine suggested, hey, why don't you go to [Event]? You could do like a search for a date or something or just to hang out with somebody with like mind. And you're looking at the time I was, I just discovered that I was gay and it was like a weird transition for me. So it was hard to, like, get to know people and do all of that. I was already in like my late twenties when that happened, so I was like, it was like a life changing knowledge or, I don't know, discovery at the time. And it just so happens that [Event] existed and she had posted something on there and I said, Oh my God, it's somebody that's like me. A [Nationality] loves music, loves cartoons, especially Thundercats in particular. So I hit her up and say, Let's meet up for coffee. And we did. And then it was it just blossomed from there. Well, I'm one of those lucky ones who didn't meet a creep on online.

Speaker 2 [00:04:03] I'm glad. I'm glad. Yeah, I'm a little scared for those idiots. Now, I'm not going to lie.

Speaker 1 [00:04:11] Like you guys's generation of apps or dating apps are crazy.

Speaker 2 [00:04:18] Yeah, and there's so many of them, too, now. Like, it's. It's insane. There's a lot of them, which is also a big thing. But yeah, I'm glad I'm that it worked out for you, though.. Again, how would you compare the quality of your relationship compared to that of your friends relationship.

Speaker 1 [00:04:40] Or quality of relationship? Yeah, ours is really special, I would say. They say that I don't know. It's different when friends. It's. It's romantically. Intimately, Definitely different. There's a higher level. I always want my friends to find somebody like our relationship. Like I'm so happy with it that I'm like, I wish they had this. That's our that's always our thought, not just me. It's just that both of us, we often talk, talk about it and discuss things like, you know, wouldn't it be great if everybody had the same relationship and that same relationship, but similar happiness so that they wouldn't be so miserable? It would be joyous to talk about things because they wouldn't be, you know, I mean, not all of them are like that, but like some of our friends sometimes in their relationship, they're like, Oh my God, I'm alone. And, you know, I can't find anybody out there for me, you know, And years, you know, we're getting older, so we're getting used to the things that we like and we can't adjust to changes, things like that. So I'm glad that I have her that we our relationship grew, that we're growing together and still growing together and learning things about each other. So yeah. I hope that answered your question. I know. I rambled.

Speaker 2 [00:06:12] No, no, that's good. That's good. I love your answer. So, yes, that was a good answer. Can I also ask how many romantic partners you've had in the past?

Speaker 1 [00:06:22] I've had a total of [1-5].

Speaker 2 [00:06:26] Okay. And how would you compare the quality of our relationship now compared to that of your previous relationships?

Speaker 1 [00:06:33] I think so much better. I mean, have grown up so much. I was in my previous relationship. I was immature, definitely. I've seen a lot of growth in me with my spouse's health. I've seen a lot of growth in her with my help. So we kind of like, you know, we we have an open conversation about things like that. So, like, what can we do to improve on each other? So yeah, I would definitely say it's I feel sorry for that my past relationship because that was like, terrible.

Speaker 2 [00:07:14] Well, it's good for you now.

Speaker 1 [00:07:16] It is.

Speaker 2 [00:07:20] And for you, what makes a relationship high quality or low quality?

Speaker 1 [00:07:25] Honesty, Trust, Patience. I think those are our main qualities that we have towards each other, that we maintain. So. She has a lot of patience.

Speaker 2 [00:07:44] And what about a low quality relationship?

Speaker 1 [00:07:47] Low quality relationship? It's probably exact opposite of that. Not being able to trust your partner to understand your feelings. Communication, though, they don't have the same communication there. Some of my friends are afraid to talk about their feelings because they don't want to be perceived as high maintenance or, you know, like having to worry about their feelings and things like that. So yeah, I think communication and trust and be honest with each other.

Speaker 2 [00:08:24] Yeah. And you've mentioned a lot about communication. So what would you say is like a time you've had, like, good communication and, like, what happened when you when that happened?

Speaker 1 [00:08:36] I would say about earlier in our relationship where [Partner's Name] hasn't had a lot of romantic relationships as I have, and she's closer to her parents as opposed to I lost my mom early on. So I have been independent. So she had a lot of, I would say not not mistrust or issues relating to me being so independent or doing things on my own and having to see other friends. And are there any, like romantic involvement in, you know, when I'm away and things like that? I mean, that happened early, early on in our relationship and I laid it down and I said, look, you know, I'm going to communicate this to you once. I would never, ever do anything like that. Everything that comes out of my mouth is going to be the honest truth. If I can't tell you something, you know, I wouldn't make anything up. I say that. So the basis, I think one of the basis of our relationship early on is communicating how I feel, how she feels. If she feels threatened by anything, if I feel threatened about anything, if she needs me to explain something to her, then, you know, I'm an open book. She has to open her mouth. I'm not a mind reader. You know, those types of relationships won't work because you always have to. I mean, no matter how uncomfortable, you know what you're going to say to them. I think it's better said than not.

Speaker 2 [00:10:17] Yeah. Yeah. And like, concretely, why do you think communication is important?

Speaker 1 [00:10:25] There's no second guessing each other. You always have to you always know where the other person is coming from. And learning to communicate to each other is part of that as well. You know, you don't just like bombard somebody. I mean, that's a type of communication, but you always there is a way to speak to someone and that is a learning process for us as well. So we're not always perfect like, you know, honey, please or thank you or things like that. There are moments where I'm like. I have a foul mouth, so I always swear. So that's always that's always a problem. I didn't grow up in that household, so her household was like, of course, free. Nobody, nobody swore or things like that. And I have I have that. So that's part of the communication. I'm not swearing at you. I'm just sort of swearing it has nothing to do with you.

Speaker 2 [00:11:32] Yes. The very important differentiation.

Speaker 1 [00:11:35] Yes. Yes.

Speaker 2 [00:11:40] Yeah, that's great. So you mentioned earlier about like having trust in a relationship. Can you tell me more about how you know, how one knows that they're like in a trusting relationship?

Speaker 1 [00:11:55] Like being open like that is part of the communication. I mean, you don't have to do a play by play of your days or what you're going to be doing ensuring that, you know, they can always count on you. They could trust you to trust you with their feelings. They could trust you with their thoughts. You won't use that against them. You know, I think that's that's a big part of it. You know, learning to do that as years go by. Like, you know, a lot of people and they communicate with each other or they're spilling their guts out and they turn around and use some of those feelings afterwards against them. So trust that that that goes a long way. So keeping those those thoughts and those feelings and protecting them.

Speaker 2 [00:12:56] Yeah. And when do you say, like a concrete example, like when your relationship was trusting and like, when it was maybe, like, least trusting?

Speaker 1 [00:13:06] I think most of it was early in the relationship. Nowadays, we fully trust each other. There's nothing in the world that I wouldn't tell her, and she's nothing in the world that she wouldn't discuss with me or tell me or how she's feeling. I think it's like early on in our relationship where it was a trust issue concerning a previous relationship. And that was that was the biggest, biggest part of it.

Speaker 2 [00:13:36] Yeah.

Speaker 1 [00:13:36] Yeah.

Speaker 2 [00:13:38] And I know you've had touched on this, like, a little bit earlier, but for you, what are the most important things in a relationship?

Speaker 1 [00:13:46] Most important is caring for each other, always understanding and being patient with each other. Almost like you have a second self inside of you that you always think of that to me, that's that's. I mean, you're not being selfish. Things like, you know, things like that. There's. Oh, she's always in my mind like, oh, if I'm doing something, Oh, I wonder if she's going to like this or I wonder if there's something that she will enjoy. Things like that. So there's I haven't I've never had that before. Like in my because I was so independent. I've always thought about myself. So thinking about something else is totally new.

Speaker 2 [00:14:33] That's great.

Speaker 1 [00:14:33] Yeah.

Speaker 2 [00:14:36] Just shifting gears a little bit again. For you. What is love? I know it's a pretty broad question, but it's kind of up to your interpretation.

Speaker 1 [00:14:46] Love is taking care of each other. Love is something you want to hold in your hand, but you also have to release because you don't want to suffocate it. And I know you're getting emotional. Love is just waking up and being able to do what you want because you're so comfortable with yourself and that person around you. There's no inhibition. I. I think that's how I feel every morning.

Speaker 2 [00:15:29] Yeah. And how important is love in a relationship?

Speaker 1 [00:15:34] I believe it is very important. I believe some people can have a relationship, An intimate relationship or in love may not be involved, but I think if you communicate that to each other, that what what are what is involved in that relationship, then you can have a successful one, not. I don't think everything has to be based on love. I'm happy that I have it. I'm happy that we have that. But it's different for every for every relationship. They might have a certain level of love towards each other, and that works for them. And. They might not work for somebody else. So, yeah, I mean. If it works for you, if love works for you, then that's what you should strive for. And if it doesn't, then mutual understanding might be another, I don't know, might be another form that would work for a relationship.

Speaker 2 [00:16:45] Yeah. And how do you know that your spouse loves you?

Speaker 1 [00:16:50] I make her tell me every day now. She is. Very unselfish with her time. Also, she does think about all the things that me I need a provider. I just feel it. You know, we wake up and we're like, you know, we just touch and look at each other and. We feel it. You know, it just courses through you something unexplainable. So, yeah, we're. We're lucky to have it.

Speaker 2 [00:17:38] Yeah, that sounds amazing. And shifting gears a little bit again. What would you say are some challenges in your relationship.

Speaker 1 [00:17:49] Challenges in our relationship time that you can spend with each other. Work does get a lot does get in the way. A lot of times the other challenges. I'm an introvert and she's an extrovert or in the middle. I think she's in the she can be an extra. She can be an introvert. At the same time, I need a lot of recharging. I need to recharge a lot and. Family wise, she has a lot of family. I think that's one of the challenges, and I always have to explain to her that, like, I need to be away for a little bit. I need to recharge. I need to I need that time. And my family always wants us there. It's a very close knit family and they always want time with each other. Sometimes that has become a discussion. You know, so but we're working. We work through it. We've found a way to work through it. So, yeah.

Speaker 2 [00:18:54] Yeah, that's great. That's great. And do you and your partner fight?

Speaker 1 [00:19:00] Oh, yeah, we do. I think we fight a lot, but it's not a unresolved issue kind of thing. It's more like, you know, little discussion here and there. So let's see, what do we. It's more like discussions, more than fights, I would say. We like to question each other's thoughts and feelings. So if we're reading a news article or something, we'd like to discuss about it, and sometimes we get heated and it turns into a tiny little, so tiny little fight. But I think that's that's that's a healthy, healthy, healthy fight. I don't think it's one of those toxic fights. I don't know if you could call those fights, maybe discussions. We have a lot of discussions.

Speaker 2 [00:19:56] Yeah. And how long do, like, discussions last?

Speaker 1 [00:20:00] I heard discussions with maybe last. Maybe. Depends on what it is. I mean, it could be like 10 minutes. 30 to an hour. We haven't had a. An overnight fight in a long, long time. I can't even remember. I think that was early, early on. Where, yeah. I can't remember something that lasted all night long, so. Yeah.

Speaker 2 [00:20:38] I mean, that's great. How often would you say these discussions are?

Speaker 1 [00:20:45] How often? Well, a healthy dose. Maybe twice a week, maybe twice, twice a week or so. Maybe like at the lowest, maybe three times a month. I mean, it's always like just random things, you know?

Speaker 2 [00:21:07] Yeah. And like are there is anything like. Are there any specific things that you commonly like fight or like argue about or is it like always something random?

Speaker 1 [00:21:20] We have something that we always fight about. What is something about this fight about like.

Speaker 2 [00:21:25] Or like, Often.

Speaker 1 [00:21:28] I think it's more like. I would say like daily things like don't put the dishes there. I think it's household stuff. It's I think it's most common. I'm very particular with where things are in the house, where they are laid out. So it's almost always and I have I'm always the one noticing things. So I will always say, can you please put that away? Or, you know, things like things like that. I think that's most mostly house things. My anal retentiveness.

Speaker 2 [00:22:19] Yeah. I mean, that makes sense. And how do you resolve these arguments or discussions?

Speaker 1: Oh, do you want ice cream?

Speaker 2: That's a good way to go about it here.

Speaker 1 [00:22:34] What would you like to snack on? A food is a big pacifier. I think.

Speaker 2 [00:22:42] I agree. I agree. That's a great way to go about it. And aside from, well, like you said, ice cream and food, what are some other ways you maintain your relationship? It is not to be like in like an argument or fighting like context, but just other ways you maintain your relationship.

Speaker 1 [00:23:06] Maintaining our relationship. Always be aware of each other's needs. I think that's the biggest part of maintaining a relationship, maintaining a well-balanced household. I think that's one of the big things constant, like a comfortable setting, a comfortable place and safe place to be. I think that's one of the major things that we we've actually talked about before. We always thank each other for having a safe place to be with each other.

Speaker 2 [00:23:45] Yeah, that's great. And would you say the relationship is good for you? And why?

Speaker 1 [00:23:51] Well, the relationship is good for me because I've grown a lot from the relationship. I've learned a lot about myself. I've learned a lot about her. I've learned that I can't do everything on my own. I sometimes need someone, not a one man island kind of thing going on. So, yeah, that's. That's it.

Speaker 2 [00:24:24] Yeah. And, um. Did the relationship change you in any way? I know you've kind of mentioned this a little bit, but did it change you any concrete ways? Do you think.

Speaker 1 [00:24:37] It changed me? Yeah. Before. It wasn't as open before. Before our relationship, I really wanted to have a different way to address needs and wants. With her, it was just so easy to communicate that, it was easy to open up myself and trust her, to trust those things that I wanted and relate with her what those things are. So yeah, I think that's that's my own growth. Being able to do that.

Speaker 2 [00:25:24] And what about your spouse? Do you think she changed in the relationship?

Speaker 1 [00:25:29] I believe so. Maturity wise, I. I think. It was a big challenge for her because growing up, I view her growing up as such a sheltered life that the outside world was all new. So I think I was a good instrument to be to be able to show that to her that there is something else outside family. You could you could make more friends. You could trust other people outside of family. So I think that's one of the one of the major growth that she's had.

Speaker 2 [00:26:22] Yeah, that's great. And do you feel safe in the relationship? And why do you say so?

Speaker 1 [00:26:29] Yeah, I feel very safe in the relationship. I wouldn't want somebody else. You know, to to know my deepest, darkest secrets, I suppose. I don't have any secrets. Cause I tell her everything. But, yeah, I feel very safe. Like I said, I wake up and, you know, I don't have any worries. When I wake up, I wake up and I just, you know, go about my day and. Come home and feel wonderful that she's cooked and come home to her, you know, that she'll be home. So that's I think that's the biggest joy that I can have, is like, feel, feel. Well, there's a certain like you don't appreciate it enough, but it's always there.

Speaker 2 [00:27:26] Yeah, That's great. That's great. Um. Okay, So next, the next few questions are going to be based on a likert scale. I don't know if you ever heard or used that before, but it's like that, like numerical scale where you, like, completely agree or disagree. So I'm going to share my screen.

Speaker 1 [00:27:49] okay.

Speaker 2 [00:27:52] Okay. Can you see.

Speaker 1 [00:27:54] This? Yep.

Speaker 2 [00:27:55] Okay, So I'm going to. Sorry. I'm going to ask you a question. And then you're going to tell me, like, what number you are. You think you are on the scale. So my partner usually really listens to me.

Speaker 1 [00:28:06] Okay. And that's me, right? Yeah. Okay. Now, I would say that would be an eight. She is very preoccupied most of the time. So I would say an eight. Nothing's perfect.

Speaker 2 [00:28:22] Yes. Yes. So why would you not say like, seven or nine?

Speaker 1 [00:28:28] Why wouldn't I say seven or nine? Because it's closer to the truth. But I know it's not the truth. Because it's not completely true that everyone listens to everybody. Like, usually really listens to me. I don't know. That's, That's a trick question because it says usually that's true.

Speaker 2 [00:28:49] Usually is a bit of a throw off.

Speaker 1 [00:28:52] If it's my partner really listens to me. I think it would be an eight still usually listen. Usually really listens to me. I still stick with an 8, I don't like perfect things.

Speaker 2 [00:29:06] But I kind of agree with that I don't think anything can be truly perfect. So. Yeah. Like your reasoning. Okay. Oh. Oh, no. Okay. Oh, no. It kept going for some reason. Okay. Is usually is responsive to my needs.

Speaker 1 [00:29:28] I would. That's so hard. Completely true. Even half. She's really good. I mean, she gives it her all. So I would probably I would probably make it a nine for her.

Speaker 2 [00:29:51] That's awesome.

Speaker 1 [00:29:52] I just. I just contradicted myself. But damn, she's good at that. She usually this really respond to my respond to my needs.

Speaker 2 [00:30:03] That's great. That's great. And why not and 8? I know it kind of touched a little bit on a little bit, but.

Speaker 1 [00:30:08] Yeah, I touched on that a little bit. But it says usually so I'm going to use usually used usually as an excuse that's not 100%. But my answer to that is 100%.

Speaker 2 [00:30:21] Okay. Yeah, that makes sense. That makes sense. Okay, awesome. And then how satisfied are you with your relationship? Would you say?

Speaker 1 [00:30:30] Completely satisfied.

Speaker 2 [00:30:33] Awesome. Awesome. And then based on like this numerical scale, where would you put yourself on your satisfaction rate?

Speaker 1 [00:30:40] My satisfaction? I would say nine. Nine. I mean, like I said, it's not completely. I mean, I could do away with, you know, some, anger issues on my part. I have a lot of those. So I'm still I'm still growing. So I don't think he can be a ten if I'm still growing. So I still need to have that growth. I would say nine.

Speaker 2 [00:31:09] Okay. And then why not? I know you kind of mentioned why it wouldn't be, like, fully, but like, why not eight.

Speaker 1 [00:31:14] Or not eight? I think I'm close to close to being completely satisfied. If I'd just tempered that that little bit of anger issue. Just. Yeah, I need I need a lot of help on that.

Speaker 2 [00:31:31] Yeah, that's understandable. But yeah, no, that's great. Okay, awesome. That's it. With the scale thingy, I'm going to stop sharing. Okay, Awesome. Thank you for doing that.

Speaker 2 [00:31:45] Sorry. This is confusing. Okay, so, um, and, um, so the next few questions are slightly more personal, and feel free to to say it is, like, too sensitive for you to share. Or if you, if you ever don't share anything, that is totally fine. But we basically want to know more about your physical intimacy as a couple one. So these days, how often do you have sex?

Speaker 1 [00:32:17] Sex intercourse is less than it used to be. We're both busy. I think a lot of people use that as an excuse, but I think it's just that we're so comfortable with just doing our own thing that that's. That's not always the first thing that we think of. So I would say maybe twice monthly.

Speaker 2 [00:32:43] Okay. And what about, like, earlier, like you said, like, not as much now, but how about, like, when you were doing it more earlier?

Speaker 1 [00:32:53] Yeah, I would say about four times a month or so. Yeah, physically, we're physically we're intimate, but not always sexually. Like having intercourse all the time, but we're physically always, like, intimate with each other. So that's one of the best things I love about our relationship, that we can always do that and we have time for that.

Speaker 2 [00:33:21] Yeah, that's great. And how satisfied are you with your sex life? And why would you say so?

Speaker 1 [00:33:27] Um, I'm actually 100% satisfied with our sex life, and that's. I know it's not 100%, but. Yeah, I mean, because it's because our relationship is is very understanding of each other's needs. So she knows that I have my needs, and I know that she has her needs. So I'm more than welcome to talk about my needs all the time. And it it's satisfied in that way.

Speaker 2 [00:33:59] Yeah. And do you believe sex is important for your relationship?

Speaker 1 [00:34:05] Not completely. I mean, sex is not everything about a relationship. Like I said before, it comprises of all different kinds of things. But yeah, once you have an understanding of how comfortable you are with your sexual activity, I think you can have a healthy relationship with minimal sex, as much sex as you want, as much sex with each other or on your own. So yeah, it just. Like. That's part of the communication. You have to tell your partner what you need.

Speaker 2 [00:34:45] Yeah. No, that's. That's great. Yeah, that makes sense. And this is the last interview. But did the relationship fulfill your expectations?

Speaker 1 [00:34:58] Yes, like a hundred fold. I wasn't expecting a relationship. I was just looking for an acquaintance to go and see music with. So, yeah, this is it. It surprised me.

Speaker 2 [00:35:17] That's great. That's great also. Also, I'm very happy for you guys. Okay, Awesome. So we are close to wrapping up. I just like to summarize what we've conversed about in the past 35 ish minutes. So as you've mentioned, you're very satisfied with your relationship and you have a lot of trust in each other. And communication is a big thing for you guys as well. You have arguments but they're not like full on fights and, These arguments don't last very long and aren't super frequent and are usually about like household things. And you think that relationship is very good for you and has changed you? And. Yeah. You said that you're quite satisfied with your sex life and just your relationship in general. Is there anything else you would like to add to what I've just said or anything that I might have missed?

Speaker 1 [00:36:23] Um, no, I think you've got it covered. Yeah.

Speaker 2 [00:36:27] Okay. Awesome. Awesome. Okay. So thank you so much for doing this interview. Before we end, I want to talk to you about how we're going to handle the data. As a research project, we want to be as transparent as possible. And so we wanted to know which data sharing option you're most comfortable with. So option one is that the transcript portions can be shared, an image which can be identified to you. So like all the data in a transcript can be read by other researchers, but like all the like, identifiable things in an interview will be removed.

Speaker 1 [00:37:06] Okay.

Speaker 2 [00:37:07] But if you're bolder, another option is that the whole transcript can be shared and will removed to like sensitive and overly identifying details. So it will be anonymized. Although in this option there's a minimal chance that someone who knows you can piece together the details of the transcript and narrow down who among their colleagues or peers, if they believe it is. Although again, like no sensitive information will be shared. So of these two options. Which one are you more comfortable with?

Speaker 1 [00:37:37] Share at all? Okay.

Speaker 2 [00:37:40] Sounds good. Awesome, awesome

Speaker 1 [00:37:45] It's going to help somebody else out there. Hey.

Speaker 2 [00:37:49] Exactly. For the research purposes, you know. Yes.

Speaker 1 [00:37:52] Yes.

Speaker 2 [00:37:53] Okay. Okay. Thank you so much. This is the last thing. But thank you so much for participating in a study. I believe I sent you this, but this has been done also in the Philippines, Brazil, Netherlands, France and the US. So it is a I wouldn't say worldwide study, but it's quite across the world, which is great. But for the study to be successful, there is one more thing that we will ask of you and it's okay if you can't do this, but would you be able to recommend to close people in your life as a nominator?

Basically, how we do our research here is we use like snowball sampling, which basically means that the people that we interview, we use them to give us new people to interview. So basically, like it's kind of like a snowball effect where like I interview some more people to interview, if that makes sense.

Speaker 1 [00:38:50] Yeah.

Speaker 2 [00:38:52] So if you happen to know anyone else who might know other couples who might be interested or if you know. Anyone who might be interested in being interviewed, please let me know. I will be. I will send you a text or email about what kind of people that were looking for.

Speaker 1 [00:39:13] Yeah, I wonder. [Partner's Name] was asking. She just like, Oh, do you have a list of people? So I've been giving her a list of people. You stole all mine.

Speaker 2 [00:39:22] That's okay. That's okay. If you live to see people, that's totally fine. I think because really funny that you guys are already collaborating on that I didn't even like.

Speaker 1 [00:39:29] Oh, do you have any? Like, I'm like, Oh, that's somebody you always have. Definitely. Yeah, But I forget if I have any more, I will definitely let you know.

Speaker 2 [00:39:38] Okay. Okay. Sounds good. I think it's very funny. I didn't even think of that. Yeah. Do you prefer text or email as, like, a method of communication?

Speaker 1 [00:39:50] Text.

Speaker 2 [00:39:51] Text. Okay. I will text you the information that.

Speaker 1 [00:39:54] Oh, great.

Speaker 2 [00:39:55] Okay. Awesome. So, yeah, that is it. I will text you information and you will also be receiving like a little. Oh, little survey, I think should take like about like 5 to 10 minutes, if you can feel that. That'll be great. If you can't, that's totally fine too. But if you could, that'd be amazing. So yeah, it's also anonymous. So honestly, there's no way for me to tell if you filled it out. So. But please, fill it out.

Speaker 1 [00:40:22] Oh.

Speaker 2 [00:40:24] Yeah, that is it. Do you have any other questions or anything else you want to add?

Speaker 1 [00:40:29] Well, no, this is. This is great. I'm glad we participated. I hope the friends that we have, the list of friends that we've given you will also participate, so. Oh, yeah.

Speaker 2 [00:40:43] Yeah. And thank you so much for doing that. And thank you so much for participating and participating in the interview. I really appreciate it.

Speaker 1 [00:40:49] Okay. You're welcome.

Speaker 2 [00:40:50] Yeah. Thank you so much for participating.

Speaker 1 [00:40:52] Good luck.

Speaker 2 [00:40:53] Thank you so much. Okay. Nice talking to you. I really I really enjoyed this interview. Thank you.

Speaker 1 [00:40:58] Nice to meet you.

Speaker 2 [00:40:59] Bye bye.
