

Speaker 1 [00:00:00] Okay, now it's recording. Just so I can have it on the data. I'll ask you again. Is it okay if I record?

Speaker 2 [00:00:08] Yeah.

Speaker 1 [00:00:10] Okay. So thank you again for participating in this interview. As mentioned over email, we want to know more about your views or romantic relationships, and we believe your experience and perspective would bring much to this project. So I'll be asking some demographic questions. And then later on, just more of like context and your overall views. Uhm so how old are you?

Speaker 2 [00:00:35] [15-20].

Speaker 1 [00:00:38] And how long have you been together with your partner?

Speaker 2 [00:00:41] [0-1]

Speaker 1 [00:00:44] And do you have children?

Speaker 2 [00:00:46] No.

Speaker 1 [00:00:48] And who lives in your household?

Speaker 2 [00:00:52] My parents and my sister.

Speaker 1 [00:00:57] And what is your main source of income?

Speaker 2 [00:01:01] My parents' income.. so..

Speaker 1 [00:01:03] Okay. And how would you like me to address your partner? Boyfriend? Partner, lover, by name or boyfriend?

Speaker 2: Boyfriend.

Speaker 1 [00:01:17] Ok All right. So, yeah. Tell me about how you guys met.

Speaker 2 [00:01:22] We met at school, so. Yeah.

Speaker 1 [00:01:28] And how did the relationship develop?

Speaker 2 [00:01:33] Developed meaning like?

Speaker 1 [00:01:35] Like how did you guys end up liking each other? How did you guys end up like going out?

Speaker 2: Umm we used to be friends-

Speaker 1: -like your love story.

Speaker 2 [00:01:43] -for [1-5] months. We were friends for [1-5] months. And then he told me that he likes me, but I wasn't quite ready for it. So I told him he has to wait a little bit. And, I don't know, gradually something happened between and I realized I liked him all along. So now we're here [1-5] years later.

Speaker 1 [00:02:02] [Mhm. That's so sweet. All right.

Speaker 1 [00:02:07] And how long would you say it took you to realize you like him as well?

Speaker 2 [00:02:15] The realization or like the, the-

Speaker 1 [00:02:17] The development.

Speaker 2 [00:02:24] When I realized it took me like, I think [1-5] days. But the development was quite like [1-5] months because I know him for [1-5] months before dating him, so.

Speaker 1 [00:02:32] Oh, okay. Yeah. And what made you realize that you liked him?

Speaker 2 [00:02:41] He's everything I've ever wanted in a man, so..

Speaker 1 [00:02:46] So cute.

Speaker 1 [00:02:53] And what is it that you wanted?

Speaker 2 [00:02:56] What is it that I wanted? At that stage I needed somebody who was emotionally there for me, somebody who could understand everything I was going through. And because I remember I was also not in a good space back then. So he was always there for me listening to me. And just like the person that you would describe as like a family man, like, you know, like takes care of you. So very mature.

Speaker 1: Mhm.

Speaker 2: Like uses his words, like, very nicely, doesn't speak out of anger, just treats me with respect. And that's something I really love about him. Like he compliments my personality very well.

Speaker 1[00:03:35] Mhm. And uhm talking about the relationship of your friends and yours, how would you compare the quality of that comparison?

Speaker 2 [00:04:00] Oh, like the like my relationship to my friends. Those relationships?

Speaker 1 [00:04:04] Yeah.

Speaker 2 [00:04:05] I would say they have, If I must say so. Like, they have a lot of trouble communicating. And I feel like after I've gotten into a relationship, I find myself asking a lot of time, like, why it's your boyfriend or it's your girlfriend. What is there in communicating with them? Like, this is the one person you should be very open to. So I think that's something always there. And I find a lot of times they're telling me like, you got the jackpot, this or that, like, oh, it's so easy. And yeah, so. I feel like those are differences.

Speaker 1 [00:04:40] Mhm. And how does that make you feel?

Speaker 2 [00:04:42] Makes me feel good about myself, obviously. I have a very good relationship. Tells me I'm doing something right.

Speaker 1 [00:04:54] And uhm. So knowing more, or trying to know more about your history and relationships, how many partners have you had in the past?

Speaker 2 [00:05:06] This is the first one. This is the first uhm dating partner, but I have been in talking like [1-5] other talking stages before.

Speaker 1 [00:05:18] And how would you say this current relationship would compare to your, I guess, talking stages? Besides the fact that it was imprecise, the fact that it's official.

Speaker 2 [00:05:34] Yeah. Well. First, like, I think this is like something that I've actually experienced, which is like real, like in the sense of not just like, emotions. I feel like it's more real in the sense of like, this is how a healthy relationship should be. It's not like unhealthy where we're like. Or we're like constantly getting back at each other or stuff like that. Like, there's no ego. It's just a calm like, let's help each other get back on track type and I'll help you too. So I would say it's different in that way.

Speaker 1 [00:06:08] Mhm and trying to understand more about Like what? Like you said, a good relationship. A healthy relationship is, what makes a relationship healthy or not healthy?

Speaker 2 [00:06:23] I think that like, obviously in any relationship, a lot of people say like, no, there won't be any arguments or disagreements, but there will be like inevitably, I think it's about how you take on those disagreements by still showing respect to each other, even in the midst of being that angry with each other. Like to this day, I still remember like we were in an argument type of thing, and in the middle I said, I think I got my period. And he went straight out of it and said, Do you have your pads? Are you okay? And stuff like that. And we didn't resume the argument after that. So stuff like that. I feel like it's it's very important to communicate uhm through words that like still make you feel loved and respected and showing your partner that you care even when you are disagreeing on stuff. I think that's what a healthy relationship is all about. Just communication, communication. Communication is like the biggest thing.

Speaker 1 [00:07:12] I completely agree. And what would you say is not healthy then? Or low quality?

Speaker 2 [00:07:23] Telling your friends, your arguments or what you're feeling about your partner before you tell your partner themselves. Because I feel like your partner should be the number one person you tell anything like, you know. Only after they know can you maybe tell your friends this or that just to, like, you know, share because that's what friends are there for at the end of the day. But when you have a problem with somebody, you should go to them first. And I feel like a lot of people mess things up by relying on secondary sources.

Speaker 1: Right.

Speaker 2: You know, they're not going to the person they're not seeing like I see this statement going on a lot more. It's not like you versus them. It's you two versus everyone else.

Speaker 1: Mhm.

Speaker 2: And I don't think people are keeping that in mind. So I would say that's what an unhealthy relationship would mean, is that there's no communication and yeah, there's no prioritizing the relationship.

Speaker 1 [00:08:22] I completely agree. Because your friends don't really know like the whole story. They don't know your partner to that level. Yeah. And in terms of your relationship, when would you say it was the lowest quality? Uhm. Like it could be just a moment. It could be, you know, a stage.

Speaker 2 [00:08:48] The lowest quality, right?

Speaker 1: Mhm.

Speaker 2 [00:08:52] Meaning because we don't really I wouldn't say there is a lowest quality, really. I think we argued like, really only like. Like a big argument would really only be [1-5]. So in those, I think that happened around [month].

Speaker 1: Mhm

Speaker 2: Yeah.

Speaker 1 [00:09:10] And could you tell me more about that? Yeah.

Speaker 2 [00:09:13] Yeah, If I remember it right, I think it was something like. I think.. What was it? Sorry. Give me one minute.

Speaker 1 [00:09:28] Yeah. Yeah. Take your time.

Speaker 2 [00:09:35] I think it was something like. I think it was something like a lack of effort along those lines or something, because like we have been in a long distance relationship for a while. And I think either he or I were seeing a lack of effort in the other side. So that's all our. "an argument" was about.

Speaker 1 [00:09:58] Mhm. And how did you guys work things out?

Speaker 2 [00:10:03] Okay. So one thing is that he is the kind of person who needs to talk about it then and there. He can't move forward until he talks about it and I'm the kind of person who needs my space. So I guess he's like very good at giving me that space and controlling his emotions. So after, because I know if I'm in that moment, I'll say something which I didn't mean at all. I don't like ruined things. So I went for like five minutes and I came back and I texted him and I was like, okay, I'm ready to talk. And then we talked things out and I was like, I think either he or I were like, "What makes you think I'm showing lack of effort?" And we're like, okay, in my eyes, this is how I felt it was. And then we're like, okay, could you do this from now onwards? Because I get where you're coming from, but this is how I feel. And then you just never look back over that sense.

Speaker 1 [00:10:50] And so sharing perspectives and solutions and taking into account the feelings for the solutions, right?

Speaker 2 [00:10:57] Yeah.

Speaker 1 [00:11:00] Nice. And for you, what is the most important thing in a relationship?

Speaker 2 [00:11:07] I think keeping each other's number one and having each other's backs, no matter what high or lows you're going through. It's very important to me.

Speaker 1 [00:11:27] And so generally, what is love to you?

Speaker 2 [00:11:33] What is love?

Speaker 1: Yeah.

Speaker 2: [00:11:36] Like in general, right?

Speaker 1: Yeah.

Speaker 2: -Not just in the context? I think love is it being able to see someone's flaws, like not just idealizing them, but like seeing someone's flaws and seeing them for who they really are. And still those flaws don't come across as glossy. You just see it as something that like a partnership is love to me. So just being there for him or her.

Speaker 1: Mhm.

Speaker 2: And no matter what. Like what state of mind you're in, and no matter how much they irritate you, you're always going to be there for you, for them. And I think that's what love is, is that act of always staying there. And not because you have to, but because you want to.

Speaker 1 [00:12:32] And how important is love in a relationship?

Speaker 2 [00:12:37] This love that I just explained right now?

Speaker 1 [00:12:39] Yeah.

Speaker 2 [00:12:40] That's very important. Like, yeah. So I guess a lot of people confuse love with infatuation and obviously that projection will wear off like. In the first few months. And after that, what are you going to do? So then that's where you have to think about. I know the flaws of this person a lot more now. Do I still want to be with them? If the answer is yes, then that is love. And that's how love is important because after that turns into a partnership of taking life together.

Speaker 1: Mhm.

Speaker 2: So I think it's very important.

Speaker 1 [00:13:14] And so how would you define an infatuation? So like what. What exactly is a-

Speaker 2 [00:13:23] Sorry?

Speaker 1 [00:13:24] Uhm. What is infatuation?

Speaker 2 [00:13:26] Infatuation is. uhm. I think when you get like, how do I explain it? I think infatuation is like, when you're really pulled to somebody. But just it could just be based off of looks or even personality. But it's just like a like a connect that happens in the moment, like something that is bound to wear off after a while.

Speaker 1 [00:13:52] Yeah. And how do you know? Because we talked about love and how much you love your partner uhm and what love is. How do you know your partner loves you?

Speaker 2 [00:14:08] He shows it to me every single day like everyone else. Like all the little things. Like, I told it the scenario and then the like. Every day when I wake up in the morning, there's always like [20-25] texts in the morning, like telling me, "Good morning, how did you sleep" and everything, and the amount of like posts he sent me and like how he's always keeping me updated throughout the day that he did this. He did that. Always willing to call me whenever like even if he gets [5-10] minutes in the day. And just like always being there for me. And I know whenever I'm going through something how much it, like, hurts or worries him. So, I mean, I wouldn't worry him if he could love me, right? So,

Speaker 1: Yeah.

Speaker 2: That's never been something I've doubted.

Speaker 1 [00:15:07] Right. And what would you say are some challenges in your relationship?

Speaker 2 [00:15:13] Challenges is sometimes the opposite personalities. It obviously helps us a lot, but like sometimes one out of five, it will like act against us. And uhm yeah, just like liking different things, looking at things differently and sometimes the complimenting each other can take a different route. Like we disagree on a lot of things I really like. That's completely okay. Why is it not so?

Speaker 1: Mhm.

Speaker 2: I think, yeah, that is something that happens every now and then.

Speaker 1 [00:15:47] Could you give me an example?

Speaker 2 [00:15:51] Like. For example, he uhh. Okay. I have to really think about this once again.

Speaker 1: Yeah

Speaker 2 [00:16:12] I think... I think uhh because we're in a long distance relationship. As I said, communication is a lot like. More needed, right? So, and I'm more of like, a like, I wouldn't say independent, but I'm more used to doing things my own way. So if I go for a walk or something, it takes two hours and I forget to update him that one time. He'll get very worried. And then after that he'll be like, Where were you? Why didn't you text me? Like, Oh, I was just on a walk. Like you could have texted me before going to, I wouldn't have been worried for your safety. I'm like, Yeah, I can see that. But I was just on a walk. I know what I'm like, you know? Yeah, just go into that. Or like some, he does have like his own views on drinking and smoking. Like he's very keen on never drinking and smoking and stuff like that. And I'm like because he thinks like it's something once you go into like you can't come back from it.

Speaker 1: Mhm.

Speaker 2: And I'm more of the type where I think that like each to their own, like, you know, they should like, obviously he doesn't think anyone's a bad person they're drinking or smoking, but like.

Speaker 1: Mhm.

Speaker 2: He thinks that it's just better not to do it at all. And I think that like, it's going to happen anyway when you go to college and, you know, I'm sure you know, like the drinking.

Speaker 1 [00:17:19] Yeah, yeah, yeah. All right. And you mentioned that you guys happened to like, like the serious fights only happen [1-5]. Are there any, like, other types of fights that you can remember? Or is it just like [1-5] fights that you've always had?

Speaker 2 [00:17:46] Other well to us. Like a ballpark, but like. I- Those are like, the [1-5] most that I can remember.

Speaker 1 [00:17:56] Yeah. Mm hmm.

Speaker 2 [00:18:01] The other. I think. Recently. Maybe like. It was just another communication thing. Like, I wouldn't even call it a fight, really. It was just more of like a disagreement. But yeah, it was just a communication error.

Speaker 1 [00:18:14] Yeah. And how often do you think these disagreements happen?

Speaker 2 [00:18:19] Uhm. It happens. Probably like. Or I like [1-5] every [1-5] months. Yeah.

Speaker 1 [00:18:37] And how do you guys. Well, you did talk about it more, but could you tell me more about how you guys resolve these fights or disagreements?

Speaker 2 [00:18:45] How we resolve it?

Speaker 1: Yeah.

Speaker 2 [00:18:48] Yeah, Basically, like, she gives me the time I need and everything, and then I come back to the problem. And then when I come back, usually I have it in a different light. So it allows me to, like, look into his perspective without just like, telling me what I want, without just saying what I want, like, constantly, because I can do that a lot. And so, yeah, just looks just lets me like, listen to him also and yeah. And phrase my words better because when I'm angry, I can't talk.

Speaker 1 [00:19:34] Now. What are other ways you maintain your relationship?

Speaker 2 [00:19:39] Um. Like love languages. Is that what you mean? Um.

Speaker 1 [00:19:43] How do you define it?

Speaker 2 [00:19:45] Okay. Well, my love language is definitely words of affirmation and. What else? Words of affirmation. We were- Both of our love language is physical touch, but obviously that can't be accomplished because we are in long distance. But words of affirmation. He definitely like sent me a lot of paragraphs telling you like how much he loves me and like telling me how much I mean to him and stuff like that. So just like reading that and I and I know I saved them into like a little folder and whenever I need to, I read them and I tell- I, well, fingers crossed, I tell it a lot that how much I love him and stuff like that. I do make sure to send like messages, like making sure that he knows I'm always there.

Speaker 1: Mhm.

Speaker 2: -even though we're not there in person. Like I'm always going to be there for him. And another thing is, like whenever there's special occasions, like birthdays, anniversaries, whatever, like, I like, like making things for him, like whether that could be like an online scrapbook or I remember for his birthday, I made like a compilation of all of his friends video, like a one minute video saying like, How much do you love him and happy birthday to him? And that like included his own college friends and his family who I didn't have contact with. So like, that effort meant a lot to him. And it means a lot to me too, when he does stuff like that.

Speaker 1 [00:21:09] Yeah. Okay. And would you say that the relationship is good for you?

Speaker 2 [00:21:28] Ah. Oh yeah.

Speaker 1 [00:21:30] Why do you say so?

Speaker 2 [00:21:32] I just have it's just a very positive impact on me. I wouldn't say it's like something unhealthy where something like I can't be without. It's not an attachment. It's just he's always striving to make me a better person. He's always telling me I can be better. He's always motivating me whenever I'm feeling more of myself. I could even argue that he sees more value and love in me than I do myself. So that very much bleeds into my own life. And, you know, the way I respond back to people, I used to be like a very angry, maybe even bitter person back then, always like lashing out at other people because I was afraid of being hurt myself. And when there's so much love in your life and you have someone who's going to love you no matter what, then. It gives you the perspective of like. I can be sort of like, you know, you tend to be nicer to other people and you tend to be more vulnerable in a beautiful way, like not vulnerable, like, oh, anyone can hurt me. Vulnerable. Like I'm okay showing my emotions and yeah.

Speaker 1 [00:22:45] I love that. And yeah. You talked a bit about it, but did the relationship change you?

Speaker 2[00:22:49] Yeah. Yeah. He's always pushing me to pursue my goals and stuff like that. I used to sing and play the violin,

Speaker 1:Ohh

Speaker 2:- and after that, I stopped a little bit. Oh, you also?

Speaker 1 [00:23:01] No, I don't.

Speaker 2 [00:23:02] Okay.

Speaker 1 [00:23:03] I love that. That's so cute.

Speaker 2 [00:23:04] Yes. I used to sing and play the violin. And I remember when your friends actually. I told him that I used to sing. So he used to keep on pestering me to send, like, voice messages of music. One fine day, I finally did. And then he saved those. And then he told me after the meeting that he saved us. And he used to listen to them on his walks, and he told me that I should continue singing.

Speaker 1: Aww.

Speaker 2: And playing the violin because I have a talent that not many people get because he used to tell me like musical talent is not something everyone gets.

Speaker 1: Oh, yes.

Speaker 2: And I should definitely use it.

Speaker 2 [00:23:36] Yeah. So. I started performing again because of that, and now I'm performing for myself. So that's something that he has like, motivated me to do or. This like in school. Also like, you know, he's always teaching. I remember last year I took [Topic]. He would, he would be like. Teaching me until like 2 a.m.. Like biology subjects and stuff like that because I got a test the next day and that was the only reason I could pass. The only reason I would pass the test. I was like, Yeah, just those like little things. And the way I look at my parents, the way I look at his parents, the way I look at my friends, I value relationships a lot more. Like I said, when there's like a lot of love in your life, it like it. It's true, man. It really does change. Yeah. So, yeah.

Speaker 1 [00:24:27] Yeah well. For me that has yet to happen, so I'm looking forward to that. So, yeah. So do you feel safe in the relationship?

Speaker 2 [00:24:38] Very, very safe. He is my safe place. He's someone I can tell anything to. And I know that he'll take it just in the right way. Like, you know, if I say, Hey, you're troubling me in this way, like, not sorry, not troubling me. Or if I say like, Hey, you did this and it didn't sit right with me and he won't get offended. He'll be like, I'm sorry I did that. Can you like, can you tell me how I made you feel that way? And it's just a, a healthy space as a safe space.

Speaker 1 [00:25:06] So. Yeah, I agree.

Speaker 1 [00:25:11] All right. So for these I'm going to share my screen and it's just going to be a likert scale. Uhm.. Share screen...Okay.. Switch from..Okay. So for the first one, "my partner usually really listen to me." I'll just be taking notes on the sides.

Speaker 2 [00:25:41] "My partner usually really listens to me." [5-10].

Speaker 1 [00:25:47] Okay. And why do you say so?

Speaker 2 [00:25:50] Because usually he really does listen to me, but sometimes he gets distracted by like some video or something.

Speaker 1 [00:25:59] Right. And just like to be more specific, why not a [5-10]?

Speaker 2 [00:26:05] Sorry?

Speaker 1 [00:26:07] Why not a [5-10]?

Speaker 2 [00:26:08] Well, yeah, because, like, sometimes there's, like, other stuff running out. Like, he's like, Oh, my mom called me to go with this. I'll be right back. I'm so certain. I'm like, Man, you're gonna lose. Yeah. So that's why the eight and a half.

Speaker 1 [00:26:25] And another one just like, why not a [5-10]?

Speaker 2 [00:26:30] Why not a [5-10]? Because that was too low for a man like that. Like he's always inaudible

Speaker 1 [00:26:38] Right. Right. So next one. "My partner is usually responsive to my needs. "

Speaker 2: [5-10].

Speaker 1 [00:26:45] [5-10]. And why?

Speaker 2 [00:26:49] Whether he's there for his own needs or not, he's always there for mine, so he's always responding to them and making sure he can be better for me.

Speaker 2 [00:26:58] So yeah. Okay.

Speaker 1 [00:27:02] And last one. How satisfied are you with your relationship?

Speaker 2 [00:27:06] Completely satisfied.

Speaker 1 [00:27:14] Okay. All right. So I'm gonna stop sharing and continue with these last couple of questions. Mm hmm. Okay. Well, let me just. Right. So. All right. So for more like details for "my partner usually really listens to me." You said [5-10]. Could you give me an example? Like a specific example?

Speaker 2 [00:28:14] Hmm. Like why is it [5-10] and not a [5-10]?

Speaker 1 [00:28:21] Yeah.

Speaker 2 [00:28:23] Okay so like, even if we're having, like, a lot of fun, I'm, like, out of the blue. I'm like, hey I know when you're talking about something here, like, completely stop that and like, drop everything and come to me and start listening to what I want and start listening to what I have to say. And he listens to it in a very like. Calm. Like he reminds me of Buddha sometimes. Like you just like so calm and like, how do you do it? He's very calm and he's just listening to me and my needs. And even if sometimes it's he's like, Oh, I didn't even know I did that. I wish I told you this earlier. That's the only thing that he is upset about that I didn't tell him earlier. So. That's the reason why it's 8.5 and not a nine. That's because it's it's a silly reason, but it's only happened once or twice. It's the fact that he sometimes gets distracted and I know he can't control it because sometimes his mom will need him for something or he needs to go drop his brother off. So I understand that. But that's the times where he's, like not listening to me and I have to wait for like [25-75] minutes until he comes back. Mm hmm. But that's the only time.

Speaker 1 [00:29:28] Okay. All right. And. inaudible All right. So there's only two questions for this, and I hope you don't mind about it, but feel free to say if it's too sensitive for you. And I just wanted to know more about your physical intimacy as a couple. Would you like to continue?

Speaker 2 [00:30:11] Yeah, sure.

Speaker 1 [00:30:12] Okay. So these days, how often do you have sex?

Speaker 2 [00:30:16] [yes/no].

Speaker 1 [00:30:19] All right. And I guess so. Yeah, the other one doesn't apply. All right, So just moving on. Um, you said. inaudible Right. So along the lines of your response or your answer to being completely satisfied, did the relationship fulfill your expectations?

Speaker 2 [00:30:55] Oh, yeah, that this was exactly at least when I was there. Okay. If something, I guess would be useful to you is that when I started dating him, I did not even think of a relationship before. It was just something that I. I wouldn't say impulsively, but it just happened in the flow of things. A week before, if you had told me I was going to be dating someone, I'd be like, what are you talking about?

Speaker 1 [00:31:15] Yeah

Speaker 2 [00:31:17] I think because we're here, you're after. Like, it definitely proves that it was a lot more than just an impulsive decision, but. But it definitely so I did not have any expectations to begin with. But if at all, I did have any expectations from seeing my friends like I should not. This is not right that you're coming to me instead of your boyfriend or stuff like that. That definitely exceeds all my expectations that he's always putting me, number one, always treating me like a goddess. And yeah, I really like that Speaker 1 [00:31:48] Love that. So you would say like it's more of like standards that were fulfilled, I guess?

Speaker 2 [00:31:56] I Yeah, I do remember over quarantine because I was like on my phone a lot and I used to see all these relationship reels. I used to look at certain like post and be like, if there was ever a relationship. I feel like that's the stage we want to come to and that that was more like roasting each other, like, you know, insulting, like taking playful jabs at each other and still knowing that you're joking and like, because you're best friends in the relationship, right? So that because we were best friends before dating, that was already like, established and it still is there. So that is something else.

Speaker 1 [00:32:34] All right. So we're close to wrapping up. And I would just like to summarize what we talked about. All right. So just a little bit about yourself. You're [15-20] years old. You've been together [1-5] years. [yes/no] children. You live with your [family]. And your main source of income is [income]. And in terms of your love story, you met a school, you were friends for about [1-5] months and you said you weren't ready, but you gradually started developing feelings. And it sort of was like the realization of, like one day. And you like that he was emotionally available, understanding he was there for you. He's a family man. So mature, uses words, treats you with respect and compliments you very well.

In terms of comparing the quality of your relationship to that of your friends, you said that your friends have trouble communicating and. Kind of like reflecting on that.

The experiences of your friends. You realize that you're doing something right with your relationship. And you said you've had [0-5] romantic partners, but you've had talking stages and comparing talking stages to your relationship. Right now. It's. You released that.. Uhm.. I'm trying to piece my notes together. It's not just an emotional thing, but you don't get back to each other. And it's more of just a general healthy relationship. For what makes your relationship high quality or low quality? You said healthy. You pointed out that there will be arguments. And but it's the matter of how you would take on those arguments. You know, putting aside ego and communication. Communication healthy would be like telling your friends about arguments before you talk to your partner about them, about the issues. No communication, not prioritizing the relationship. And the most important thing in a relationship is- keeping each other like on check, basically having each other's back no matter what. And for love- you said that you see each other's flaws. You're not idealizing and you're being there with each other no matter what. Not because you have to, but because you want to. And you said that it's a it's very important to have love in a relationship. And you distinguish between infatuation and love. And you said that, you know, your partner loves you because he shows it to you every day. You mentioned the [scenario]. You gave like details. There's good morning text. There's posts that are being sent to each other. Constant updates as well. So you have no doubts that he doesn't or that he doesn't love you. And some challenges are just small disagreements, looking at things differently, having different views. And you said that you've had like [1-5] ball park fights, but they're mainly communication disagreements. You said about [1-5] months. But you give each other he gives you time that you need. He also listens to you and helps you rephrase your words when you're angry. Other ways that you maintain your relationship or words of affirmation. That's one of your love languages and you save those when you need, I guess, to remind yourself of those. And doing small things, like you mentioned the birthday example. Great. You said that the relationship is definitely good for you. It makes it a positive impact on you and it's not an attachment there. You're always trying to. He's always trying to make you a better person. And. And yeah, you said that the relationship did change you. He helps you pursue your goals, he motivates you and helps you with things and like going out of his way. You mentioned the singing and you said a violin, right?

Speaker 2 [00:37:38] Yeah, violin yeah.

Speaker 1 [00:37:43] And you value relationships more. Again, this is just like a summary, but I have more details in here. And you said, yeah, you feel very safe in the relationship. And you said an [5-10] for your partner usually really listens to you. It's a [5-10] for responsive to your needs and. And you're completely satisfied with your relationship. Yeah. Is there anything else you'd like to add?

Speaker 2 [00:38:18] Um, no. That's it. Yeah. All right.

Speaker 1 [00:38:22] Nope. So. So much. Now, before we end, I want to talk to you about how we handle the data. As a research project, we want to be as ethically transparent as possible. And so I wanted to know which data sharing option you're most comfortable with. So option one is that the transcript portions can be shared, none of which can be identified to you. So the de-identified transcript can also be read by other researchers or option two you,,if you... Is that the whole transcript can be shared. Where it removes sensitive and overly identifying details. So be anonymous. And although this in this option, there is very minimal chance that someone who knows you well can piece together like the details in the transcript and narrow down who among their colleagues they believe it is. And although again, no sensitive information will be shared. Of the two options which are more comfortable, which are you more comfortable with?

Speaker 2 [00:39:30] The transcript or you mean like the whole video? By translating like the whole video or like the notes that you took?

Speaker 1 [00:39:41] Both. Basically Both.

Speaker 2: Both? I would like it if my face isn't shown because.

Speaker 1 [00:39:46] Oh yeah, it will. It's just a video recording.

Speaker 2 [00:39:50] But the video recording? Okay. Yeah. So not my name, not my face, and not any sense of details, correct?

Speaker 1: Yeah.

Speaker 2 [00:39:56] Yeah. Okay, that's good. So the second option.

Speaker 1 [00:40:01] All right.

Speaker 1 [00:40:03] All right. So thank you again for participating in this study. And I would like to let you know that this is also being done in the Philippines, Brazil, Netherlands, France and the US. And for this study to be successful, there's also one more thing I would like to ask you if that's okay with you.

Speaker 2: Yeah.

Speaker 1: So could you recommend to people in your life as a nominator? So we would ask them for an additional couple that we would that would be interested in the study. But we we will be asking them for couples that you don't know or interact with. This way we can get as diverse of a network we can gather. Is that okay with you?

Speaker 2 [00:40:41] You want me to nominate a couple?

Speaker 1 [00:40:46] Yeah. So I'll give you like some, I guess, descriptives to see if anything comes up. So we're looking for heterosexual couples who have been together 20 plus years with low satisfaction. Or heterosexual couple who have been together 10 to 20 years with high satisfaction. Or an LGBT couple who have been together for any length with low satisfaction.

Speaker 2 [00:41:15] I don't know anyone who fits in that category, to be honest.

Speaker 1 [00:41:23] Okay, that's fine. Sorry. No, no problem. Right. So thank you. And that is pretty much it. Yeah. Is there anything you'd like to say or add?

Speaker 2 [00:41:33] Um, no. I just wanted to clarify about the posting thing, if that's okay. Yeah. So, would my voice come through?

Speaker 1 [00:41:41] No, no, no. It's more of, like, the date itself. Like, um, maybe scenarios or things like that, but no name, Nothing. All again, all the sensitive information will be, like, not shown.

Speaker 2 [00:41:55] Okay. Okay. That's good. Yeah. Right. All right. Thank you so much.

Speaker 1 [00:41:59] Yeah. Thank you. And have a nice day.

Speaker 2 [00:42:01] You too.
