

Speaker 1 [00:00:00] Okay. And just for like, to make sure that I capture on recording. Is recording all right with you?

Speaker 2 [00:00:00] Yes, it is.

Speaker 1 [00:00:00] All right. Perfect. So I hope you're having a good day, and thank you so much again for participating in this interview. As mentioned over email, we want to know more about your views or romantic relationships, and we believe your experience and perspective would bring much to this project. So I'll just start to get to know you better. How old are you?

Speaker 2 [00:00:31] I'm [15-20] right now. Yes.

Speaker 1 [00:00:33] All right. And how long have you been together with your partner?

Speaker 2 [00:00:37] For? Basically [1-5] years. Yeah, we only celebrated our [1-5] year last week.

Speaker 1 [00:00:43] Okay, great. Congrats! All right. And do you guys have children?

Speaker 2 [00:00:49] No.

Speaker 1 [00:00:50] Okay. And who lives in your household?

Speaker 2 [00:00:54] [Family].

Speaker 1 [00:01:06] All right. And what is your main source of income or your current job?

Speaker 2 [00:01:11] [Occupation].

Speaker 1 [00:01:19] All right. And how would you like me to address your partner? Boyfriend, partner, girlfriend, lover by name.

Speaker 2 [00:01:29] Like lover or girlfriend, whichever one goes to.

Speaker 1 [00:01:35] Girlfriend. So that's fine. Yeah. All right. So just from now on, I'll be asking some, like, contacts and your views on relationship qualities. So. Yeah. So tell me about your love story.

Speaker 2 [00:01:49] So basically, we both met at a home room husky type period, and we met through, like, a mutual friend and just over like in a span of [1-5] month, I would say like, it was a, basically [1-5] month and [1-5] week more. We just kind of developed our feelings for each other, and it happened. Yeah.

Speaker 1 [00:02:11] And how did those feelings develop? What were you thinking? What were you feeling exactly?

Speaker 2 [00:02:17] So from my end, it was more of, like a love at first sight type of thing. I just immediately saw her, and it was just an instant. Instant warmth and comfort after seeing her. And I, for me, it was that I had those feeling I didn't know what it was, because it was my first ever experience with true love. And so it took me a couple of days to actually process what I was thinking. But after two days, I realized what it was, and what it was about.

Speaker 1 [00:02:44] Mhm. And what exactly was that process of thinking?

Speaker 2 [00:02:48] That process of thinking was just kind of like, with questioning on what this new found feeling was. And I realize that it was like true, true love. It wasn't anything that wasn't like a crush type thing. It was actual true love.

Speaker 1 [00:03:07] Yeah. And you said true love and, like, not a crush thing. So what exactly, what, what is your definition of true love?

Speaker 2 [00:03:14] My true love is something where no matter what, you're always going to be with that person, no matter your ups and downs, no matter if any, like slight happens in there, you just know that, like, you'll fix it, you'll be okay, and you will like flaws. You know?

Speaker 1 [00:03:36] And I guess, how would you flourish? Do you think?

Speaker 2 [00:03:41] Just trying or talking. Just being yourself, number one and number two, being okay with not being okay. Either that is with yourself or in a relationship. Understanding that things happen. It's life. You know, something can happen to you personally, and you might feel down, or something might happen between you and your partner, and you might go through a rough patch. But being okay, like, being okay with that phase or that thought, is how you'll flourish.

Speaker 1 [00:04:11] Great. And let's see, in terms of your perspective and that of your friends, how would you compare your, the quality of your relationship to that of your friends' relationship?

Speaker 2 [00:04:27] I would say that my quality of relationship is better. I don't want to rank us, but from an outside perspective, people would say that me, the relationship between my partner is a lot stronger, a lot more, just better than my friends.

Speaker 1 [00:04:45] Okay. And what exactly would make it less, better, or less stronger for your friend's relationship?

Speaker 2 [00:04:55] Me and my partner, we tend to communicate our feelings and our thoughts a lot more than my friends in their relationships, and that's pretty much. Yeah. We we just communicate. We're, we're open to being more sensitive and more communicative. Can communicate more and more like we're able to communicate our thoughts and feelings rather than just holding them and bottling them.

Speaker 1 [00:05:19] Great. And. Um, could I ask how many romantic partners you've had in the past?

Speaker 2 [00:05:29] [0-5].

Speaker 1 [00:05:32] All right. All right. So what we kind of talked a bit about this, but tell me more about what makes a relationship high quality.

Speaker 2 [00:05:44] High quality is number one, just being open. Being open with your feelings, whether that's your dealing with your partner's feelings because they also matter to you, but also dealing with yours and helping each other out, deal with and process those emotions. And at the same time, understanding that a relationship is not always 50/50. You know, sometimes life gets in the way, so maybe one person can pretend so that the other person can ask to step up and be like, you know what? You're that you that you're that we we want. You know? So, just being there for each other is definitely what will make our relationship solid. Yes.

Speaker 1 [00:06:23] And what would you say makes a relationship a low quality?

Speaker 2 [00:06:27] Low quality is, I guess, when, in my personal experience, seeing other people seeing that like ego clash, where it's like you're not able to let go of toxic traits, of like ego or bottling up emotions that are affecting you, but also affect your relationship and your partner, which can cause an unsteady or unstable relationship.

Speaker 1 [00:06:53] Mhm. I agree. And. And tell me how you think a couple would know whether they're high quality or low quality.

Speaker 2 [00:07:17] I think the best way for that is to just look back and see how long you've come. Because I know a lot of relationships, especially at this age, kind of tend don't last that long and just kind of become on and off.

Speaker 1 [00:07:33] Yeah.

Speaker 2 [00:07:34] But if two people who are partners live in the moment, that moment, that time just kind of you don't think about it; it just flies by. So then, when you do get a chance to think about it, and you look back, all you think is all the good things and how far you've come rather than all the fights and all the low points. I think that is what establishes when you reflect on your relationship. What do you think about most, the good or the bad? If it's the good, then it's a good, stable, healthy relationship. But if it's a bad, then it's kind of opposite.

Speaker 1 [00:08:11] Hmmm, well, what do you say your relationship was, let's say, more of low quality compared to high quality and vice versa?

Speaker 2 [00:08:23] Wait, so I don't. Can you repeat the question? I didn't get it.

Speaker 1 [00:08:26] Yeah. When would you say your relationship was at its lowest or at its highs?

Speaker 2 [00:08:31] I would say when there was a lot of interpersonal stuff going on between my family, my partner's family, and myself that, we had to handle it independently. So that kind of caused us to butt heads a little bit and kind of be not really there for each other when that was kind of when a point in time when we were supposed to. But due to our own personal problems, we weren't able to. So that led to a low point.

Speaker 1 [00:09:02] Hmmm, got it. And what is the most important things in a relationship?

Speaker 2 [00:09:09] The most important thing is number one, I think I would say that love is definitely not an easy thing, nor is it a perfect thing. You can both both people have to accept that love is. Something where you kind of have to workout at the same time. It's not it's not going to be perfect. But if you're just true to it, and you're kind of loyal to that love, and that feeling, and that affection, that will definitely lead to a happy, healthy relationship. And then also the same thing like you have to kind of, it's not always 50/50. If one person can't do as much, then the other person should definitely be able to butt in and stand out like, Hey, you know, I can help you out. It's okay. Everything will be fine like that. Just those two are the key points.

Speaker 1 [00:10:13] And I, we kind of talked about this a bit, but what is love? What exactly is love?

Speaker 2 [00:10:21] For me, at least, it's someone that you can look at every day and any time and always think that she is the one. You know, she she is definitely the one that I want to be with, no matter what. No matter even if it's in the middle of an argument or just laying together watching a movie. If you can look at your partner and say this shit, no matter what happens, I want to be with her. That's for sure, love.

Speaker 1 [00:10:45] What do you think comes? What do you think things or like situations would lead up to that make you realize that? Yeah.

Speaker 2 [00:11:02] I think that's just like an inner feeling of just of being both comfortable with yourself to accept that feeling, and at the same time, comfortable with yourself to say that. This is the way that my life is going. I don't I don't know where we'll go, but I'm happy that I'm going on with my, with my significant other.

Speaker 1 [00:11:25] Yeah. So sweet. And how important is love in a relationship?

Speaker 2 [00:11:31] I think that is the number one thing, because I think without love, there can be no relationship, whether it's with your partner or with your family. Like I said, the number one.

Speaker 1 [00:11:48] How do you know your partner loves you?

Speaker 2 [00:11:51] Um, there's always. With my partner, there's always a little, like, shining in her eye that only I can see. But whenever we're alone together, you know, and also certain things that she says makes me feel love. And the fact that she actually, like, cares for me.

Speaker 1 [00:12:23] And what do you, what would you say are the challenges in your relationship?

Speaker 2 [00:12:28] The challenges are, definitely, like the entire family relationships that we both kind of separately go through, which are kind of bleed in through each other and maybe our insecurities, which would later bleed into our relationship. And yeah, certain things that.

Speaker 1 [00:12:50] Could you give me an example of something that you're comfortable with sharing?

Speaker 2 [00:12:56] Yeah. So I would say, like for me, if my parents kind of might want to, like, argue about me with my grades or something, I can get a little like shut off and be a little bit more quiet, which can kind of lead to. I want to say like an argument, but it can definitely meet a moment where me and my partner are both like, okay, we kind of need to give each other a little bit of time to be alone. You know?

Speaker 1 [00:13:21] I love how you guys are just, you know, like making sure they each other okay. I love that. Okay. And I guess, like, in terms of when there's an interpersonal relationship with your family members, that conflict and you guys have feel a certain way. Do you guys fight, or how do you like what happens?

Speaker 2 [00:13:50] Um, sometimes we do fight, honestly. Sometimes, we can both kind of be a little bit. A little bit more like we might come from an argument with our parents and come in mean we talk to each other and we can still be in that like anger. So we do kind of lash out at each other. But if we, if we give each other some time and talk it out afterward with a clearer mind, we can definitely apologize for anything that was said because me and her kind of both tend to when we're in a little bit of an emotional state we'll say things that we don't mean at all. So we are both that we're both willing to accept that. Hey, I didn't mean that. I apologize.

Speaker 1 [00:14:35] Great! And what are other ways that you maintain your relationship?

Speaker 2 [00:14:41] Definitely, just doing all of those little things where it's like depending on each other's mood, we might be like, Hey, I was looking forward to being at my friend's for the whole week, but I realize that you're not doing okay, so I'd rather be with you, like those little things or just knowing each other like, Hey, I know what food you're like, I'm going to go get it for you or like, surprise you with that food or with a certain gift stuff that those little things can keep definitely the love to flourish and continue for sure.

Speaker 1 [00:15:25] And how would you like it categorized? I'm curious. What do you say that, that's like a sacrifice? When you gave the example of like, I look forward to being with my friends, but since you're kind of like in a specific type of mood, I would love to spend more time with you. Would you say that is a sacrifice or?

Speaker 2 [00:15:44] I wouldn't say it was a sacrifice. But more like a priority of saying that like you're my number one priority. If you're not okay, then I won't even fully enjoy being with my friends.

Speaker 1 [00:15:55] Mhm. Got it. And would you say that the relationship is good for you?

Speaker 2 [00:16:01] Yes, it definitely is.

Speaker 1 [00:16:06] And why do you think so?

Speaker 2 [00:16:07] Uh, after reading her, like, not even getting to relationship with her yet, but just reading her itself, I felt myself become a better person. Emotionally speaking, I was a lot more happier, a less more like an emotional swing. Just being, like, angry. One second, happy one second. I was more mellowed out. So, she definitely brought a change. Even before the relationship and after the relationship, there was like an exponential growth that I felt.

Speaker 1 [00:16:39] And can you provide me, like, an example? Mhmm.

Speaker 2 [00:16:42] Mhmm. Yeah. So before meeting her, I was very like, I would, I would say, almost depressed where I was, like, sad all the time, but I was definitely very emotional. Like, the smallest things would make me very upset and very, like, self-hate type of person. I had before meeting her. But then, after meeting her, I realized like who I truly am, who I am, who I want to be come, and what steps I can take to become that person. And definitely been a lot more loving to myself.

Speaker 1 [00:17:21] Mhm. What do you think caused that?

Speaker 2 [00:17:24] I think just that notion of no matter what I think and no matter what I say about myself; there's always going to be one person that I know truly on this planet who isn't blood related to me will also see me for who I am and what I think other people see me as or what I see myself as, but rather someone who, who truly does care for me how they see, and that what they say and how they're trying to help me truly does matter and that they're trying to make me be better. Not if not in the sense of like you're trash right now, be better, more of you're doing really good now. Keep doing it like that. Motivate that motivation. She can definitely do. And when I do kind of stare off patches like, hey, you know, come back on track, you were doing really good. Keep it.

Speaker 1 [00:18:16] So, just to make sure I understand, is more like changing perspectives in case you're thinking of a negative negatively and also keeps you in check

Speaker 2 [00:18:27] Exactly.

Speaker 1 [00:18:28] Okay. Got it. That's really nice.

Speaker 2 [00:18:30] Yeah, that was almost perfect the way you put it.

Speaker 1 [00:18:34] And would you say that the relationship changed you?

Speaker 2 [00:18:40] Yes, definitely. I'm a lot more like you said - my perspective changed on not myself but even as life itself. And I was starting to take life more in a more positive way. Definitely.

Speaker 1 [00:18:59] What about your partner or your girlfriend? Did they change during the relationship?

Speaker 2 [00:19:03] Yes. They were also kind of like in the same same boat as me, where we were both kind of looking at life in a more negative way and certain aspects a little bit more negative, like our future, maybe our emotions. We were thinking more negative. But after meeting each other, she has, or at least in my eyes, she's actually like a lot of growth in that positive way of saying that. Like, this is life. Life is going to be hard, but we can't always get back up if we fall down definitely.

Speaker 1 [00:19:37] And would you say you feel safe in the relationship?

Speaker 2 [00:19:40] Definitely. I feel about 1,000% special.

Speaker 1 [00:19:43] And why do you say so?

Speaker 2 [00:19:45] Just because she's, she's always like the type of person that whenever I do want to talk about my feelings, she never judges me for it. She always makes sure that whatever I am saying, she will always hear, and she would always, she would always make herself. She would always. I'm blanking on what the word is, but she would always make sure that, like, she she would always make sure that I know that she is paying attention by like putting into the conversation saying, hey, I understand what you're feeling. You know, I get it. That type of stuff really makes me feel safe and comforted during the times that I need to.

Speaker 1 [00:20:27] All right. So, with this one, some of the questions here. Oh, share my screen. And it's kind of like a like a Likert Scale.

Speaker 2 [00:20:39] Okay.

Speaker 1 [00:20:44] Okay. Okay. So, for the first one. So I'll be just asking you. What you would rate? And I'll just be taking notes on the side. Okay, So. So, for the first one, my partner usually really listens to me.

Speaker 2 [00:21:05] That's a [5-10].

Speaker 1 [00:21:10] All right. And why do you say so?

Speaker 2 [00:21:13] Because, like I said like, she always makes sure that she always gives me her attention as well as when when I when we are having a really long talk of something, she always mentions to like a little bit and say, I understand. Oh, wow, that's really cool. She, she's an active listener, and I can feel that.

Speaker 1 [00:21:35] Okay. And. Why not an [5-10]?

Speaker 2 [00:21:40] [5-10] because I don't know. Whenever, whenever I do, when I talk to her, I can only see that, like she will put her phone down. She also shows little things like she'll make sure that when when we're on call, she have me maximize to put her phone down, not without even telling, but she would just do it automatically. So, that's why.

Speaker 1 [00:22:00] Right. The next one, my partner usually is responsive to my needs.

Speaker 2 [00:22:04] Yeah, for sure. This is an [5-10].

Speaker 1 [00:22:07] And why do you say so?

Speaker 2 [00:22:09] Just because, like, whenever I really do need her in very difficult times, mentally, physically, whatever. She's always there for me. Definitely, always, always there.

Speaker 1 [00:22:25] And why not a [5-10]?

Speaker 2 [00:22:28] Because there are also times in her life where she needs some alone time. So, just something that sometimes that timing is a little off. So she's not, she's always there, but it's not her fault. She kind of goes to her own thing.

Speaker 1 [00:22:43] Okay. Why not a [5-10]?

Speaker 2 [00:22:47] Just because she's always there like 99.99% of the time. So.

Speaker 1 [00:22:57] Okay, next one. How satisfied are you with your relationship?

Speaker 2 [00:23:03] Completely satisfied.

Speaker 1 [00:23:15] All right. And why do you say so?

Speaker 2 [00:23:20] Uh, just because whatever I thought was the ideal relationship she has given me. And on top of that, she's giving me. She has always given me extra. So that's why I can completely say I come with an excitement.

Speaker 1 [00:23:42] Oops. Okay. Yep. That is it. And now, we're moving on to the next question. Okay. Okay. And yeah, so for the first one. For my partner usually really listens to me, you said a [5-10]. And for, well, my partner is usually responsive to my needs, you give an [5-10]. And then satisfied? You gave me completely satisfied. All right. And for each of them, if you don't mind, I'll ask again. Could you just give me one small example? So, my partner usually really listens to me.

Speaker 2 [00:24:48] Yeah. So the ones, for example, is that she always whenever I, whenever I do really want to talk to her, she always puts her phone down and she makes sure that she there, she gives me all her whole attention without me asking them.

Speaker 1 [00:25:04] All right. And or my partner is usually responsive to my needs.

Speaker 2 [00:25:12] Whenever I'm going through something mentally about myself, she's, she's always there. She has never, ever said, no, I need to do something else, or I can't deal with you right now. She's never, ever said that. She's always there.

Speaker 1 [00:25:29] And. Yeah. Okay. So yeah, so for for these. For these two questions, some people can see it as a bit sensitive. So feel free to let me know if, if you're not comfortable with the.

Speaker 2 [00:25:50] Okay.

Speaker 1 [00:25:52] So, I wanted to know more about your physical intimacy as a couple. Would you like to continue?

Speaker 2 [00:25:57] Okay. Yeah. Mhm.

Speaker 2 [00:25:58] Okay. So these days, how often do you have sex?

Speaker 2 [00:26:00] [0-5].

Speaker 1 [00:26:02] Okay. And. All right, so then the next question doesn't really apply. All right, great. So now, moving on. I'll just be asking a couple of questions about. Oh, wait. I already asked that. So that's the one about satisfaction. Okay. So, yeah. So, did the relationship fulfill your expectations?

Speaker 2 [00:26:34] Yes, definitely.

Speaker 1 [00:26:38] And you had mentioned that you didn't really know much about, like, the feeling of love. What expectation did you have before you started dating your girlfriend?

Speaker 2 [00:26:49] I definitely had the expectation. Expectation of like, definitely I think the best type or best type of love is the one that will always stay and will never wither away, rather that it would actually get stronger as time goes on, as well as a love that no matter how low we get, will never fade, will never go away. It will always be there. No matter what, that one.

Speaker 1 [00:27:18] All right. So we're close to wrapping up. And I would just like to summarize everything we talked about. So just you said you're [15-20] years old. You've been together with your partner for [1-5] years. You don't have any children. And in your household, you live with your [family]. You work at [occupation]. And in terms of like your love story, you said that you met through a mutual friend, and within [1-5] month, the feelings developed. There was love at first sight because you also felt this feeling of comfort. And you said that true love. Yeah, that it was a new feeling, and it took you time to assess it. And that's when you realized that it was true love. And you said that true love, by definition, is more than just a crush. So, no matter the ups and the downs, you will fix it with each other and flourish. And you're okay with being not okay and either with yourself or in the relationship. And in terms of relationship quality, you said that compared to your friends, yours is better and stronger, and you can't. And for that reason, because you can communicate your feelings and thoughts more than your friends. You said you had your romantic partners in the past, and in terms of high quality or low quality, any relationship in general. You said that high quality is determined by being open with feelings so that with yourself and your other and your other partner and, you're helping each other with either emotions. And you said that the relationship is not always 50/50, but as long as you're being together, that's what determines high quality. And then low quality is more of like having an equal clash and not being able to let go of toxic traits. And looking back at how long you think, what was the question available in terms of like when your relationship was the least quality or the highest quality? You said that when you look back at how long you become, if it's, if you see it as a positive thing, it's most likely high quality. And if it's a bad thing, then it's low quality.

Speaker 2 [00:27:47] Exactly.

Speaker 1 [00:27:49] And the most important thing in a relationship is, is love. And that it's not an easy or nor perfect thing. So you need to have that loyalty to love and affection. So, giving words of affirmation like everything will be all right, you know, giving you comfort. And for you, love is when someone you can look at anytime. They're there for you no matter what. And it's an inner feeling. It's comfortable and either with your self and in the relationship. And you said that love is the number one thing that's important in a relationship and that without love, there's no relationship. And that goes with partners or family. And you said that you know, your partner loves you because there's that shine in her eye. So you can see. And there are things that she says makes you aware that she cares about you.

Some challenges or the interpersonal relationship with each other's family. That kind of bleeds into the relationship. So, in terms of like communication or mood. One example you gave is that when parents, when you argue with your parents about [academics], you need to, you kind of should shut off, and you have to give each other time with your partner, but you end up. And that leads me to the next question that was answered about the fighting.

You talk it out. You clear your mind to apologize to each other because sometimes you say things that you don't really mean, and in a way, you're taking accountability. Other ways that you maintain the relationship are doing the little things. So you give the example of like wanting to look forward to a specific event, but then assisting your partner. So it's like that priority. Right? And making surprising things, surprising your partner with little things, right? That they like. And then. You said that the relationship is definitely good for you after meeting her. You feel like you've become a better person emotionally. You're happier. There's an exponential growth. And you also feel like a constant feeling of, like you said, mellowed out, right?

Speaker 2 [00:32:32] Yeah.

Speaker 1 [00:32:35] Before her you, you said you were [mental health]. Not not sad, but emotional. So. You would have, like, [mental health] type of feelings, but now you're more loving to yourself and, and she reminds you of that. Like no matter what you think or feel, she's kind of always going to the fact that she's there for you. Right. And that she sees you as what you truly are. It changes your perspective, and it keeps you in check. And you said that, yeah, the relationship did change you, and they changed as well in a similar perspective, like changing negative aspects to a more growth mindset type of view. And you said you definitely feel safe that she's the type of person to not judge. What you're feeling, she listens and vocalizes understanding and gives comfort overall. So. And so, for the Likert Scale, and my partner usually really listens to me. You said a [5-10] because she gives attention and also active, actively listens, and not an [5-10] because she's reliable and goes out of her way. My partner is usually responsive to my needs. You said an [5-10] when you really need it, when they're stuck, there's difficult times. She's always there for you. And not in [5-10]. Because sometimes she needs a lot of time, and the time can be off and not a [5-10] because 99% of the time she's, she's there for you.

Speaker 2 [00:34:36] Yeah.

Speaker 1 [00:34:45] And oh. And for satisfaction, you said that you're completely satisfied because there, the needs are fulfilled, and she goes out of her way to do extra.

Speaker 2 [00:35:00] Exactly.

Speaker 1 [00:35:01] Yeah.

Speaker 2 [00:35:01] Exactly.

Speaker 1 [00:35:06] Okay. And in terms of your sex life, there are [5-10] times. And you've said that the relationship does fill your expectations because your expectations had to do with like that. The person will always be there for you, and you will grow stronger, and or the feelings will grow stronger, and they will never fade, no matter what. All right. Yeah, that's pretty much. Is there anything else you'd like to add?

Speaker 2 [00:35:44] No. That's pretty much it. Okay.

Speaker 1 [00:35:46] So thank you so much. And now, before we end, I want to talk to you about how we handle the data. So, as a research project, we want to be as ethically transparent as possible. And so I wanted to, I wanted to know which data sharing option you're most comfortable with. So option one is that the transcript portions can be shared, none of which can be identified to you. So, the de-identified transcript can also be read by other researchers. Or option two if you were bolder. Another way and another option is that the whole transcript can be shared, but it will remove sensitive and overly identifying details. So would be, so those details would not be shared. Although, in this option, there is very minimal chance that someone who knows you well can piece together the details in the transcript and narrowed down who among their colleagues they believe it is. And although again, no sensitive information will be shared of the two options which is most comfortable for you.

Speaker 2 [00:36:59] The second one is most comfortable.

Speaker 1 [00:37:04] Okay. All right. So, thank you again for participating in the study. And I would like to let you know that this is also being done in the Philippines, Brazil, Netherlands, France, and the US. And for this study to be successful, there's also one more thing I would like to ask you. If that's okay for you? Could you recommend to close people in your life as a nominator? We would ask them for additional couples that might be interested in the study. So, we'll be asking them for couples that you don't know or interact with. And this way, we can get as diverse of a network we can get. Is that okay with you?

Speaker 2 [00:37:42] Yeah, sure.

Speaker 1 [00:37:43] Do you have someone in mind?

Speaker 2 [00:37:44] I do, yes.

Speaker 1 [00:37:46] Okay. And I just keep in mind, it has, it has to be one of the requirements that I send over the email.

Speaker 2 [00:37:57] Okay.

Speaker 1 [00:37:58] Do you have their name?

Speaker 2 [00:38:00] Yes. Well, could you just say what those requirements were?

Speaker 1 [00:38:04] Yeah. So, since we already did the first one. So heterosexual couples who have been together 20 plus years with low satisfaction or who have been together 10 to 20 years with high satisfaction, or an LGBT couple who have been together for any length with low satisfaction.

Speaker 2 [00:38:29] Okay. I think with those requirements, I don't really know anybody.

Speaker 1 [00:38:34] Okay, that's fine.

Speaker 2 [00:38:34] Great. Sorry.

Speaker 1 [00:38:36] Yeah, no problem. All right. So, all right. So, yeah, that's pretty much it. So then if you could tell your girlfriend to...

Speaker 2 [00:38:47] Yes

Speaker 1 [00:38:48] Join again. Sorry. Could you remind me her name, please?

Speaker 2 [00:38:51] It was.

Speaker 1 [00:38:51] All right. Thank you.

Speaker 2 [00:38:58] Of course. Do I just leave and tell her to join? Or do I wait until she joins?

Speaker 1 [00:39:01] Yes, please.

Speaker 2 [00:39:02] Okay.

Speaker 1 [00:39:03] Yes please.

Speaker 2 [00:39:04] All right. Have a great day.

Speaker 1 [00:39:05] You too.
